Staying Motivated

1-Set Goals

It's a lot easier to stay motivated when you feel like you've accomplished something. By setting personal and professional long and short term goals you're giving yourself an objective to strive for; something to achieve. Goals are better fulfilled when written in a manner that can be easily referenced on a daily basis.

2-Stack the Deck

Keeping interested and motivated is directly correlated to achieving established goals. Set yourself up for more success than failures by being realistic in your goal setting. Small bite-sized tasks should be executed at first. As you get more and more successes under your belt make your goals more ambitious.

3-Retreat but DON'T Surrender

Never give up on projects or problems. Taking time to strategize would work better in your favor rather than acting impulsively. Solving challenging problems will build confidence and knowledge.

4-Follow your Progress

Seeing how far you've come from is an excellent motivational tool. If you don't stop ever so often to see where you were a couple of months ago compared to where you are now, you might surprise yourself how much you've accomplished.
