

Vaping Prevention and Education Marijuana Vaping Can Harm Youth

Free Webinar for Parents and Community Members

Marijuana vaping is on the rise among youth. Research shows it can harm brain development, alter nerve cell function and make adolescent brains more susceptible to other addictive drugs.

Parents and community members are invited to join an educational webinar on vaping prevention. The event features Dr. Barry Hummel, Jr., FAAP and CEO of QuitDoc Foundation. It is sponsored by Broward County Public Schools (BCPS) and community partners.

The webinar is intended for adult participants and may be inappropriate for children.
