Instructional Support for Students in Quarantine

Dear parent/guardian,

This quick guide provides you with the instructional supports available to your student during their quarantine. Students are not required to submit assignments or attend their class. These supports are available to prevent students from falling too far behind. Contact your child's school counselor with questions or concerns.

- Students may access assignments on Canvas. Go to each teacher's Canvas course to view and submit assignments.
- Students are not required to submit assignments and should not be penalized while under quarantine. This is simply to prevent students from falling behind.

- Students may access a live feed into their teacher's classroom via Microsoft Teams.
- Students must remain on mute during the live feed. Students may use the chat. Teachers are not required to respond directly to students via Teams.

- For tutoring and direct instructional support from a certified teacher, students may use Ask B.R.I.A.
- The link to access can be found in all Canvas courses in the left side navigation menu.
- Ask B.R.I.A. is available during and after school.

- School-issued laptops are available to students in need. Let your child's school counselor know.
- Mr. Richards, our school Micro-Tech Specialist will contact you to schedule a date and time to sign the laptop out.

The School Board of Broward County, Florida, prohibits any policy or procedure which results in discrimination on the basis of age, color, disability, gender identity, gender expression, genetic information, marital status, national origin, race, religion, sex or sexual orientation.
