WASHINGTON B. COLLADO, PH.D.

Dr. Collado began his career in education in 1986 in New York where he taught Spanish and English as a Second Language in New York City Public Schools. In 1992, he and his family moved to Florida and continued teaching at Miami-Dade Public Schools. In 1998, he moved to Broward County Public Schools' Multicultural Department to write curriculum and conduct trainings for teachers and administrators on the contributions of Latinos, African Americans, and Women throughout the History of the United States. Dr. Collado began his career in school administration as an assistant principal at Broward County Public Schools and was promoted to principal in 2005. He has served 17 years as principal at the middle and high school levels and past-president of the Broward Principals and Assistants Association (BPAA).

In February, 2021, Dr. Nino Collado received the distinction of Principal of the Year for Broward County Public Schools, the nation's 6th largest school district. Dr. Collado is also an adjunct professor at Florida Atlantic University teaching courses on educational leadership.

Throughout his career, Dr. Nino Collado has devoted much of his time to teaching and orienting and has travelled to various countries and over 20 states as a motivational speaker on matters of school leadership and family engagement. He has also served as panelist at CNN Español, NPR (New York), Telemundo, Univision, and others. He has written over 100 articles for newspapers and magazines, including the Miami Herald and has also published four books:

- Parents, Don't Forget your Homework (2009),
- Padres, no olviden su tarea (2004),
- Liderazgo y escuelas efectivas (2014).
- Beyond Conversations About Race (June, 2021)

Dr. Collado has received several honors and recognitions for his work in schools and communities.
