1 Officer.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Dr. Mancini?

DR. MANCINI: Good morning, Task Assigned Chief Academic Officer, Nicole Mancini.

MR. MAYERSOHN: And thank you for being here.

DR. MANCINI: You're welcome.

MR. MAYERSOHN: In the back?

MS. MARQUARDT: Michele Marquardt, Office of the Chief Auditor.

MS. CONWAY: Ann Conway, Office of the Chief Auditor.

MS. HARPALANI: Jennifer Harpalani, Office of the Chief Auditor.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Got it. We're all here. And Dr. Lynch-Walsh has returned.

All right. So going back up, can I get an approval of the Agenda for November 18th? The only -- the only thing that I would like to change, because I don't know where we're going to go from a time standpoint, is Item Number 14, which is Revised Audit Committee Meeting Dates, if I can include that in my -- if I can include that in my Audit Committee Chair Comments I'd like to do that so we can get a motion to approve and at least get that out of the way.

So those are the only -- my recommendations for the change and approval of the change of the Agenda.

Are there any other comments, questions or concerns?

(No response.)

MR. MAYERSOHN: Ms. Disch.

All those in favor signify by saying aye.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS: Aye.

MR. JABOUIN: Thank you, Mr. Mayersohn.

board established advisory committees, we have had all the committee members complete it except

Regarding the online training for school for one. The one individual was having some 25 technical issues and I will work with them. It's not due to lack of trying, it's just due to some technical matters, so we are almost there.

And then on the acknowledgment for school board advisory committee member forms, we have all of them except for two and we will try to obtain the remaining two at this meeting.

Regarding the audit committee agenda timeframes, we have provided them to district staff. Some of them will be coming in and out of the meeting and attending the various sections on the reports that impact them. We do know that these are only as a guide. We discussed the timing of the meetings in the November 1st meeting.

The minutes to those particular meetings, that meeting will be at the January committee meeting as we did receive them but we received them after the package went out and I have not had a chance to review them. But we do have the minutes from the November 1st audit committee virtual meeting.

We are thankful for the committee members to be able to attend and volunteer their time for this meeting. We realize that you have many responsibilities outside of the district and time you spend with us, we appreciate your time, we appreciate your expertise, and I'm very grateful for the comments that you had in order to enhance the plan of the different areas that I have to review.

With respect to what Mr. Mayersohn mentioned as far as the meeting dates, there was discussion in the November 1st meeting to have a monthly meeting. Looking at some of the different responsibilities and tasks on our plate, we, for example, could not have a December meeting just given the December holidays and so forth. we've tried to do is move up the January meeting and some of the subsequent meetings. And so the schedule that you have includes one more meeting. And I put some logic in that schedule as to why some of the decisions were made. And then going into next year we'll build in some more meetings in order to be able to accomplish the different tasks that are on the committee's plate.

Thank you very much, Mr. Mayersohn, that's -- this concludes my administrative matters.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. Do we have any public speakers on non-agenda items.

MR. JABOUIN: No, there are no public

1 speakers.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. Moving to Item Number 6, first, let's take care of moving up Item Number 14. Are there any objections or can I get a motion for Item Number 14, which is the Revised Audit Committee Meeting Dates?

MR. JABOUIN: So if you look at the package, Mr. Medvin, and flip over to Item 14 there is a one-page document with the revised dates. The dates that are on the agenda are the previous dates.

MR. MEDVIN: Got it.

MR. MAYERSOHN: You got it? Any questions; concerns; comments? None?

MS. DISCH: I have a question. So January 20th, why was that one moved, was that just --

MR. JABOUIN: So in order to try to move -- include --

MS. DISCH: Because there's none in December?

MR. JABOUIN: So we moved it up because we do have some reports that we would like to get into that meeting. We had the original date of the 27th, but we're trying to get more meetings in, so we moved that one up from the 27th to the 20th and then we established one for February.

So the old date of the 27th was at the end of January. So the old thinking was that we didn't have one in February, let's do it in late January, but now we're moving them up. So if I kept it at the 27th, then we'd have a February meeting on the 24th, shortly there afterwards.

MS. DISCH: Like a month after.

MR. JABOUIN: Yeah. And so, if you think about it, the package goes out the week before and then there's all the preparation for the meeting, so we need a little bit of time.

Does that date not work?

MS. DISCH: It's a little tough because that's my yearend close. So the one week was helpful. But if it works for everyone else I can try to make it work.

MR. JABOUIN: If we do, if the committee prefers to keep it on the 27th, again, I'd like to ask to maybe revisit it, because then the February one on the 24th becomes a little bit difficult.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Is there any objection to keeping it at the 27th? And when you say the 24th, moving it up, back?

MR. JABOUIN: I have to do a lot of checking on availability of the room and with people that are not here now. I also -- Ms. Shaw, who is not here, has historically had issues with the January meeting as well because she has, I believe her actuary is due around that timeframe, so she has historically had a January issue, as well.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Any comments?

Go ahead, Dr. Lynch-Walsh.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: So these dates -- well, I know I wasn't contacted about these dates ahead of time, so January 20th does not work for Hagen and the 27th or the 20th might not work for Phyllis. Or we don't know.

MR. MAYERSOHN: We don't know. She's not here.

MS. DISCH: I can try to make it work. I can try.

MR. MAYERSOHN: I mean, again, we're still missing bodies today and this was regularly scheduled. So, I mean, we asked for additional meetings. If we're asking for additional meetings it's not going to fall on every date we're all going to be able to make it.

MS. DISCH: The other dates are good. The March date is much better for me because it's definitely after I file the K, so I can definitely do the February and March. So if Phyllis has -- maybe we need to push this to a meeting that, you know, more people are at.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Yeah, and then the issue

I'm having is, because we don't have a district-wide advisory calendar, I'm supposed to be at central area right now but can't be because both meetings are scheduled at the same time, and

I'm not quite sure how that's happening, that two different advisory groups --

MS. DISCH: A master calendar would be helpful.

MR. MAYERSOHN: So what is our pleasure moving forward?

Again, this is something we asked for, something that, you know, there are constraints with this room or availability of reports and whatever may be. We either approve it; or amend it; or table it.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: I'm trying to check the calendar.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Mr. Barnes?

MR. BARNES: Are you looking for a motion?

MR. MAYERSOHN: I'm looking for a motion. I would like a motion.

MR. BARNES: My motion is that we proceed with the plan as suggested by the chief auditor.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Do I have a second?

MR. MEDVIN: I'll second.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Second by Mr. Medvin.

Is there any more discussion?

MR. MEDVIN: The timing, is it going to be 11 or are we going to adhere to the 10:30?

MR. JABOUIN: 11 a.m. would be the time unless I request it at a previous meeting and the committee approves it we'll do it at 11 a.m.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: So the 20th is, in fact -moving it to January 20th does move it to the same as central area, whereas before there wasn't a conflict.

MR. MAYERSOHN: So there's a motion on the floor, a second, that was just a -- is that a discussion point or that's just commentary?

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Well, I'm just checking dates and checking them twice.

MR. MAYERSOHN: If there's no further discussion, all those in favor signify by saying aye.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS: Aye.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Anybody opposed?

MR. MAYERSOHN: The ayes have it.

Moving on to Item Number 8, Office of the Chief Auditor Internal Funds Audits of Selected Schools.

MR. JABOUIN: Thank you. Agenda Item Number 8 is a consolidated report of internal funds audits of 30 schools. The audit was performed by Ann Conway and some of her team members.

So in the interest of time I won't go through the detailed discussion that I've had on the scope of the audit as we've discussed this before. But based on the procedures that were performed there were no internal funds exceptions in 23 of the 30 schools. Exceptions were noted in seven schools and those start after page 53. Those are the schools that had exceptions. And most of the exceptions related to negative balances in the funds and in some cases the accounts that are within the funds. So since the funds appear on the face of the financial statements, you can see the ones that have the negative balances on the funds. But there are some accounts that had negative balances within the funds and they net off with others that had positive ones.

So we tried to describe those instances in each of the school's reports. So if you were looking for some of the negative balances on the funds you saw them right on there, but the ones in the accounts are blended in there.

Now, in addition to the negative balances there were some vending machine accounting issues at Dillard. There was also a business practice bulletin update that we required at Dillard as well and then a transfer of vending machine receipts from -- into the faculty account.

Now, there are some accounting responsibility differences between the schools. So four of the seven schools the accounting services are done by the Business Service -- Business Support Center. And those are Dillard, Ely, Miramar, Pompano Beach Middle. And then three of the seven schools are not BSC schools. Those are Taravella, Plantation, Pompano Beach High.

Now, two of the seven schools had very small negative balances. You had one for $94 negative, one for $119 negative.

This is a regulatory audit. I mean, the audit general was here. But regardless of that, there's no materiality applied to that. It's a technical matter as to whether or not it's negative or it's positive. So on those particular schools, you know, that was the reason for those particular findings.

Ely and Taravella have had issues in the past that had been in front of the committee, but it is important to note that this is the first time in my three-and-a-half-year tenure at the school district that we've discussed negative balances at the schools. So if you think of the many internal funds audits that I've presented to the committee, they haven't had those issues, but we do have seven out of the 30, but it's seven out of 226 schools. And if you look at it over multiple years, it's not a common issue.

Now, I did spend time meeting with the individuals responsible and you see the action plans are here. I believe that they will mitigate the reoccurrence of this. There is enhanced communications that will be occurring between the different areas responsible. So those are part of the responses.

Now, we do have with us OSPA Chief, Dr. Valerie Wanza, as well as BSC Director, Ryan Smith, to answer any questions regarding the internal funds. But I will pause for the introduction of Committee Member Mary Fertig.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Welcome.

MS. FERTIG: Hi. Sorry.

MR. JABOUIN: One thing to note is that the report was printed before the board's organizational meeting. So when we move it over to the board we will reflect the current school board chair, Ms. Laurie Rich-Levinson, as well as the vice chair, Patricia Good, on the pages that reflect the previous board chair and vice chair.

So that concludes my introduction of the internal funds. We, as I mentioned, have the district staff available to answer any questions.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Are there any questions?

Mr. Medvin then Mr. De Meo.

MR. MEDVIN: Mr. Smith, your organization, from what I understand, is doing the full bookkeeping function for the schools that are so listed, which appears to be more and more 1 schools.

MR. SMITH: That is correct.

MR. MEDVIN: And the problem with the negative balances seems to be, to me, a procedural one due to a mistake, a mis-posting, that kind of thing, and it appears in your response, your response is that this is something that you are going to address, and I guess, Dr. Wanza, you're also a part of this, to make sure that they -- the people understand that you can't have a negative balance. Is that a fair understanding?

And also are more and more schools using your services as opposed to having an individual bookkeeper on-site.

MR. SMITH: Yes, that is a fair statement.

DR. WANZA: Yes, sir.

MR. MEDVIN: Okay. Now I have a general question which I think every year or so I ask. And that's, understanding the format and what these captions mean, and the basic format is the same with all the schools, and this term "trust" always, you know, bothers me because I'm not really sure what we're talking about. Could one of you please explain -- define what that is?

MR. JABOUIN: You wish to know what the trust fund is, Mr. Medvin?

MR. MEDVIN: Yeah, that line item on each of the financials.

MR. JABOUIN: Can I ask Ms. Conway to describe that for us? Thank you.

MS. CONWAY: This is Ann Conway. I'm the manager of internal funds audits.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Speak into your microphone.

MS. CONWAY: Ann Conway, manager, internal funds audits.

This setup is provided by the Department of Education. The Office of Financial Reporting tells us how to account for internal funds. And so they have broken them up into seven different fund types. And I think it -- some of it is self-explanatory, the athletics, music classes tend to contain the accounts that are for those types of organizations, clubs and departments. But when you get to the trust, usually what that is is money that's being held for a purpose. And some of it tends to flow through there. It's being held. Such as some of the aftercare receipts that are transmitted to the district, facility rentals that are transmitted to the district. Sometimes it's a scholarship fund or a donation fund that's being held for a certain purpose. And then the general fund is for the general welfare of the student body.

MR. MEDVIN: Okay. Now, the source of the receipts in these various accounts, is that budgetary items or is that from outside, from students?

MS. CONWAY: No, it's internal accounts. The money is generated within the school. It is collected from students, sometimes from staff, sometimes from outside. The school has a bookkeeper who handles that in a separate checking account that holds this money. This is not typically budget money.

MR. MEDVIN: Okay. But I also noticed
Western High School, the athletics account has a zero balance for the beginning of the period, which strikes me as a little odd. I would think, you know, a high school would have money in the athletic account all the time. And I noticed a significant difference between the total balances in some of the various high schools. I mean, Douglas is sitting with over a million dollars and some of the other schools are sitting with 1 200, give or take, the high schools.

How come there's such -- you know, in a district of many large schools, how come there's such a discrepancy in the amounts of some of the different schools?

DR. WANZA: So do you want me to start responding? Okay.

Good morning, again. Valerie Wanza, Chief School Performance & Accountability Officer. what I will say, the variance a lot of times is based on location, based on the socioeconomic area of the school. When you have a school where a booster club can raise over $200,000 and donate it to the school for a certain expenditure or a certain purpose -- you know, one of the things I will say, and I know you haven't asked the question yet, so when you look at Plantation High School and you look at Pompano Beach High School and you see the negative balance that occurred that first year in their athletic accounts, because regardless of the ticket sales, the cost for the referees and the officials and the security is the same. So that is why the district now is covering the cost for the officials and things that are just fixed standard costs for schools that their ticket sales -- some schools the ticket sales will cover them every year for two or three years and some schools the ticket sales will not cover them. Whether you have 50 students show up to a game or 5,000 students show up -- individuals, the fixed cost of the officials is the fixed cost. So it varies based on the socioeconomics of a school population. It varies based on the fundraising that may be profitable at some schools, may not realize the same outcomes at another school. So it truly is contextual.

MR. JABOUIN: Yeah, Mr. Medvin, when I first came on board I did look at those balances and I saw how they differed amongst the schools. What I ended up doing was just asking questions. And I found out how different some of the schools are. Their activities are different. The neighborhoods are different. So I did wonder, as well, how is it that some of those balances can be either large or small at one school and not at the next one? And then when you find out what's going on it helps explain it. Because the schools have similarities and they also have differences as well. And it's reflected in the 1 balances.

MR. MEDVIN: Well, back to my question about the source of the funds, and yet what you're saying is that certain fixed costs of athletics, for example, are now part of the school district's funding, and they're funding that.

Are they doing that for all high schools or is that selective?

DR. WANZA: So we're doing that across -- I put in my response, beginning this school year we are covering that across the board for all high schools.

MR. MEDVIN: Okay. Thank you.

DR. WANZA: You're welcome.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Mr. De Meo?

MR. DE MEO: Yeah, as a follow-up, I think this is for Ms. Conway, maybe Dr. Wanza. Do the negative balances represent an overdraft position in a cash account or is it an accounting of a funds?

MS. CONWAY: It's just on the book. It means an organization spent more money than they had available.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Speak into the mike.

MS. CONWAY: The organization spent more money than what was available to them. It does not represent bounced checks or anything like that. The schools still have funds, it's just that that organization overspent its resources.

MR. MAYERSOHN: They overspent their budget.

MR. DE MEO: So if the expenses exceed the revenue, is there some inter-fund transfer or in the case of, I guess, football programs, for example, where the ticket revenue isn't sufficient to cover some of the costs, does the district pick it up or --

In other words, how can you spend more -ultimately it comes down to cash; right? How can you spend more than you take in?

DR. WANZA: Do you want me to start, Ms. Conway?

MR. MAYERSOHN: Go ahead, Dr. Wanza.

DR. WANZA: So I'll use football. The schools are going to play 10 games. So the schedule is the schedule. The officials have to be paid, security has to be paid, regardless of the ticket sales. We're not going to tell the high school, your kids cannot go on the field and play because you don't generate enough ticket sales to cover the overhead. So that's a part of the -- you know, how can you expend more resources that you have available in your account? And then one of the things that schools realized is in the 19-20 school year, obviously, everyone knows in March we ended the school year in person, so all of the fundraising and things that they would have done to close the school year to balance out, all of that stopped. And in some cases we even had to start refunding parents for activities that would no longer take place because of the pandemic.

So I'm not making any type of excuses for why schools have negative balances in these accounts, but one of the things that we did recognize, and I used the athletics at the high school as the example, that regardless of how much a school is able to generate or not, there are certain fixed costs that must take place for the activity to run.

MR. DE MEO: Okay. So that's very clear.

Are there inter-fund transfers, that the general fund make up those differences, for example?

DR. WANZA: So Ms. Conway can explain that.

So I believe like in one of the schools there was a transfer from the staff account, the staff internal fund account, correct me if I'm wrong,

Ms. Conway, to cover one of the balances.

MS. CONWAY: Partially. There is transferring that happens within these accounts. But there are also limits. I mean, would you have the debate club paying for the football team?

MR. DE MEO: That's the essence of my question.

MS. CONWAY: Or -- you know, there's a certain amount of fairness, you know, that you have to consider in this.

MR. DE MEO: So do we audit for these things?

Are these -- do we look for compliance?

MS. CONWAY: Yes, yes.

MR. DE MEO: And so if one fund subsidizes another fund, if it was within the policies, then it's okay; right? If it's not, the OCA would report on it.

MR. JABOUIN: Yes. So, for example, vending machines is one where you could easily transfer from a different account to a different account.

But as it pertains to like a particular class, you wouldn't want to take from the seniors, its account into another. So there are some where there are more opportunities to be able to make such transfers.

Now, vending machines was also a revenue source that had also decreased, not just through the attendance at the schools, but also due to the health initiatives that were there as well. So the vending machine revenue had decreased. But that was an opportunity to make some transfers.

MR. DE MEO: So second question. The BCS, is that it?

MR. SMITH: Business Support Center, BSC.

MR. DE MEO: BSC. Is there a reason that the BSC handles the accounting, and I'm not sure the extent of the accounting that's done, is there a reason why it's not done throughout the system or how does that work; briefly?

DR. WANZA: So when the BSC was first initiated 10 years ago, I don't even remember how many years ago it was, the decision was that it would be an option -- schools would opt in; right? And there was extensive conversation when it was first created. And so some schools, because of the challenges that they've had, we've worked with the principal to transfer those business operations to the Business Support

Center because of historic site-based challenges.

And so -- but it is still right now a school choice to join the Business Support Center. But I do think the majority of the schools are a part of the Business Support Center.

MR. SMITH: That is correct, Doctor.

MR. DE MEO: Is there some fee for that? In other words, let's say a school has a bookkeeper and three administrative people, does BCS [sic] replace those four people or --

MR. SMITH: Yes, in the instance when a school signs on with the BSC we provide that support at an often reduced rate which creates cost savings for the individual schools. So we add the economy of scale in which our budget keepers can manage multiple sites as opposed to fixating on one. And the fee annually for that service for most elementary schools is $20,500 a year.

MR. DE MEO: BSC. Thank you.

MR. SMITH: My pleasure.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Ms. Fertig?

MS. FERTIG: Okay. It's been a long time since we've saw an audit coming like this from the schools, so I have several comments. One was, I thought the BSC was supposed to fix this problem of these posting errors, and so I found it alarming how many of the schools in this audit were --

MR. MAYERSOHN: Can you talk into your --

MS. FERTIG: Yes, I'm sorry. Is that any better?

MR. MAYERSOHN: Yeah.

MS. FERTIG: Okay. I was alarmed to see how many of these schools were using the business support system because I thought that was supposed to be the fix for this.

Who in the school -- you know, in a lot of these it said, well, it's a posting error. Who's doing the posting, the school or the BSC?

MR. SMITH: The posting is done through the bookkeeper at the individual school. So in some instances they report to the principal, in others they report to the Business Support Center.

MS. FERTIG: Okay. Well, isn't there like some time that somebody's going to notice that you're running on a negative balance? I mean, I just -- I don't understand how you get to the end of the year and there seems to be a big surprise that your athletics fund is tens of thousands of dollars in the red. And we had this issue, I thought, and, Jeff, I think you were at this meeting in 2017-ish with Taravella, was that the right timeframe? And as I recall at that time the circumstances had changed and they had to continue their athletics program and so they did it and we said, okay, well, now it's changed and now you know and now you're moving on, but now we're in 2018 and 2019, and, you know, I'm just wondering why -- I thought that this was going to be fixed in 2017 when the district first noticed that it was happening due to a change in procedures on how the athletics were being run. Did I have that right, Jeff?

MR. MAYERSOHN: Before we do that, has anybody gone online that was on the phone?

Is Mr. Sabin on? No? Nobody?

Okay.

All right. Thanks. Sorry about that, Ms. Fertig.

MS. FERTIG: So my question, I guess, is, okay, in 2017 it seemed -- if I recall this correctly, it seemed like they had changed some things that were happening but you had to continue with athletics as Dr. Wanza said, because you have to ensure that all students have a chance. But on the other hand we knew that when we did that audit. And I'm just wondering, this looks like it's pretty routine at a good number of our high schools.

And so I find that really troubling that there's that gap between when we were on notice of it and when we actually are coming up with a solution.

MR. MAYERSOHN: If I can just interject? not sure whether or not this is an operational issue inasmuch as a school related issue. Because, as Dr. Wanza pointed out regarding athletics, and I know this conversation had come up before, is that, again, and this is -- this, to me, gets back to more of a district issue of how athletics are truly funded. If you're gonna take a school like Blanche Ely that is not -- in a different socioeconomic area than Stoneman Douglas and their football team has a chance to play in different events or state championships or whatever it may be, if everybody is getting the same equipment and the same referees and everything else, there's a fixed -- there should be, generally, a fixed cost per person. Like schools, for example, you have the FTE funding for each child. But above and beyond that it goes back to what supplements in the community. So if the football team has four trainers or four whatever it may be and the standard is the district provides one, maybe Blanche Ely would like to have four trainers, but they're only affordable to two, where somebody like Stoneman Douglas has four and they can afford it in raising those funds. So that's where maybe that negative balance comes in a lot of times, because, again, anticipated in a budget what might be there, may not happen.

MS. FERTIG: So I'm just going to go back to what I -- I should have pulled the 2017 audit minutes so I could refresh my memory.

MR. MAYERSOHN: I have some of them. I have some of them.

MS. FERTIG: Okay. So I'm just thinking that at that time, and, Jeff, maybe you can refresh our memory on this, there was a change in what was happening and principals and athletic directors had to finish that year out; is that correct; I mean, on how the funds came in?

Because that is what I remember being explained to us at the time why there was a negative balance in that athletic account.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Right. Well here it says

Blanche Ely received $14,000 as a budget transfer to assist with athletics and school activities.

MS. FERTIG: Yeah, not on here. I see where we are here. I'm just wondering how we didn't fix the problem when we noticed the problem in 2017. I have a real problem with that. And I have a problem that the fix for us on these kinds of problems was getting a business --

MR. MAYERSOHN: Support Center.

MS. FERTIG: A BSC, and that's not working.

And, believe me, I know about equity because my children went to a school that didn't have a stadium and could not get receipts to finance the uniforms and things that other schools had. I'm very well aware of all the funding issues. I -- yes, Dr. Wanza.

DR. WANZA: Let me start before Mr. Moquin does. So in 2017 that is -- I believe that was when we sat down -- when I say "we", I mean the Office of School Performance & Accountability as well as the finance division and we then came up with the formula or the calculation to provide the high schools with the funds or a budget allocation to offset what they realized as declining revenues from the vending machines. And that -- to your point, that was the district's pathway to assisting the schools with the internal funds negative balances that they were witnessing as a result of the change in the vending revenues. So -- but what we have realized is that -- and, you see, I put in my response that we have asked the finance division to really write up a guide for schools so that they know what things can be charged to that budget allocation that would then not necessitate them trying to fund things through the internal accounts as it relates to athletics.

So that's one point of clarification, and assistance that we need to provide to the schools, but it has to come from the finance division so that the schools are appropriately charging items and expenditures to that allocation that comes, so that they are not then trying to look for funding in their internal accounts. They need to charge things to the budget that can offset what may be a future allocation or expense to the internal funds.

So that's -- so that's one thing, Ms. Fertig, is, yes, we did sit down and calculate how much each school would get, but then we have to make sure that we provide the schools with the appropriate guidance of what can be charged to that budget allocation that was designed to offset what they were realizing in their internal accounts for athletics or other clubs, activities, things of that nature.

And then Jeff can add on.

MR. MOQUIN: Yeah, I just -- I just -- my comments are going to be more general because I don't know that I'm -- I don't want to give any misleading information.

First, I just want to say that I think leadership is excited about the new leadership in
Mr. Smith that we have out at the Business Support Center. I think there was some issues with leadership out there for a while. And so he's done a really good job of trying to address a lot of issue out there.

As it relates to the Business Support Center just in general, I will say, yes, it was originally, the original concept was around scaleability and trying to take advantage of economies of scale as well as trying to have -- avoid sort of internal fund errors and those sort of things. So there was two things.

What it's actually become over the last 10 years, I think it's morphed. At one point it was going to be mandatory and then it became voluntary and so -- and then there's a whole bunch of other issues that are going on. And so I think it's time that we -- and we've talked about it as a cabinet, that it's time to kind of do a wholesale look at the Business Support Center to see if it's still meeting its intended needs.

And then finally I'll just say that, you know, to echo some of what Dr. Wanza said, I really think the reason why you're seeing these things again is because of the COVID impact and really not being astute enough during the pandemic when we were out and a lot of changes were made around who could attend the athletic events, whether food could be sold at athletic events and those kind of formulas that we had done under normal circumstances in terms of how we were going to supplement those budgets.

And so I just know that I think the district has to be a little bit more mindful of some of the unintended consequences of the decisions we make. Like I know for example we have in the last -- for the football season this year and now I just heard we're going to go ahead and expand it into other sports, we've made a wholesale change in how security is handled there. And, obviously, there's a cost that is born with that that can't be passed onto the schools because we've decided we're going to now have outside services doing wanding and bag checks and those sort of things.

And so I just think that we should have done a better job of saying, hey, because of the COVID situation and the fact that we've changed a lot of the protocols with the attendance of sports in particular, but all clubs and activities, that we should have been more mindful of the unintended consequences of those. So --

MS. FERTIG: So I would say to that, if this was just a 2020 audit, that might be -- I might find it -- I might find that an explanation, but because I see it in 2018 and 2019 and I know we had the discussion in 2017, I think it's more than that.

MR. MOQUIN: Okay.

MS. FERTIG: And I -- I know that there was a lot of conversation about the business support system being able to fix what were these posting errors and these errors with negative account balances and so forth in our local schools. irony of this audit is there's actually more people that were using the business support system that had a problem than people that had a bookkeeper. And so that brings me back to, shouldn't you every month -- I mean, shouldn't you when you're reconciling your accounts let them know on a monthly basis at a minimum what their account balance is? And I'd be interested in knowing how some of those things are done. Because I don't know how you get to the end of your fiscal year and you've been running on a negative balance like this and you're going to have to take it from somewhere.

The other thing I'm going to point out is that this is probably, the one positive thing about this account is it shows the longstanding equity issues. And I'll just remind you, as I know you know, Jeff, that one of the green factors is extracurricular activities. So when you see that these schools -- when you see where these schools are and what they don't have, that's an issue the district needs to resolve. And I would refer that to the diversity committee to have that conversation. Certainly, athletics should be a part of it and I, personally, think this falls into your whole funding thing.

I know this because I know the school my kids went to did not have the ability to raise the funds because they didn't have a stadium, they didn't have all these things that so many schools had. And, you know, and that is a tough thing for kids, because they go and they see what other kids have at other schools.

So all in all --

MR. MOQUIN: And I'll just say -- I'll agree with you Ms. Fertig, and I'll just say that I think in some regards because of the equity issues people just say, you know, we're going to go forward even if we go into a negative balance, and I think there's a way to achieve both; right? I don't think that at the expense of going into a negative balance you can say, well, we're having 10 games for this school regardless of what happens. I think there's a way to achieve both, and we just, I think at the district level, need to do a better job.

MS. FERTIG: I guess there's not much point in saying more to this other than I hope you will bring this back to us in three months with some protocols in place that are going to address what seem to be some pretty widespread systemic issues.

MR. JABOUIN: Yeah, so, Ms. Fertig, since these schools are audited every year, the followup is really built in. I think what's going to be very key is the meetings. And you can see from the responses from Director Smith, they are going to have some monthly meetings between the principal and the BSC. And that's where the bookkeeper or whomever should be able to identify where the potential issues are and what the balances are. And then you'll see the reaction from either Dr. Wanza's level, from the principal level and so forth. So it will be very key to see how that evolves.

MS. FERTIG: But I guess -- I guess that -- that addresses one issue in here. But some of the other issues on how you're going to -- what you're going to do with -- I think of more interest to me is what you're going to do with the BSC and how you're going to revise that so the interaction is better, and, also, the equity issue of how we're going to ensure that every student that goes to school in Broward County can expect that they will be able to play whatever sport they are eligible to play and how we're going to make sure that they do that. I think that's a huge issue and that's one we may just want to refer to the diversity committee. As I said, that is a green factor. There is no doubt that this is showing a lot of inequities.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Dr. Lynch-Walsh?

I don't want to -- I just want to be mindful of time. So I know this is something that --

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Why would you make that comment to me and no one else?

MR. MAYERSOHN: Well, because I'm looking here at what time --

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Understanding that my question started forming as we went around the room.

MR. MAYERSOHN: I understand that. I'm just saying, be mindful of -- we all talked about it on November 1st to be mindful of time so I'm just reiterating it.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: You might want to make that speech before you start down the road.

Okay. So on page, well, it says 99 on the bottom, it talks about restructured vending machine contracts. What occurred with vending machine contracts that seems, in addition to COVID, have changed how much funding the schools are getting? Because it says in this letter dated November 4th, 2021, all high schools receive an allocation to offset the loss of vending machine revenues that were realized because of the restructured vending machine contract. That's a letter to Mr. Jabouin from Dr. Wanza.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Dr. Wanza?

DR. WANZA: Wait. I've got to find it. I'm sorry.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: It says 99 at the bottom.

MS. CONWAY: I think what that was referring to is the healthy vending smart snacks initiative.

MR. MAYERSOHN: They're not open 24 hours.

MS. CONWAY: That decreased the vending machine commissions because the items don't sell as well.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. So there was a decrease in commission amounts?

MR. MAYERSOHN: Commission amounts or the time that the vending machines are open? Because you can't have vending machines --

DR. WANZA: So that's a part of it. It's the time, it's the type of snacks, it's the where they're located and everything that contributes to what in the end would be what the schools would realize as commission.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Right.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. So that's that question.

How are the vending machine revenues tracked?

I can see that there are transfers from the vending commissions account, so is that where they're tracked?

MS. CONWAY: Yes, they -- the schools will -currently the way that the BSC has structured it is, the schools will receipt the vending machine commission checks into this particular account that's designated to receive vending machine commissions and then the money is transferred to 1 other accounts as needed.

MR. MAYERSOHN: I think Dr. Walsh, and correct me if I'm wrong, you're asking, how is it monitored?

In other words, I'm a vending -- I'm a vending -- or I'm a vendor. I sit and put 40 cans of whatever it is, Gatorade, in the vending machine, and I say, well, you just sold 40 cans or whatever it is and give you a check. How do we know there were 40 cans that were actually sold or not? Is that what you're asking?

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Well, I was asking, the money that's coming out of the vending machines, you're saying the school gets written a check for that amount?

MS. CONWAY: It's a percentage of the sales.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Percentage of the sales; right.

MR. MAYERSOHN: So is somebody there watching it when it's collected or no?

MS. CONWAY: Basically, the bookkeeper needs to watch it. We come through and audit it later, but contemporaneously the bookkeeper's the one who would know and has to allocate those moneys between different accounts as it's specified in

1 the --

MR. MAYERSOHN: But does the bookkeeper, physically, collect the money?

MS. CONWAY: No.

DR. WANZA: No.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Is the bookkeeper, physically, there when the collection is made or we're trusting the vendor?

DR. WANZA: No, the book -- so in the practical reality, and I know that Mr. Barnes has been raising his hand as a former high school principal, maybe, but in the practical reality the bookkeeper is not standing there watching every sale. And if the vendor comes at 3:00 in the afternoon to now collect the funds or do what they do, the bookkeeper may be gone for the day.

So to answer the question, no, the bookkeeper is not standing at the machines recording all the sales and he or she definitely is probably not at the machines when the vendor is coming to -- however they take the money out.

MR. MAYERSOHN: So all I'm bringing out is that this is a trust issue and there's no oversight in comparison to when we were, when -- I remember years ago with ripping up tickets and collecting, double-checking and oversight that way. Football game tickets there's oversight, but here there is -- in vending machines there is none?

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: And that isn't even what I was --

MR. MAYERSOHN: That's all I'm -- that's my point, is that there's no -- there's no oversight to ensure that what is actually sold was received as commissionable.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. Can a principal own a vending machine? I ask because I've heard of such a thing.

DR. WANZA: So I will say if a principal does own a vending machine, it can't -- the principal should not be doing business, if you will. I mean, we have -- there is some policy or something around that business practice bulletin that the principal cannot own the company or the vending contract or the whatever at his or her school and there's probably some language somewhere that either Mr. Jabouin or the legal department around contracts with the district, period.

MR. JABOUIN: Yeah, that would be a conflict.

1 DR. LYNCH-WALSH: I would think.

Can they earn commission in any way? So if they can't own them, then they can't earn a commission; there's no way that could happen?

MR. JABOUIN: The actual principal themselves earning a commission?

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Yeah.

MR. JABOUIN: That would not be allowable.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. Just asking.

And then finally, a couple more -- what kind of reporting, if you're doing the business of -- so who reviews internal funds activity at the school? I keep hearing about the poor bookkeeper, but a bookkeeper is limited by being a bookkeeper. Is the principal responsible for monitoring their internal funds account on a monthly basis?

DR. WANZA: There is a monthly report that the principal does have to review and sign. That is correct, right, Ms. Conway, there's a monthly? I did as a principal. There was a monthly report that I sat with my bookkeeper where she reconciled and we sat and went over all the expenditures, what was in each account; yes.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. So if it's going negative from one month to the next it shouldn't be happening without the principal being aware.

And then on the other side, if it's the Business Support Center, are they producing the same report?

MR. SMITH: That is correct. And that is reviewed by myself and our internal accounts manager.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. And then who's monitoring before it gets to the internal accounts manager? Who do they -- in lieu of having a bookkeeper, who are the schools interfacing with at the Business Support Center?

MR. SMITH: That would be the bookkeeper. So we have a bookkeeper who's on site at the school several days a week.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Is there anybody with accounting degrees in the Business Support Center?

MR. SMITH: Yes, there are. We have, not only accounting degrees, finance degrees, but CPAs as well.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: At the bookkeeper level?

MR. SMITH: You said within with the BSC, so that was my response. I apologize.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. So it's either a bookkeeper at the school or a bookkeeper at the Business Support Center.

Because that's -- my concern is, one, lack of internal controls, and, two, there's too many bookkeepers being responsible for things that are above their pay grade. And there is a reason why people get four-year accounting degrees. There's a degree of knowledge that comes with that in terms of knowing whether, you know, this adherence to the rules versus -- there's a deeper understanding of why it's important to not go negative that might not be coming across at a lower level.

And that's, I think, all I have to say on that.

Thank you.

MS. FERTIG: Can I just say that I would hope that anybody, whether they had an accounting degree or not, knows that they shouldn't be going negative in these funds.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: It's a bigger picture issue, Mary. I'm sure they know.

MS. FERTIG: I think that what this tells me is that there's poor communication between one

1 entity and another and --

MR. MAYERSOHN: All right. Let's just move -- Mr. Barnes?

MR. BARNES: Mr. Chair --

MR. MAYERSOHN: Yes.

MR. BARNES: -- before I make my comment, we're all audit members and we are on this side of the room, too.

MR. MAYERSOHN: All right.

MR. BARNES: So I had my hand up --

MR. MAYERSOHN: I just went around this way.

MR. BARNES: Then you went back around again.

MR. MAYERSOHN: No, I went around this way.

MR. BARNES: Not here.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay.

MR. BARNES: But as you look at our agenda today, there's a time limit, and I don't want to prolong the time, but there are certain hot-button issues that the chief auditor needs to understand that if it comes up it's going to take more than 10 minutes.

I'm going to address the whole thing in totality with these high schools. I'm like Ms. Fertig, I was extremely disappointed to see that, because I thought we had arrived where we were on a roll with these audits. And as you look at similar high schools, they may differ in their levels of being able to support the schools, but in terms of size, students, some of them are the same.

What I found was the same problem existed in most of the schools that had exceptions, the same problem in those schools. And I thought the responses were canned. I thought the responses from the support center was canned. I thought responses from the principals was canned. And there seems to be no protocols. Because in some case, for an example, Ely, Mr. Johnson responded but no specifics on what he was going to do to correct the problem. But when I looked at, I think it may have been either Coral Springs or Pompano, the principal did a good job in explaining what was going to happen.

Also, I was kind of surprised to see that the Business Support Center was Ely, in that case, making the suggestions about what was going to be done to improve and it didn't correlate with what the principal -- and the principal didn't say anything.

The other thing I noticed that assistance that was given to schools did not seem to be equitable. For example, Taravella got $20,000 from the district, Dillard got 43,000 to balance the deficit of 43, and when it was all said and done they were left with $42,000. It seemed to vary by location on who gets the assistance.

Now, what I heard said was that all the schools would get assistance on the extra security that was designed because of COVID and all the other things that was going on, but all of the schools did not get money from the district, itself. So there seemed to be some kind of inequity on how it goes. And in Pompano Beach they had a very small deficit but they seem to have gotten no assistance.

So the question would be, there needs to be some consistency in how these things are done.

And I think the ultimate responsibility for what happens in the school it rests with the principal. No doubt about it. You can have the business support, but I saw nothing on that.

I don't need a response from anyone on it. I just wanted to make those comments.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Ms. Disch?

MS. DISCH: I just have comments, and just if you could clarify. You said that some schools either have a bookkeeper or they use your services and then in the instance where the school has a bookkeeper the report is provided to the principal. And in the instance where they use your services you get the report?

MR. SMITH: That is correct; yes.

MS. DISCH: So in these instances with negative, I don't think it's fair to blame the school, you're the ones who saw it and missed it.

MR. SMITH: That is correct. We do review these monthly with the principals and then they come to me for signature as well. So all parties are aware of the negative variances when they come through.

MS. DISCH: Right. But so then does it make sense then -- to what Dr. Wanza said earlier, does it make sense to have accounting, put this whole procedure in place and teach the schools when it's your department that's missing it?

MR. SMITH: There are definitely a lot of opportunities within the BSC. I would -- to a point made earlier, it was about posting issues, I would argue that there's not many posting issues as it relates to internal accounts. I would argue that it's a collaboration and communication issue. So the departments as a whole weren't working well together. And specific to the audits that represent the BSC, the majority of them involved athletics and there was minimal communication between the BSC and athletics. That was part of the response that the BSC put forth. The response put forth by the BSC was specific in regards to what the BSC will do to help mitigate these issues going forward.

MS. DISCH: Okay. And then just two other comments. When you said that it was just this number of schools out of 30, we have 226 schools, you know, you extrapolate that error, it's like a 23 percent failure rate. It's not just the six schools.

That's it. Done. Thanks.

MR. DE MEO: Mr. Chair, I just have one important suggestion for the chief auditor and the respective authority over the vending machines.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay.

MR. DE MEO: Either just before Superintendent Runcie started or just after he remember some of my questions and comments about it, I don't know, eight or nine years ago. And what I got after questioning about the vending machines was that there wasn't control over the emptying of the receipts and recording of that. And the impression I got was that it was either impractical, impracticable, it was not material — it may not have been material, or it was just a judgment made by individual schools.

I suggest that this be looked into and determine if it is material and worthy of some controls that the respective leader of that area, I don't know if it's principals, and the chief auditor implement those controls.

Now, back then the revenues were tens of thousands of dollars per school. So I'm not sure, and I'm not going to make a motion, I don't know if it's material, you know. So --

MR. JABOUIN: So noted. We do have an ongoing vending machine audit that's in fieldwork right now. So the whole process of collection and the amount that's remitted can indeed be looked at.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. My comments are probably going to be some of the same that everybody else has echoed.

I agree with Mr. Barnes in the respect that these responses seem canned and seem, to me, disingenuous. You know, there's -- there's some accountability and it just seems that the responses, I'm sorry, it won't happen again, as we look here at Blanche Ely going back to 2018, a letter to Allan Strauss from Mr. Johnson, internal audit response corrective action, he lists some of the things that he's going to correct is that he'll closely monitor all expenditures requested. All future expenditure requests will require my prior approval. of 2018 I will meet with the bookkeeper, all coaches, club sponsors, to once again review and reiterate best practices and the procedures for standard practices, Bulletin I203, classes, clubs and departments. Regarding the yearbook corrective action, and I'm not going into all of these, it says, I will meet regularly with the bookkeeper and yearbook sponsor to ensure progress is being made to reduce the deficit in That's 2018. We're still the yearbook account. having those same issues.

I had mentioned, as far as the minutes of the May 2018 meeting, Mr. Mayersohn requested follow up with the negative balance in the yearbook account on a quarterly basis, Dr. Wanza agreed to provide follow-up information to the office of the chief auditor.

Dr. Wanza, was that provided?

DR. WANZA: I will have to go look, Mr.

Mayersohn. I don't want to go on record and say something that isn't true.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. Well, I'm just saying, is this -- you know, we sit here and make recommendations, and, to me, to get a response back from, as Mr. Barnes had said, that doesn't seem to reflect the urgency of something that is required. To sit there with a negative balance, knowing that you're going into the negative, to go, oh, don't worry about it, again, it seems that this is not a high priority.

The Business Support Center, I thought, was to relieve the bookkeeper. And the responsibility of most of these principals are educators. They're not business managers.

They're there to educate our kids. And we put them in a responsibility to deal with management opportunities. Although they are trained, and no offense to Mr. Barnes or Ms. Dahl, who may have been great principals, they're there to educate kids, they're there to motivate them, they're there to make sure that they graduate and move across the stage. And that should be their role. Not getting into the minutia of inventory and internal funds. That should be a financial person's responsibility.

So I go back to Mr. Moquin as the superintendent's representative and echo those sentiments, if you can bring that back to Dr. Cartwright, to try to figure out how we manage these schools and not throw everything on the principal as being responsible. Hey, if my kid has homework or whatever it may be from an educational standpoint, I want an educator dealing with it. When we deal with finances and stuff, I, personally, want some person that has expertise in the finance area, not putting accountable on a principal who may have balanced their checkbook that day but is really managing other things from, you know, behavioral threat assessments, to other issues, to making sure that the school is run properly and maybe using a business support model or other things to kind of help facilitate that.

So those are my comments.

Do we have a motion?

Yes, Dr. Lynch-Walsh.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: I don't know about a motion. I just wanted a clarification just to make sure I'm understanding this.

So when they don't use the Business Support Centers the principals are reviewing the report, I'm clear on that. But when they are using the Business Support Center you guys are looking at it but not going over it monthly with the principals?

MR. SMITH: We indeed are reviewing it monthly with the principals. And then I review it as well and sign off on it.

MS. FERTIG: So you know monthly if there's a problem and the school bookkeeper knows monthly if there's a problem. And I'm just wondering how it gets to the end of -- I understand maybe you think you're going to make up the money in a later season, like everybody loves the baseball team or something, but I don't understand why there's not a concern on the front end. And I'm

1 sorry to interrupt.

So now it's a monthly thing and they know.

MR. MOQUIN: That's why I tried to make the comments that I was making is, I think at the district level we need to look at this. Because I think in some instances, or at least it's my assumption, that we could probably look at some schools now and see a trend and say it's inevitable that it's gonna happen, and the question is what are we doing as a district to then take over some of those expenses? as I understand it, the schools just can't take and transfer money out of their general fund to cover it. So that's why Dr. Wanza said one of the things that we're starting to do this year is at the district level handle the expenses around the referees and some of the security issues, take that out of the internal account altogether.

And so, you know, I have copious notes about the concerns of the audit committee and I want to go back and look at it from a systemic standpoint. There needs to be intervention today in some of these schools from the district level and not wait until the end. Because I think it gets into a situation for the people that are in the trenches, like, what am I going to do, tell them not to play football the rest of the season? We'll hope that we make it up. And in some instances there's just no way it's going to be made up. So we've got to address that now.

MS. FERTIG: So the Office of Athletics & Student Activities, are they involved in this conversation?

DR. WANZA: So, they are. And that's how we got to the whole piece around we have to take over the referees, you know, the increased security, we have to take that burden from the schools. They are.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Dr. Walsh?

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: And I know athletics keeps getting mentioned, but the yearbook account at Blanch Ely was something like 13,000 in the red, which suggests that people aren't asking why are these things happening? We know what is happening but not why. Is it that at Blanche Ely they were buying gold plated yearbooks that nobody could afford and they have unsold yearbooks? I mean, how do you --

MR. MAYERSOHN: Yeah, they have -- I mean, listed on 2018 it shows that, or the commentary was that they had unsold yearbooks. So they had unsold yearbooks from 2017, 2016 and 2018. So they were ordering more than they actually had, either somebody saying, hey, I want to buy a yearbook, put down your deposit, versus -- again, I'm making --

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Which is how it was being managed. Because at my kids' schools you always basically had to preorder it.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Exactly.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: You were paying for it. I just hunted down my kids' from last year, but we paid for it.

So it seems that, yes, they're buying things that nobody bought. And that's something that they should be advised from the very first year it happened, instead of having to take money that could be used for expenses that are unavoidable, like the problems in athletics due to shortages, now you're taking that money and using it for something that is avoidable.

MS. FERTIG: Again, I think you're highlighting some real equity issues. In addition to going to the Office of Athletics & Student Activities, which it would be good if we had somebody here today, I think it would be worth your while to be having this conversation with your diversity departments, too. Because just even what you just brought up just now, you just brought up a whole other layer of equity issues.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Well, and, actually, athletics now reports to Dr. Wanza, so --

MS. FERTIG: It's okay, I still --

DR. WANZA: I understand.

MR. MAYERSOHN: So do we have a motion to transmit or any recommendations on this motion?

MR. BARNES: Second.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH:

MR. MAYERSOHN: Motioned by, was that Ms.

So moved.

Fertig or Dr. Lynch-Walsh?

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Me.

2 MR. MAYERSOHN: The ayes have it.

Moving on to Item Number 9.

MR. JABOUIN: So we will ask MSL to come into the room for Items Number 9 and 10.

DR. WANZA: Thank you. Happy Thanksgiving.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Happy Thanksgiving, Dr.

Wanza. Thank you.

MR. JABOUIN: And I will introduce Items 9 and 10 together.

MR. DE MEO: Mr. Chair?

MR. MAYERSOHN: Yes.

MR. DE MEO: Can we ask MSL to give us an overview and especially the ACFR to explain what each section is and which part is audited and which part is not audited?

MR. MAYERSOHN: Sure.

MR. DE MEO: Because it is so voluminous, and it needs to be, it's complicated, I think we need to extract some meaning from it that -- to discharge our responsibilities.

MR. JABOUIN: Thank you. So this is called -- it used to be called the Comprehensive Annual Financial Report, this year it's called the Annual Comprehensive Financial Report. So in addition to the CAFR there are accompanying documents. There's a management memorandum from Ms. Motiwala as well as the independent auditor report as well.

So Mr. Castaneda from MSL is here if you wish to ask Mr. De Meo's questions again?

MR. MAYERSOHN: Mr. De Meo, you can ask the question.

MR. DE MEO: Yes. Good morning, just about afternoon, huh?

Could you -- for us that aren't deeply involved with these matters, could you explain the components, especially of the financial statements, which parts were audited, which parts were not audited, which parts were reviewed or looked at in connection with the supplementary information? Briefly describe what the audit opinion means, and the communication with management so that we can -- you know, give us a broad overview of what to expect. And then if we wish to go into the details now or at some later date we'll be armed with the information that you gave us to do so.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Mr. Castaneda, can you -- can you introduce your team?

MR. CASTANEDA: Yes. Hi, my name is Eddy Castaneda. I'm an audit manager for MSL, the district's external independent auditor. I'm here by myself. This is Erum Motiwala with the finance department. Dan O'Keefe, who is your engagement shareholder, he wishes he could be here. His daughter's getting married this week. It's a destination wedding, so he is not in country.

So to Mr. De Meo's question, yeah, absolutely, because -- that is a good question, that's good information to have. This is a very large document and the audit opinion kind of covers a few things that I could mention.

So on page 23, so our audit opinion is split up on different what we call opinion units. So we give an actual audit opinion on the total governmental activities of the district. In some cases -- in the particular case for Broward Schools we do not give an opinion on the component units, which is all the charter schools. We say so in our letter. Those are based on audits of other auditors who send us their -- their audited financials, we compare to make sure that there's no material findings that could affect the district as an overall entity, but we do specifically not opine upon the component units. That does not mean that those charter schools are not audited by other auditors. It just means that we are not opining upon them and that we, in our audit report, we say so as such.

We'll also issue an opinion, if you go to page 28, these are the district's major funds. So for each of these funds we do issue an audit opinion on each individual fund that the information's presented. These funds are materially correct as presented as well as that column, Other Governmental Funds, which is the aggregate of all the other funds that we'll issue an opinion on that fund as well.

Also tied with our audit opinion are the -the -- if you go to page -- starting on page 41, which is the notes to the financial statements, this length -- the majority of the document are the notes to the financial statements and we do issue an audit opinion that the information contained in this discussion is materially unmodified and unmodified being the quote-unquote clean audit opinion.

1 MR. DE MEO: And complete?

MR. CASTANEDA: Yes.

MR. DE MEO: How about internal controls, Mr. Castaneda?

MR. CASTANEDA: Internal controls are -- so there's a separate report for internal controls which gets issued in January. This is just on the audit opinion for the financial statements.

As governmental auditing standards require us to look at the internal controls as they affect the controls that affect this document, the financial statements, we do issue a separate letter just on the internal controls, that there were no material weaknesses or significant deficiencies, or, if there were such, they'd be disclosed in that report and then the findings would be documented there along with management's response.

MR. MAYERSOHN: All right.

MR. CASTANEDA: And that's kind of a brief overview. If you have, like I said, I just tried to --

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. We're going to go around, this way, Ms. Disch.

MS. DISCH: I just wanted to say, this is the

-- this is my favorite meeting of the year. I work in financial reporting so I love this. This document every single year is excellent. It's very well put together. I know that this is your baby. And every year you do an excellent job and every year we hear about how many hours you have to work to put it together.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Ms. Disch, can you speak into the mike?

MS. DISCH: Do you -- was that the case this year, as well?

MS. MOTIWALA: Yes. And --

MR. MAYERSOHN: Wait. Before you go, Ms. Shaw, welcome to the magical world of the audit committee.

MS. SHAW: Thank you. Good morning everyone.

MS. MOTIWALA: Good morning. Erum Motiwala,
Director of Accounting & Financial Reporting.

Thank you for acknowledging our work. Yes, it does take a tremendous amount of hours. And since the pandemic it's been very difficult and challenging, especially right now because we were extremely short-staffed as well.

MS. DISCH: That was going to be my next question.

MS. MOTIWALA: We have like half the department right now. So it's been a big challenge for us, especially this year, getting through this. And I certainly want to say that it couldn't have been me alone without the support of my team, and I have a great team, and I do appreciate their work.

MS. DISCH: So -- and there's going to be a few comments that I have on this.

So last year I had actually asked to pass a motion to increase head count, increase spend and to remove the CPA requirement. And then Marte had said, no, I'm going to work on this through my budget process, we'll handle this internally, we don't need to involve the school board. But was any of that -- I know that she's no longer here, but this was well in advance of when she left. Do you know if any of that was actually put into place?

MS. MOTIWALA: We did -- we had a new position added to our department, Accountant IV, to assist us with overflow, but, unfortunately, because of the way things are in the market conditions these days, it's been a challenge to hire.

1 MS. DISCH: So there's not an increase in the 2 budget?

MS. MOTIWALA: No.

25

MS. DISCH: You got another head count?

MS. MOTIWALA: Yes.

MS. DISCH: Probably at an equally budgeted level?

MS. MOTIWALA: Yes.

MS. DISCH: That also needs to be a CPA?

MS. MOTIWALA: Well, that one does not require a CPA. It's preferred, but not required.

MS. DISCH: Not required?

Okay. Marte used to be the primary reviewer of this.

MS. MOTIWALA: Uh-huh.

MS. DISCH: So was that you this year?

MS. MOTIWALA: Yes, I reviewed it along with my team, obviously, my managers and assistant director, Ms. Vivian Pilar is the Accountant V and she is a CPA as well.

MS. DISCH: Okay.

MS. MOTIWALA: And of course our acting CFO, Mr. Gorokhovsky, also reviewed it.

Unfortunately, he was unable to make it today to the meeting.

MS. DISCH: And one quick, before I get into what I want to have a motion for, because I can't sit here and listen to you say this for a fourth year in a row that you have to work countless hours and weekends to put this document together that also brings the county money, how do you — this is for the auditor, how do you put an opinion together on the financial statement without at the same time reviewing the controls and issuing that opinion?

So said differently, in January when you issue that report, should you find significant deficiencies or material weaknesses, which you never do, and that's a whole other topic that I have an issue with, you would then have to look back into this document and see what that impact had on the numbers.

So how are you comfortable with doing those two audits so separately?

MR. CASTANEDA: They're not -- they're not done separately. It's gonna be reported on the same date. It's the same date of the audit report. So we issue those in conjunction, in essence. However, the reason why -- and typically you would find all those reports, our internal auditor report, our management report, which is a requirement from the Florida Auditor General, on one document. Typically, most governmental entities have that as one package.

The way that the district historically has issued this document is just the audit -- there's no requirement in government auditing standards for all those reports to be issued in one document. There's no actual need for it. But, typically it just makes it easier if it's all one document.

MS. DISCH: No, there's a need, they're just not required to be together.

MR. CASTANEDA: Correct, they're not required. The only thing required is the audit report, which is included here in the draft form.

Historically, as I said, it's been the, I guess, will of the audit committee or the district finance to try to issue this document prior to December 31st, which is the GFOA, the Government Finance Officer's Association, so that the district could receive their certificate of achievement from the GFOA, which is a national program that reviews all governmental entity ACFRs and it's this long checklist to make sure that it's excellence in financial reporting. And that deadline is December 31st. So that's why this document has to get issued first and those letters are not part of this -- the reporting package, because the GFOA does not require them to be.

MS. DISCH: So you've already been auditing the controls and there's no significant deficiencies or material weaknesses to communicate?

MR. CASTANEDA: As of today, no, there has not been any deficiencies or material weaknesses to report.

MS. DISCH: All right. Well, I'm trying to think of what's the best motion to be because you have open head counts because of the market. So to ask to create more head counts doesn't make sense because you can't hire for your current.

So I don't know -- I don't know if I can ask for just more money; can I? Can we just give our current team and the head count?

MR. MAYERSOHN: Mr. Moquin?

MR. MOQUIN: I was just going to ask Erum, I know that on the 17th, and I don't -- I don't suspect that this will resolve all the issues, but I know that there was a rash of financial positions that are going. Are any of them in your department?

MS. MOTIWALA: I'm hoping that one of the positions I'll be able to fill by December 14th, because we just interviewed. But other than that, the rest of them are either in the screening process or advertised.

MR. MOQUIN: Okay.

MS. DISCH: I mean, my biggest issue is that this brings funding to the district and then we have a financial reporting department that's severely underpaid and understaffed.

So if they can help me with this, that would be great.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. Well, let's hold off
-- let's just go around.

MS. FERTIG: Can we just respond to that one point while we are on it?

MR. MAYERSOHN: Let's just hold off for a second then. Because that may be in a motion later on.

Mr. Barnes, any questions?

MR. BARNES: No.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Dr. Lynch-Walsh? Any questions, let's -- let's hold off the funding, let's go --

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Well, the thing is, you know, we create these artificial conversations if we can't respond to something while it's fresh in everybody's head. Because I do remember that conversation. And I do remember Ms. Marte saying, let me handle it internally, and, yet, here we are again.

And so I guess the question I'm trying to understand is, has there been a job study to identify by how much the salaries in that department are under market? Because we haven't seen anything to that effect. Because then we would have some numbers to shoot for.

We know -- we see the understaffing and the market is what the market is, but has there been a job study on your department?

MS. MOTIWALA: Not the entire department but Ms. Marte did do the job study on a few of the positions, the senior management positions, so that did happen last year, but not the entire department.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: And where are the vacancies, just in senior management?

MS. MOTIWALA: Well, there are some like high level positions, like Accountant IV, Accountant III and also some clerical that are in the accounts payable department.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: And the accounts payable positions there wasn't a job study?

MS. MOTIWALA: Not as of yet.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. So I think we would need a job study to see -- because it's not like the district doesn't do them. They just did one I think for food and nutrition services and everybody got a bump there. So -- and is it the being under, the salaries being under market?

MS. MOTIWALA: Yes. And one of the reasons why -- people are either like retiring, obviously, or some are going to another department because it's a higher pay grade. So in my department most of the accounts payable except for the senior level positions are pay grade 16, whereas some other departments have pay grade 18 positions that are vacant right now. So, obviously, they're applying for those positions.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Because there's no accounts payable 18 position openings in your department?

MS. MOTIWALA: Only like a few seniors, that's it.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: But is the pay -- but the pay is the same, it's just they're going for a position because there's nowhere for them to go?

MS. MOTIWALA: No, there is a pay increase if they move to like a pay grade 18, like a budget support specialist position.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: But I guess I'm asking, and I'm not sure why we have accounts payable people in other departments, I believe in centralized accounting, but that's a whole other discussion, so I think a job study would be the first step.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. Well, let's go back, do you have questions regarding the CAFR?

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Yes, I have a question on -- I see the COPS, and, specifically, I'm looking at the ones that were just recently done last year, the 2020 COPS, as long-term debt, so where would the other side of that be?

We have an obligation and where are the COPS currently; are they under cash; they haven't turned in the projects yet? So where is the other half of that?

MS. MOTIWALA: So the funding that we receive resides in the capital project fund. And then as we pay off the debt you will see it in the debt service fund.

MS. DISCH: You mean like where is the asset?

MS. MOTIWALA: The asset would be in the capital project fund.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. So I'm looking under capital assets. Because it's not -- so some of it -- is it construction in progress?

MS. MOTIWALA: So we have other capital project funds on Exhibit 3, page 29.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: On page 20 -- okay. That's what I saw. Oh, so now we've broken it -- so it is under cash.

MS. MOTIWALA: Yeah.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. That's what I thought.

Okay. And then as it turns -- so they're not attached to any projects, it's just cash right now.

MS. MOTIWALA: Well, whatever would be in the project would be in the encumbered funds, in that part of the fund balance.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. Thank you.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Ms. Fertig?

MS. FERTIG: Yeah, I want to comment real quickly on the jobs thing. I think this is a year where it's difficult to fill a lot of positions. I know on the audit committee that always seems to be the case, but this year in particular I think nationwide we're seeing that across the -- across the spectrum of jobs. But I don't think that should discourage you from making your motion to add that to this so that it's included in the budget and then, hopefully, that situation with jobs will change.

That's my comment. Thank you.

It's good being on this end of the conversation.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Mr. De Meo, anything further?

MR. DE MEO: Yes, I just want to review a few things, but before I do, I want to commend the finance department, the latest year, last year, you received another award, the Cambridge

Award --

MS. MOTIWALA: Thank you.

MR. DE MEO: -- despite depleted staff, despite the pandemic. And this year, as well, looks excellent. So, thank you, we appreciate it.

MS. MOTIWALA: Thank you.

MR. DE MEO: Now, these comments and questions are directed at all three of you, including Mr. Castaneda. Was an audit of internal controls performed?

MR. CASTANEDA: As auditors we're required to evaluate internal controls as they relate to the financial statements.

MR. DE MEO: So I want everyone to understand, the auditors don't audit the internal controls. They get enough information about it to do their testing and if in that testing they find a weakness, significant deficiency or material error, they bring it to our attention in the management letter. So none of us should be under the impression that the school board's internal controls over the financial statements, very limited, are audited by outside auditors.

Two, do you audit operations?

MR. CASTANEDA: We don't typically -- it's not a specific operational audit. In the course of doing our financial statement audit, if we are made aware of issues that impact operations to the level that we would feel would be reportable, then, yes. Like we can't turn a blind eye if we

1 find something.

MR. DE MEO: So these are not criticisms. I think it's important for us to understand the basis of this report, the financial statement.

So the operations are not audited by external auditors. The chief auditor does a good bit of that.

Three, is supplemental information included in this report audited?

MR. CASTANEDA: Not the supplemental information. What we'll do is we'll do a --

MR. DE MEO: Well, some of it was.

MR. CASTANEDA: Some -- the required supplemental information is in relation to the audited financial, we'll give an opinion on that. In relation to the audited financial information, that that information is correct. Some other -- some other supplemental -- the other supplemental information within the document has limited procedures, but it's not subjected to audit.

MR. DE MEO: Okay. So pages 92 to 104 contain the required supplemental information which the auditors audited. After that, other supplemental information starting on page 108 and through the rest of the report, and correct me if I'm wrong, the auditors, their only obligation is to read the material to make sure that it is free from obvious conflict and material -- and misstatements and errors; is that correct?

MR. CASTANEDA: Correct. And that it agrees to audited information.

MR. DE MEO: Right. Does not conflict with the basic financial statements.

So that's the extent of what the external auditors did. They also sent us a communication which the most significant item I always look for in that communication is, were there any unusual transactions or significant transactions, and you responded, no.

MR. CASTANEDA: No, nothing -- no transactions that were not -- that there's not guidance available to implement any transactions. An example of that would be in the current year the district implemented GASB 84, which you may or may not have noticed, restatements within the document due to the implementation of this new accounting standard. But other than that there was no unusual or out of --

MR. DE MEO: I would have thought the CARES Act, the 399 million, would have kind of, you know -- I mean everybody knew about it, but I would have thought that was worthy of pointing out, not that it's -- you know, it's significant.

MR. CASTANEDA: I would agree with you, it is significant. It's not unusual. However, that information is part of the single audit reporting package. That is not part of this document.

MR. DE MEO: That's true.

MR. CASTANEDA: That is a separate document that, again, it gets presented in January.

MR. DE MEO: Okay. And, lastly, the -- I mentioned before the notes to the financial statements aren't just notes that our finance department decides to include in there, there is required information and it must be accurate and complete and our auditors audit that; is that correct?

MR. CASTANEDA: That is correct.

MR. DE MEO: Okay. I think that pretty much sums it up.

Not that I'm -- I don't want to in any way diminish the external auditor's role, but I think it's important that we understand what they do.

Their role is limited to the first 90 pages of this financial statement, auditing those items on those financial statements. And they look at the management's discussion and analysis, which is very good, and they look at the information contained in the back. But they are not giving us a writ of everything is perfect, there are no errors, there are no deficiencies. That's not what this says.

Thank you.

MR. CASTANEDA: That's an excellent point. Thank you.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Mr. Medvin?

MR. MEDVIN: I have a comment or two about the auditor's report. This is what we would call a complete opinion?

MR. CASTANEDA: Yes, unmodified, quote-unquote.

MR. MEDVIN: In your work was there any consideration of giving an unclean opinion, either an adverse, subject to, or anything like that?

MR. CASTANEDA: No, there was no consideration of that.

MR. MEDVIN: And the reason I question that is under today's political turmoil and threats of withholding of funding from the state, that could certainly -- in the extreme it could give a going concern question. And I'm just wondering if that was considered as part of your audit.

MR. CASTANEDA: Going concern and financial emergencies, there's certain criteria that it's outlined by two parties, one our governmental auditing standards as to what criteria would meet a going concern as well as the Florida Auditor General's office, they have their own guidelines of what constitutes a financial emergency. And no transactions or no knowledge that we're aware of met those criteria to issue a going concern or a financial emergency opinion.

MR. MEDVIN: So the political turmoil out there and so-called threats are there but not enough for you to comment or give a different opinion?

MR. CASTANEDA: Correct. From the information that we have, typically, I mean, the fiscal year 2022, the budget has been passed, it's fully funded. That's as far as we go out to. As -- again, as of today. Now, again, that information might change or if we have -- if the governor, for example, to your example, quote-unquote, decided to withhold funding a couple of months ago, that might have changed our evaluations of things. But as of today and as of what we knew at the time, they did not meet those criteria.

MR. MEDVIN: Okay. And what will be the date on this opinion?

MR. CASTANEDA: It would be today, November 18th.

MR. MEDVIN: Okay. Thank you.

Ms. Shaw, do you have any questions?

MS. SHAW: No. Not yet. Well, no, go ahead. My apologies.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. My only comment on this report, and I think everybody has made some of the comments or questions that I was going to ask, but my only concern is on page 16 of the management's discussions and analysis it talks about economic factors. And I go back to Mr. Moquin regarding the referendum funding. Referendum funding ceases June 30th, 2023.

Is there an intention for the district to put this on as a question in the 2022 election cycle?

MR. MOQUIN: Yes. So we've already done some calendaring and there will be ongoing discussions with the board to affirm that, but, yes, we are -- we have developed a planning document and a timeline in order to potentially have that question asked again for continuation.

MR. MAYERSOHN: And if these referendum dollars do not pass, what's the district's future plan?

MR. MOQUIN: There will have to be a re-look at how funds are currently allocated. Obviously, when those raises were provided to teachers they were indicated that they were contingent on the referendum and so that they were not necessarily permanent. And then also the other major areas around security and the additional positions that we have throughout the entire organization.

So I think there is an acknowledgement that there's an educational awareness component that needs to be done with the community so that they're aware just how significant these funds are as it relates to compensation for our instructional staff as well as for the security efforts around the district.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. Those are my comments.

So, yes, Dr. Lynch-Walsh.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: When you asked about this I looked at a page that I hadn't looked at before.

On page 15, Capital Assets and Debt

Administration, did the district speak to how they plan on paying for the new building at Rickards?

MS. MOTIWALA: No, I do not have that information.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Because the plan is to issue COPS. And my understanding, I missed the last financial advisory committee meeting, is that they have the capacity to issue up to another 250 million in COPS without going over the threshold. I only bring that up since this is specifically mentioned in here. But there's no discussion in this as to how they're paying for it.

And then just a point of clarification, you said the budget was fully funded, did you mean, Mr. Castaneda said that, you mean the district's budget?

MR. CASTANEDA: When I say fully funded, that that budget document was approved and there's plans in place to operate in fiscal year '22, the current fiscal year we're in now.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. So if there was a shortfall in what was needed, because, of course, the problem is, you're not auditing the budget, you're auditing the actuals, so if there was a shortfall of say 38 million needed to complete the remaining projects and that was not reflected in the budget, that could potentially create a problem? I mean, I've mentioned it, Florida

TaxWatch is on it now, and Atkins in their last quarterly risk letter is sort of alluding to it more, that --

MR. CASTANEDA: Just to be clear, when we say going concern or financial emergencies, from our perspective as external auditors, that means if the organization will cease to operate. So, while I'm sure there are budget shortfalls and things, those I don't think would rise to the level that the School Board of Broward County would cease to exist as an organization. It's how we -- that's how we evaluate those types of going concerns.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: No, I get it, and that's the source of frustration, is there are a lot of things that are not working or not as they ought to be, but none rise to the level of concern -- or of being concerned about the district not being a going concern in the future.

But taken in totality, if they all come home to roost at the same time, it could be problematic. I guess we'll just have to wait and see what happens.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. Ms. Disch, you had a motion?

MS. DISCH: Yes, I do. Let me find my paper. Three bullet points.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Just before, do we have to take these two separately, the communication letter and the financial report?

MR. JABOUIN: You could have a consolidated motion including the Management Memorandum, the ACFR, the Independent Auditor's Report and the communication letter --

COURT REPORTER: Joris, mike.

MR. JABOUIN: I'm sorry, I need to speak into the mike. I'm sorry. I'll say that again.

A consolidated motion for all these documents would be sufficient.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. So Go ahead, Ms. Disch.

MS. DISCH: I have three points that I would like to transmit. One is I would like to increase head counts. If I remember correctly last year I said add two more head counts. A job study for the Accounting & Finance Department.

And if it's still there, I know it sounds like one head count it was removed, but I would like to remove the CPA requirement from the accounting department when they're trying to hire head counts, that it be preferred but not required.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. Do we have a second?

MS. FERTIG: I'll second it.

MR. JABOUIN: Can I please confirm the wording, Ms. Disch? It's to increase the head count in the Accounting & Finance Department, conduct --

MS. DISCH: Specific to financial reporting.

MR. JABOUIN: Increase head count in the Accounting & Finance Department specific to financial reporting, a job study for the Accounting & Finance Department, and then removing the CPA requirement for the Accounting & Finance Department?

MS. DISCH: That's right.

MR. JABOUIN: Those are the points. Thank you.

MR. MAYERSOHN: All right. Is there any other -- and then a motion to --

1 MS. DISCH: Preferred not required.

MR. JABOUIN: I'm sorry, I didn't catch that last one.

MS. SHAW: I have a comment when you're ready.

MR. JABOUIN: Removing the CPA preference.

MS. DISCH: The requirement. The requirement.

MR. JABOUIN: The CPA requirement.

MS. DISCH: If it's preferred I think that's fine, but you only need to be a CPA to like sign an audit opinion.

MR. JABOUIN: So remove the CPA requirement for Accounting & Finance but make it preferred?

MS. DISCH: Yes.

MR. JABOUIN: Okay. Thank you. I'm sorry I missed that.

MR. MAYERSOHN: And then including a motion to transmit?

MS. DISCH: Yes.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. Dr. Lynch-Walsh?

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: I just wanted to clarify because that's the only piece I don't remember, is what was the CPA requirement attached to?

MS. DISCH: I thought it was every head count

1 in accounting.

MS. MOTIWALA: No, it's my position, the director, the Accountant V and assistant director. Anything below does not require a CPA.

MS. DISCH: Okay. Yeah, so I don't think that any of those require a CPA, any of those positions.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Well, see, my fear, and we just had this happen in the Business Support Center, is after the board actually approved a stronger job description that specified a requirement of an accounting or finance degree, they managed to do some tap dancing, that because the person had a generic master's degree but lacked the accounting background, we now -- they then hired somebody because they said any master's trumps the accounting requirement, which was not the intent at all. So I fear by taking that out for these higher level positions and saying preferred, you could end up with someone with an underwater basket weaving background.

MS. DISCH: But could you work in financial reporting and not be an accountant? Like could that person be hired?

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: In this district, yes, I could see it happening. Should it happen?

Absolutely not. But I could see it happening.

I'm afraid of removing -- I agree with you in theory, but I've seen too many oddball things occurring, and until that changes, I -- that's the only piece I have a problem with.

MS. DISCH: Well, hopefully, to that point, I'd be okay with moving that because then to that point the job study should then give these people the money that they would get a CPA.

MR. MAYERSOHN: So are you removing that from your motion?

MS. DISCH: Yeah, I'll remove that. That's fine.

MR. JABOUIN: The CPA requirement motion is being removed?

MS. DISCH: Yes.

MR. JABOUIN: Thank you.

MS. FERTIG: But my only concern is, yes,
I'll still second it, my only concern is the marketplace and what availabilities there are for people applying for jobs. So if you make it -if you require too much in your job description it may be difficult to recruit people for these jobs. And you would probably know the answer to that, whether it will be or won't be, because you've been trying to hire.

MS. MOTIWALA: The current vacancies that I have do not require a CPA. It's only preferred. So -- but as was just mentioned, it is hard to recruit people with accounting degrees and good experience. So that has been the challenge regardless of the CPA designation.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Unless you pay them.

MR. MAYERSOHN: That's where I think the job studly will come in and help facilitate that.

MS. DISCH: I believe that's true.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Ms. Shaw, any comments?

MS. SHAW: I do.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Go ahead.

MS. SHAW: So I agree that it should be preferred, and -- but my process here is how do we hire? And I know as government, I work for a local government, and it's such that -- and I'm hearing my echoing myself -- it's such that, you know, we can't compete with corporate America. But even if you hire someone with a CPA, within a very short period of time they may leave because someone else may pay them a little bit more money. But earlier on in the conversation she made a point to say that people are moving from her area to another area. And so I would love for it to be designated or set up where the job, the senior accounting position, is for this area alone, where, if they're moving, they're moving for an increase, a better job, not because you're in the same title but you're able to go over to another county-related position and make more money. If that makes any -- if that makes any sense.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: I think the job study, no matter what, will sort of highlight where the problems are and where they need to go in terms of pay being offered.

MS. SHAW: Who is speaking?

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Nathalie.

MR. MAYERSOHN: I mean this, this is not --

MS. SHAW: I'm sorry, Mr. Chair, I don't totally agree. I mean, we have done job studies here quite a bit and the job study is one thing. But when you're creating a position and you have other local governments within the tri-county, within the State of Florida, who are paying X amount of dollars, it's very difficult even with the job study for the district or even other local governments to go out and say what the job study is -- it's based on a job study.

So the job study may come back and say the senior accountant should start at $82,000, but that doesn't necessarily mean as a local government you're going to start it at $82,000.

So it needs -- the job study is one of the many things that we're using as the way to determine in terms of this position. It should not be the one that we're relying on to make sure that we're hiring quality staff and paying them good money and who wants to stay.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: But they don't have a job study right now, so we have to start somewhere.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Yes, Ms. Fertiq?

MS. FERTIG: Yeah, I just -- Ms. Shaw said something that I think could fit into this motion and I agree with you about the job study, we need to do that, but I just want to reemphasize, I think the marketplace overall is difficult right now, whether it's a government job or a private job, from both personal experience and reading, you know, the papers. But, I think you used the phrase, Phyllis, CPA preferred, and I'm wondering if you could put that back in your motion with that -- with that caveat. Or if you don't think that's appropriate, that's fine.

MS. DISCH: In my personal opinion, these roles, I know that I have also seen the district just hires, and from what I've seen and what we heard earlier today, who is no longer sitting here, we have a bookkeeping department that doesn't even have accounting and financial personnel in it, which is very worrisome, but to be able to interview and put anything like this together, I really hope that when you're interviewing someone, you need people to help you and you wouldn't hire someone. And I do think that making CPA preferred, not required, there are a lot of newer people coming out of schools who are not CPAs yet who could fill these roles who maybe have four or five years of experience in a big four and are working so many hours and just don't have enough time to take the CPA that are more than qualified, but I really -- I hire people who work for me who are not CPAs who are 10 times smarter than some CPAs I know. just think -- I, personally, think CPA not required makes sense, but I also understand what Dr. Walsh was saying.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: I'm not vehemently opposed to it being preferred. I would still vote for it anyway.

MS. DISCH: So I'll put it back in.

MR. MAYERSOHN: So we'll put it back in. Mr. Jabouin, put it back in.

MR. JABOUIN: Remove the requirement of --remove the CPA requirement of the accounting and finance department and make it preferred.

MR. MAYERSOHN: And Ms. Fertig, you're okay with that?

MS. FERTIG: Yes, I am fine with that.

MR. MAYERSOHN: All right. So is there any more discussion?

MR. DE MEO: Briefly, next time this report

These are meaningful things and background for us to evaluate what's before us. And I would limit it to 15 minutes, but I think that's really important.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Duly noted. You got that?

MR. CASTANEDA: I would love that.

MR. DE MEO: Instead of me interrogating you.

MS. MOTIWALA: If I may -- sorry.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Yes.

11, Proposed Audit Plan for School/Fiscal 2022.

Thank you very much, Mr. MR. JABOUIN: Mayersohn.

So Agenda Item Number 11 is the school year '22 audit plan. As I mentioned at our previous meetings, I generally prepare this document for the first meeting of the school year. However, the interim superintendent, Dr. Cartwright, she started on August 2nd, and to be able to go over the plan with her and put it in the August 12th package was not practical given some of the challenges that Dr. Cartwright and the board were facing upon her hire.

Ultimately, I presented the plan at the September 30th audit committee meeting. deferred to this meeting. In the meantime I had discussions with seven of the nine board members and I also had a workshop on November 3rd. significance of the workshop was primarily to determine the board's preferences as far as reviewing on page 26 of the plan the former -the transactions that occurred during the tenure of the former chief information officer or my preference as far as reviewing the current $70 million bid that the district has.

Now, the direction is clear from the board, that they would like us to take a look at the information from the chief information officer. The -- the audit concerns, which are not -they're based on risk assessments, is to look at the current transactions that are going on in the IT department. And so outside of the plan I'll have to figure out how to address that and cover that, because, professionally, I should be looking at some of the current controls of bids that are going out today. But what we'll do is we'll start the process with the next transaction. The motion that was passed by the audit committee about a year ago involved looking at the $81 million bid, which was the last one that HCT looked at, and so now the bids that are after that, there's about 110 different bid transactions that occurred during the two tenures of the former chief information officer, is to go through that process and pick the next one and so forth.

So that was the direction that I -- that I needed to hear from the board and that is the direction that we will be taking.

The plan itself, though, it is a live

So many of the requirements that we have as far as the auditor general, as far as the board asking us to take a look at certain areas, those are already in process and there's really not much latitude as there is areas that we're required to cover. In the document, within itself, which I'm going to zoom by really quickly, on page 3, I cover what we provide as far as assurance. We provide reasonable assurance. We don't provide absolute assurance in our work because the work is done on a test We don't look at all of the transactions. basis. We do sampling. We take a look at the controls, ensure that a follow-up is performed. And then in future years, as we evolve the department, I envision that we can look deeper into the design of the controls, enhance our reviews to prevent potential fraud, waste or abuse that may occur, and then continuing to look at our efficiency.

Take a look at page 5 of the document and there are certain assumptions as far as our staffing, as far as potentially individuals either leaving and us being able to hire our six open positions. We have taken a look at our capacity. I've discussed the plan with my managers to see if they can complete some of these projects that are on the plate. there's also many things that we don't know. We don't know what is going to be in the Auditor General report. They're currently doing five different audits right now of the district. don't know what other state regulators may have. We don't know if the potential grand jury report will have some requirements of the function as well, as well as unknown risks that we just don't But we have put together the best plan that we can and we made sure that it's addressed the significant risks of the district, which are, one, information technology, where there are plenty of projects that address that. Construction, many projects that address that. Vendor contracts, procurement, regulatory, discipline, behavioral threat assessment, maintenance contracts and payroll, those are the areas that have come up in meetings that we have had, topics that have come up either at these meetings or the committee or board as far as areas that we need to cover. And so there are plenty of projects that do address that.

But take a look at page 32, because that's where some of our nonreporting projects happen as far as our charter school reviews that are going on right now and that yield to the charter school meeting that I have on Friday where we review all of the financials from an annual and monthly review of the charter schools.

There are also other projects that we do such as training of our own team, investments that we make in training the district at the school level with a compilation of their business practice bulletins. We also are deeply involved in the inventory process improvement project and then the Auditor General audits that I mentioned, the five of them that go on, those do take a good amount of time but they don't actually lead to a report that comes in this meeting.

Page 40 is where we have the projects that we don't have room for. On the bottom I've removed the ones involving the former CIO, we've moved that to the front of the report, but there really is no room for other areas. Not that there's anything that we are aware of that is of concern, but other areas that it would make sense to look at, such as vehicles and transportation and FTE and Title 1 and travel, those are areas that we'd like to be able to bring them into future years, but we just don't have the room on the plan to be able to do the audits, because the audits do get reviewed. We do get peer reviewed. They have to be done within proper standards. And I am involved in reviewing and signing off on all of our audit work and so forth. So the board has added to our team, we are recruiting, we're deep in the interview phase for a director level for a role that's going to provide us the opportunity for quality control in our fieldwork, make sure that our team members are properly trained in-house and that the work is getting done and reviewed correctly.

And then -- and so the real plan begins on page 22. And it goes on and it does include all of the components that I've mentioned as far as what gets reported and the other work that we do that are outside of work that yields a report.

So, ultimately, we are very -- we've already begun many of the projects that are there. So I talked earlier about vending machines, there are other projects that are also in the pipeline that in order to really add something in then we really need to take something out. And the idea of hiring an outsider to add to it, I still manage those particular audits and I'm involved in the meetings, so there's only so much capacity with that. But with the potential hire of a director I would have more bandwidth to be able to manage those outsiders a little bit -- a little bit faster.

So that's my introduction of the report. I do want to go ahead and include all of the comments in order to make this the best plan that we can. Thank you.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Are there any -- Mr. De Meo?

MR. DE MEO: A few comments. It's a comprehensive and ambitious plan. It appears that you're down one director and one manager and I don't know how you could possibly accomplish all of this without a director at least.

Further, as you've stated and on page 40 it says, all audits are subject to be annual -- are reassessed annually. In other words, you assess -- you do a risk assessment and that risk assessment has been a subject that I have discussed with you over the years on this committee.

I really would like to find a way for us either in some kind of executive nonpublic forum, if that's possible, I don't know if Mr. Moquin or legal counsel can advise us on that. Otherwise, I think there has to be recognition that we are not part of the risk assessment process.

Now, Mr. -- the chief auditor has extended to me graciously, generously, on several occasions for me to sit down with him one-on-one and to go over this, but in a way that's helpful, in a way it just kind of puts a burden on one person.

So if there is a means for us to meet without, because of the sensitive nature, and to consider the risk assessment without exposing it to the public, for obvious reasons, there's the deterrent aspect of a plan and exposing sensitive information, you know, maybe that would be helpful. Lastly --

MR. JABOUIN: If I may suggest, to your comment, Mr. De Meo, we can have during our next peer review, we get the peer review done that they review our department, and they did look at that process, we can have them specifically address that point during the next peer review.

MR. DE MEO: Yeah, I think that's great, but it isn't this committee. And if we are charged with responsibility over the auditing function, internal auditing function, it seems to me we are not given the ability to discharge that one specific and very important item.

Let me move on. Lastly, I have been also very concerned about controls over information technology, cyber security and so on over the years. We've talked about it. Okay.

I noticed, and we talked about this before the meeting, there was an audit done by RSM of IT and they either issued their report or will issue their report, and because of the sensitive nature of the information contained therein, we -- it's been shared with the board but not this committee. And, again, that's okay, that's fine, it's just I hate to be responsible for something we don't have the ability to properly discharge and dispose of.

So if we could find a way to either exclude that from our duties or find the means for us to move without exposing any sensitive documents or information, I think that would be an important improvement.

MR. JABOUIN: All right. I'll explore that with Mr. Vignola and talk to Mr. Moquin about 1 that as well.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Any other questions; comments?

MS. FERTIG: I just want to thank you for putting back in that audit on and I think -- I'm going to move to transmit because I know we're getting close to our time and if someone seconds it there can be discussion on the motion, maybe.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. So Dr. Lynch-Walsh and then we'll --

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: I'm bringing up the DAC motion that was passed.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Correct.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Unless you already have it. So DAC passed a motion I think at the last -- or, yeah -- the October meeting or two weeks ago.

MR. MAYERSOHN: The October meeting.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: October meeting to include in the 2021-22 operational audit plan, the operational audit of selected school advisory councils to evaluate compliance with Florida statutes, applicable laws and guidelines, lines that govern school advisory counsels. So that passed and then the trick, of course, is getting something into the audit plan.

MR. JABOUIN: So getting something into the audit plan would mean getting something out of the audit plan.

So as we currently stand right now the internal funds, which are on page 22, we still need to complete the remainder of the 2020 audits for those.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. So what's actually in this plan? Because, honestly, I'm getting like a headache from trying to decipher these color codings, and because some of them are so dark, I can't quite tell what's a priority and what isn't.

MR. JABOUIN: So, Dr. Lynch-Walsh, regarding the schools, what's priority are the ones that I have mandatory statutory compliance, on the far right column, those are done by the school auditors.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: And I'm not looking to cut those. I'm trying to get down to things we can cut.

MR. JABOUIN: But those are the people that do the school audits. And so --

MS. DISCH: I have to leave, the latest is 1.

MR. MAYERSOHN: So here's -- let me make this suggestion, because, otherwise, we're going to lose quorum and we need it to transmit this.

You made a motion? Were you willing to make a motion, Ms. Fertig?

MS. FERTIG: I'm making the motion and I'm willing to amend it once we approve it. So I'll make a motion if someone wants to second it and then we can --

MS. SHAW: I'll second it. Phyllis.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. Ms. Shaw has seconded the motion.

MS. FERTIG: And then I have a question about substitution for --

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. So do we have a motion to transmit and I guess --

MS. DISCH: So moved.

MR. JABOUIN: I'm sorry, I was just quickly doing an analysis of the motion. So two members will leave at 1:00, Mr. De Meo and Ms. Disch.

MS. FERTIG: And I would also. I can stay a few minutes, but --

MR. JABOUIN: So 1:00 is the stop point and we do have RSM outside.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: That's not happening.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Right. We're not going to get to RSM.

MS. FERTIG: Okay. So can I -- can I just -- I made the motion but I just wanted to call one thing up and ask this, it may not be possible --

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. So we have a motion, we have a second, now we can have discussion, further discussion.

MS. FERTIG: Okay. So I'm going to just ask a couple things in here, don't take this any which way, but let me ask number 7, Promise, on page 24.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Go ahead.

MS. FERTIG: Well, I'm looking to what, you said we'd have to cut something if we're going to do it, I don't think we've ever done the school advisory council, so I think that's a pretty important topic. I'm looking for something that we can -- if he's saying we have to pick one or the other, so I'm asking about page 24, number 7. What is that audit; is that on the Promise program?

MR. JABOUIN: Yes, it is on the Promise program. There is an area that has a high visibility and it's part of our compliance work that we do involving the code of conduct and the district's discipline policies. It's -- Ms.

Fertig, it would be challenging to remove that.

There are some board members that have an interest in that particular subject.

MS. FERTIG: I understand that. I know you've got above that behavioral threat assessment.

MR. JABOUIN: One more thing to add as well is, the people that do those audits are the school auditors as well as opposed to -- so different people work on different disciplines on that front.

MS. FERTIG: Okay.

MR. MAYERSOHN: What about charter school investigations?

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: That was going to be my suggestion.

MR. JABOUIN: So those are driven mostly by

-- and the individuals that do that are not school individuals as well. Those come from the Florida Department of Education's Office of Inspector General. I don't have latitude to not do those. We actually have a couple that are going on that are part of that. Like I said, there's no latitude in the charter schools, if

1 you're referring to page 26.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: What about payroll; did they get that under control?

MR. JABOUIN: So payroll is the result of the request by the audit committee from a motion a couple years ago. I do know that Ms. Hixon during some of her comments has asked that we not only do those of schools but also of departments. So I think she's in favor of keeping that piece on.

MR. MAYERSOHN: So --

MS. FERTIG: Well, could you --

MS. SHAW: Can I make a suggestion?

MS. FERTIG: I'm wondering if you can throw some of the Promise in with the behavioral threat.

MR. MOQUIN: I was just going to say, Joris, in the interest of time, why don't you make a recommendation to the committee of what you could substitute out to put that in?

MR. JABOUIN: Actually, Mr. Moquin, there is no option to take anything out. The audits, themselves, the individuals that would take a look at those SAC funds are the school-based individuals that are needing to get done the required internal funds audits. We do need to separate them because the audits are so big that you will never actually be able to publish them if you're trying to audit everything, that you need to carve out the pieces that you're going to report on.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Well, this -- and, again, the intent of this motion was to identify, not 250 schools, to pick a selected number of schools to determine, not just the funding, but whether or not they were in compliance with statutory SAC requirements, such as notices of meetings, whether or not a meeting was three days noticed for an item to be voted on, other aspects of statutory SAC controls, bylaws, things like that; were they adhering to those requirements? More so than just their funds, which, you know, is, obviously, part of it. So SACs have never been audited for compliance. I think Ms. Fertig had mentioned that.

This issue being 20 schools, 25 schools, I don't necessarily see that as just the standpoint of going -- you know, going back to what we talked about, the Business Support Center, are they in compliance with what they say they're going to do or we're just letting them go out and make determinations of what they are?

I don't know whether or not that's something that can be done by an outside firm, whether it has to be done internally, you know, where the, obviously, the funding issue is, but there are some things, I know the Promise program, we haven't seen an audit but that's been going on for a while.

MR. JABOUIN: Yeah, these audits do take a long time to be able to complete.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Right.

MR. JABOUIN: Adding something will come at the expense of something else. So if we have people that are working on the discipline work to do the SAC audits, then they will not be doing those projects, and those are very important to the board.

The internal funds ones are very important not only for the issues that were discussed earlier today but the Auditor General has a keen interest in that. So there really is no room for those audits without taking something else.

If the committee would like me to explore taking something else, then I can do so and provide some commentary at the next meeting on what works out best. Because one of the things I also have to do is address the issue of the IT bids that are going on as well. So there are -- which is not in the plan as well.

So at this particular time, if there are some SACs that individuals think that there is any sort of fraud or any issues of huge concern, then let's go ahead and look at that, because those would be huge. Schools -- they would be concerning, and if something is concerning -- if individuals think that there's any fraud or anything wrong that's going on, then we do need to look at those under all circumstances.

MS. SHAW: Mr. Chair, I know you guys keep forgetting about me.

MR. MAYERSOHN: No, we don't forget about you, but we're limited in time, so --

MS. SHAW: I know and what I was going to say is going to be quick and is going to piggyback --

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. Go ahead.

MS. SHAW: -- off what he was just saying, which is, basically, giving him some time, because -- listen, I am all in favor because I was a DSE chair, I was a SAC chair for several schools, so this is really, really important. I'm all in favor, but what -- continuing what he was saying, allowing him some time to come back, when is our next meeting, in January, with a plan which would also include if we need to hire an outside person to provide assistance to get it done, but a plan, not just, well, I was able to move some things around and I'm able to only do 5 of the 25 schools that were suggested, but a plan to get some done, which would include us relooking at this 46-page document and deciding, you know, if there's something that could be delayed, but at least get started this year but come back with a plan in January as this is what we're going to do.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: So that the board sees it. Because otherwise they'll be completely unaware.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Correct.

MR. JABOUIN: Can I please have that wording again please?

MS. FERTIG: Okay. So it was the motion to transmit with the recommendation to the board that the chief auditor explore the DAC motion to audit School Advisory Councils. And Nathalie will provide you with the language of that.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Right.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. So that's your --

MS. SHAW: Accepted. Accepted.

MR. MAYERSOHN: That's the motion. Ms. Shaw, you seconded the amendment?

MS. SHAW: Yes, I second the amendment.

MR. MAYERSOHN: All right. So is there any further discussion on this item?

Mr. De Meo, before you leave, before you leave, Items Number 12 and 13 we need to move to the January meeting.

MR. JABOUIN: 20th meeting.

MR. MAYERSOHN: January 20th meeting.

MS. FERTIG: Motion to defer.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Motion to defer to the January 20th.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Second.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Second by Dr. Lynch-Walsh.

All those in favor signify by saying aye.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS: Aye.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Anybody opposed?

(No response.)

MR. MAYERSOHN: All right. So those two will be deferred to the January 20th meeting.

Is there anything else?

MR. JABOUIN: As the committee leaves, I will work with RSM and AECOM on some of the commentary on that report. So there is a possibility that when you see it in January there'll be more information in that report.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: I would hope so.

MR. MAYERSOHN: I want to thank you all for staying in the confines of -- the context of our discussion. I know some of these things take a little longer than we anticipate, but I think we're moving on the right track, and, hopefully, the additional meetings will get us moving forward. In fact, I looked at some of the other meetings that we've had years ago and there were like four items on there. This is very intense so maybe there's more items that we're auditing.

MS. FERTIG: We've had some great audits.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Yes. So with that being said, I wish you all a Happy Thanksgiving, happy holidays, we'll see you all next year.

Do we have a motion to adjourn?

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: So moved.

MS. FERTIG: Second.

MS. SHAW: Second. Phyllis.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Phyllis, you're third. You missed it.

All right. We're adjourned. Thank you.
