We have spoken before and Mr. Mayersohn will mention in his comments as far as the timing and our ability to be able to work within those times. Thank you for attending today. I would like to ask the committee members for the next meeting on November 18th to please attend at 10:30 a.m. The reason for this is because there were some documents that I had hoped to have for this meeting that I was not able to put on the agenda that I am trying to put into the next agenda and then there are some required documents that require to be approved at that meeting, particularly, the comprehensive annual financial report, and so if I may ask for a 10:30 start for the November 18th meeting?

MR. JABOUIN: RSM?

MR. MAYERSOHN: Bring 'em in.

MR. JABOUIN: I will introduce the report from RSM while RSM comes in to talk about their report.

So Agenda Item Number 10 is one of several district compliance reviews that are part of the program, the Behavioral Threat Assessment, the Discipline Policies, the Code of Conduct. Those are all part of our program, they're part of the plan.

This particular audit covers school year 2020 and the policies that were in place at that time. That policy is dated on page 53 of the report. Subsequent to this policy the district has made changes. The policy was updated in October of 2020, but this report as done by the RSM team reviews that particular policy. RSM performed this work under scope that I approved and I was very involved with them and I concur with the sampling methodology that they have on page 8. I concur with the specific testing on page 10 and the areas of policies that they reviewed. And I did review the management plans and the observations that were noted.

I do ask everyone to please read the entire report. The five observations that are noted are indeed very important, but please also note the time and work the district has done is captured on pages 33 and 34 for all of their work that's been done. The observations are taken seriously by me as well as the district team.

There will be a school year 2021 audit. I await to hear comments that come from this meeting as well as the board meeting so that I can potentially make adjustments with RSM on the plan for school year 2021, but this does cover school year 2020.

To present the report we do have the RSM team here. We have partner Jennifer Murtha, as well as RSM managers Laura Manlove and Natalee Wallace and Tori Unseth, as well. And RSM did do a review of the Behavioral Threat Assessment. That MR. MAYERSOHN: Thank you all for coming. So, RSM, go ahead. Who's speaking for your guys?

MS. MANLOVE: Hi. Good morning. Thank you all for having us here today to present this very important report to you all. Joris did a great job intro'ing us and I'll also talk a little bit about the background behind this compliance audit that we have performed under Internal Audit's direction. You'll recall that we performed an operational review of the threat assessment process in 2018. At that time that process was very manual and very decentralized and some of the recommendations that came out of our audit were to automate that process in order to streamline and reduce risks.

The district has taken -- undertaken the process of automating that through the EDPlan software platform, which is no small feat. Any Page 21 Page 23 1 implementation process does come with some Okay. challenges along the road. Ms. Fertig? The timing of this particular compliance MS. FERTIG: I have one question. audit that we're presenting to you today, we You mentioned that this was done in school looked at the population of threats between year '20. We've MR. JABOUIN: That just ended on June 30th of 13 13 noted some major updates and improvements that 2021, that'll be the next audit. 14 14 were made to the process here on page 5 for you. And so this one ended --15 15 MS. FERTIG: Okay. I just wanted to clarify I'd also like to remind the committee that 16 16 the population that we audited were also under that. 17 17 the -- the e-learning time of COVID, which hit in MR. MAYERSOHN: So that's on the record. type of threat or is that classification based on what, the information you were provided by the school board?

MS. MANLOVE: As part of this audit we looked at compliance only. We did not determine whether or not a threat was appropriate or have any opinion on the content of the threat assessment documentation.

MR. MEDVIN: So your expertise is not in that specific area?

MS. MANLOVE: Correct.

1.0

MR. MEDVIN: Okay. And I presume you didn't opine in any way as far as this process other than you reported the facts as you saw them?

MS. MANLOVE: Correct.

MR. MEDVIN: Now I'm going to address what I think might be considered a dumb question. I guess I'll start with you, Dr. Wanza, because you know everything.

DR. WANZA: No, I don't. I have to put that on the record. No, I don't.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Just before you continue, Dr. Wanza, for the record, Mr. De Meo is in attendance.

MR. MEDVIN: And I'll put this question maybe to my ignorance, what is a threat and how do you

DR. WANZA: So they could say threat to self, which we also then would evaluate that and determine, are we dong a behavioral threat assessment; are we doing a suicide risk assessment? There's an entire cadence that goes when a student has said that he or she intends to do something. So now we have to determine, what is it, and then which process do we follow? And I'll let --

MR. MEDVIN: And, normally, what is your original source of that information?

DR. WANZA: So the source can come from a number of places. I mean, we get -- some people witness the student, him or herself, saying it. We get stuff on social media. We get phone calls into the schools. We get employees who've overheard something. We get students. It comes from a variety of sources.

MR. MEDVIN: Okay. And from my reading of this, it appears the policy is that there must be an immediate response to this, which I think goes into various procedures.

MR. GOHL: So, sir, if I may, just to establish some context. So this policy, which the school board approved in March of 2019, classify medium to low to high? Because I'm reading this and I really don't know what we're talking about.

DR. WANZA: So -- so I'm going to let Mr. Gohl also elaborate as well. So we have policy definitions. We also have stuff in the behavioral threat assessment.

It really and truly is any time someone either says or writes that they're going to take some kind -- some kind of harmful, dangerous action toward a person, persons, the school. I mean, and so that's why it's classified as medium, high, low, or there's -- or the threat is not credible at all.

And so I'll let Mr. Gohl and Mrs. Hollingsworth elaborate, but really and truly, for us at the school level it is an individual has either written or said that there is some kind of intent to inflict some kind of harm either on a person, persons, the school, itself, so --

MR. MEDVIN: So it wouldn't include -- if a student was in crisis of some kind but he's not voicing any obvious threat, it would not be included in this?

establishes a behavioral threat assessment as defined as a mental health psychological issue. But that is not often the only layer that is going on.

Someone needs to see or hear of something to establish the concept that there is a threat to self or others that initiates this process.

There may also be, simultaneously, disciplinary processes, law enforcement processes, that are part of the incident that is requiring these processes to happen. Each of those has its own cadence.

This policy focuses on the psychological service of determining whether or not the individual who has made a statement or taken an action to initiate with a defined set of team members, law enforcement, someone with psychological services training, and school administration, those are the required team members, supplemented by someone who knows the student and all other relevant individuals.

So the size of the behavioral threat assessment team is determined by the unique circumstances with a minimum required set of members and then all other appropriate members.

And as you have just outlined, there is an immediate urgency to commence and complete the initial evaluation.

There are then a series of subsequent steps. Each and every one of which is now auditable, because the documentation processes actually must be recorded in the software which captures both the digital identity of the person who is submitting it and timestamps the point at which it happens.

So it's not sufficient to get it done but not enter it. So, in order to specifically answer your question, I'm going to briefly ask Emily or Christina, who are our psychological services representatives, to define your initial question of what is a threat.

MR. MAYERSOHN: You've got to talk into the microphone. Is it on?

MS. REYES: Hello?

Christina Reyes, District Coordinator from the Psychology Service Department. As Dr. Wanza mentioned, we have it defined in our Policy 2130, so I can read straight from the policy; if you'd like. A threat is a communication or behavior that indicates that an individual poses a danger incident occurs?

MS. REYES: I will give you my candid answer, which is there's never enough mental health professionals, not in a school or not in a community. But each school does have school counselors assigned to them, school social workers assigned to them, school psychologists assigned to them, and family therapists assigned to them. So that if in the moment someone is not available we have others that we can use as backup who are all available to them.

MR. MEDVIN: I'll address a similar question to the law enforcement. The report talked about wanting a law enforcement individual to be part of this initial procedure and I think there was something that indicated there was some reluctance at times getting them to sign off. Is it the same situation? You're not at every school either, obviously. So if there is an incident that needs -- and the urgency of getting it resolved or addressed at least, what can we do about it?

MR. MAYERSOHN: So before we -- just because I don't want to step on Chief Rosa's toes, but Chief Rosa represents or he's the Chief of

to the safety of the school staff or students through acts of violence or other behavior that would cause harm to self or others. And then it goes on to say, the threat may be expressed, communicated behaviorally, orally, visually, in writing, electronically or through any other means. The communication and/or behavior is considered a threat regardless of whether it is observed by or communicated directly to the target of the threat, observed by or communicated to a third party, and regardless of whether the threat -- the target of the threat is aware of the threat. That is how it's defined in the policy.

MR. MEDVIN: I want to ask you a question back. You're a mental health professional and your department, of course, is mental health professionals?

MS. REYES: Correct.

MR. MEDVIN: And as one of the things I understood is that the function of the mental health professional is to be deeply involved in this procedure as soon as possible. Are there enough of you in every school to be able to be there as instantaneously as possible if an

Sunrise. He can only specifically speak to those schools that are in Sunrise. However, here as the, I guess, president of the Chiefs Association, he has contact with other chiefs, other municipalities, so he's able to kind of give a flavor, but, again, only specifically speaking to the issues that he controls.

So I want to thank the chief for being here. I saw him the other day. He was very willing to come and participate and I think it's going to be very helpful moving forward. So thank you.

CHIEF ROSA: Thank you. And just to -- so addressing it, and I'll clarify when I'm talking of City of Sunrise versus the global Broward County Chiefs of Police Association, either their views or individual chiefs related to that.

So the City of Sunrise does have a law enforcement officer, SRO, in every single public school within our city limits. So I think that addresses there's not one in every school. There is.

As it relates to the threat assessment, you know, I'm aware that our SROs do participate in every threat assessment in every school that's within the City of Sunrise.

Now, from a global perspective, I have had discussions with some of the chiefs that have -that don't have school resource officers in every school but have guardians instead. So from their perspective, there are occasions where the law enforcement officer is called in and may not participate in the full aspect of the threat assessment. In those cases the law enforcement officers are not signing the documents.

MR. MEDVIN: I want to present one point against my own ideas in reading this and then I'll defer. The more I read this it looked like 10 percent of this wasn't filed and 12 percent of that wasn't filed. And the article in the Sun-Sentinel loved that, you know, this percentage and that percentage.

I think the reality is, due to the -- A, many different times of problems, individual problems, and the weakness perhaps of the number of people, especially I think in the mental health area to handle this, I think this procedure is not very efficient.

So my only suggestion is, to run it by, you know, the powers that be is that, is it feasible to have a -- call it a mobile response unit, if

So the current system as it is designed is to put the people who are closest to the context, closest to the student, around the student to make that determination within 24 hours.

What we did here was to say that literally every transactional step of completing the forms needed to be documented in a digital way to timestamp its completion so that we could come to understand the efficacy of the completion of the process. That did not maximize efficiency.

What we wanted to do, based on what we had learned from the initial review that RSM had done and the review of the incidents that were associated with that terrible tragedy at Marjory Stoneman Douglas and the way in which the question of behavioral threat assessment had arisen from the commission and other reports around that was to say that we must bend our behaviors to having a fully documented, fully auditable process on each and every behavioral threat assessment. And we did this two weeks after training administrators, a week after training principals, in August of 2019.

There is no excuse and we are not here to proffer any to say that each and every one of you will, made up of several mental health individuals, access to law enforcement and other professionals so as soon as there's a threat made, jump in on it and go take over from that point, interview the subject. Because the deficiencies were, I saw sometimes they didn't do the parent interview or other different problems, and I think the school individual administrations, you know, like everything else, they're bogged down with a lot of stuff and it would be more efficient to have a dedicated group or a few groups to respond to these types of things and take over all of this.

MR. GOHL: So through the Chair; if I may? MR. MAYERSOHN: Please. Yes.

MR. GOHL: Mr. Medvin, thank you so much for the suggestion. So I want to raise a tension that exists here between understanding the context of the student in the school and what has happened versus the efficiency of having a small hyper-trained team of individuals.

Remember, this is a psychological services mental health evaluation. And knowing the student and what can happen, right, is different if you know the school versus not.

these should have been done well. But we have seen through the RSM audit that sometimes, even if work was finished, it wasn't timestamped as finished within the electronic system.

You are correct that 10 percent, 12 percent; right? When you've got a 30-step process and step 16 has been missed, it makes it look as if the entire process was not done correctly. That's not an excuse. But that's to say that the most important features that we have pulled out involve ensuring that law enforcement and the other two mandatory members are in it for the entire process. And there are certainly challenges at schools that have Aaron Feis guardians as opposed to school resource officers, because Aaron Feis guardians are not sworn law enforcement officers. We must contact the local police to get a beat cop or a street cop to come in. And if they are unavailable, then we have to contact our special investigative unit, which has a limited number of sworn detectives, to come. That introduces a delay.

But there is no exception to the 24 hour rule. If the incident gets initiated at 10 a.m. on Monday, that clock stops at 10 a.m. on

There is no process that we are doing in this district that has more transparency and therefore coupled with it the chance to see every mistake than around behavioral threat assessments. And we think that is an appropriate level of expectation to have.

We didn't get it. And I will say training and implementation didn't get us there two years ago. I am hopeful that what you see in the hopefully early '22 review of the 2021 will show great improvement compared to these. And I am expecting us to be back here with a different tone than we are today.

I apologize to this committee, to the county as a whole, that we didn't get 100 percent right. But what I can say is that we did not detect new problems through this audit. We, in fact, have been doing continuous progress monitoring and improvement, so that even if somebody had done the work, they now were aware that if it's not documented it doesn't count.

People are out there trying to make sure our and our partners in law enforcement, one of the things that we have been working with for -- and it's more so at the elementary schools, that there are more elementary schools that may not have a sworn law enforcement officer, so we've been working with the high schools, because law enforcement has been very responsive by putting two SROs in many of the high schools, that if -can one of those officers from the high school go travel over to the elementary school to help; if that is a possibility.

But we also have to look at the reality of, if the high school only has one, the middle school only has one, at no time can the campus be without that law enforcement officer while the school day is in progress. And then that is when we do have to lean to SIU and potentially calling in one the of road patrol officers.

So I just wanted it noted that we do have to continuously recognize that the central office must have processes to help schools in the lift as well.

MR. MEDVIN: Is the technology at this point adequately performing its part of the function? DR. WANZA: Yes.

schools are safe.

When we were able to go back and review all the findings of the audit, they have been addressed. But that still leaves this audit as speaking to what we were not able to accomplish two years ago.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Wait. Dr. Wanza, did you want to --

DR. WANZA: Thank you, Ms. Fertig. Thank you Mr. Mayersohn and Ms. Fertig for just letting me interject one thing. The only thing I want to add to that is, you know, and this certainly recognizes and elaborates on what Mr. Gohl said. One of the things that the audit also revealed is what central office processes are necessary to help schools; right? And so one of the things, and I'll just say, so the constant progress monitoring, so if we know that there are nine steps, don't let them go to step 2 if they don't complete step 1. If everything is truly going to be automated and timestamped, then there has to be a cadence and a sequence; right? And so there are many system enhancements that have been made along the way to help schools.

And I do want to say, through our colleagues

MR. MAYERSOHN: Ms. Fertig?

MS. FERTIG: Thank you, Dr. Wanza. And thank you, Mr. Medvin, that was an excellent series of questions and I would just like to come back to your suggestion at the end after we talk about all of this and particularly in light of Dr. Wanza's comments about the central office.

The one last thing that I was gonna -- that I was kind of waiting to hear is, if you could just put on the record the definition of each of these, the high very serious level, the medium serious level and who makes that call?

MR. GOHL: So, Ms. Fertig, while they pull up the technical definitions, what I'll say is the behavioral threat assessment team, based on the preponderance of the findings from the investigation placed the label of which level the threat is at as a concurrence of the BTA team, and that's per statute.

MR. MAYERSOHN: The definitions are in the policy; correct?

MS. GOLDSTEIN: Good morning. Emily Goldstein, District Coordinator, Psychological Services. So we -- we came prepared with our -- we have our current manual which was revised Page 41 Page 43 recognizing that this audit is based on the go to the student risk intake form, the only 2 previous, the previous definitions, so we were question I had is -- and maybe I'm jumping here just pulling up the previous definitions. because I'm the chair and I can do this -- is on The current definitions that are in place page 10 and 11 the attributes tested. today are in the revised policy. They were not 5 Just to clarify, these were provided by 6 in the original policy when we were using Broward County Public Schools, they were not from unfounded, low, medium and high. But I can what you guys decided to test? review those definitions for you if you like, of MS. That's fine. everything is now auditable. But can you clarify 19 19 MR. MAYERSOHN: Yeah. So just, if you can that for me? Because I know some of these are 20 send a copy of that to Mr. Jabouin, as opposed to 20 subjective and they're not -- may not be, just so 21 21 reading them -that we're not sending different messages. 22 22 MS. MS. FERTIG: Are we going to go through these review. For example, Section A, Chief of Safety observation by observation and then we can make Security & Emergency Preparedness shall ensure our comments on them as we go? Just so we're all compliance, not auditable necessarily. There's talking about the same thing at the same time. I no document I can go to that says, checkmark, this was performed. It's more of an overall mean, we don't have to. MR. MAYERSOHN: We can, I mean, if you want general compliance subjective assessment. to go through them. So go ahead. MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. MR. MAYERSOHN: And then I think to, I think, Ms. Fertig's point and Mr. Medvin's point, it says each school principal shall identify members of the BTA team, that includes persons with expertise in counseling, instruction, school administration, law enforcement. Members will be trained on rules and responsibility of each team member. So that's in the policy, itself. So it's the principal's responsibility to formulate those teams using those areas of expertise that then train them; is that correct?

MR. LOZANO: Correct.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Ms. Hollingsworth?

MS. HOLLINGSWORTH: That is correct.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay.

DR. WANZA: But we need to clarify something.

So, yes, the principal does have to identify, but connection at least to one adult in authority?

Because, as we all know, that one connection to somebody that you trust can certainly mitigate a lot of issues that a child might be having. So I just go back, and, again, that's a -- that's another issue about the questions that are asked, but we don't have to get into that discussion today.

So did you want to say something?
MS. HOLLINGSWORTH: No, I just wanted to clarify what Dr. Wanza had mentioned. Our division does the training each year for new administrators as well as we do law enforcement training, also with our mental health individuals, and then we do annual update training so that everyone's trained. The team gets put together by the principal, as Dr. Wanza mentioned.

And then going back to what Ms. Fertig had answered, how you then identify what level it is, as Mr. Gohl mentioned, through that process of an interview and investigation and all those factors then lead into one of those definitions which then translates into what direction you need to take.

the principal doesn't conduct the training. They go through the district training.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Right. No, I understand. But I just want to clarify the roles and responsibilities. So the Chief Safety and Security Officer is responsible for compliance, which is what RSM audited, compliance. So that's the responsibility role.

As far as the team members, again, go back to law enforcement, it would be the principal's responsibility to contact law enforcement however they may do it, whether it's their local municipality and say, I need to have a deputy or a sergeant or whatever as part of this team, who can you send me, whether it's a team that's in place, and then that whole team is trained.

So to Ms. Fertig's point and going back to Mr. Gohl's point, as far as the intimate knowledge in that school, I think that's why the policy was written this way. So that this way there's that intimate knowledge.

And going back to something that, you know, I look at, which is kind of not on the questions that are presented, but going back to, you know, asking the student, did they have any positive

MR. MAYERSOHN: All right. So do you want to make life easier and have RSM lead us through the findings and then --

MS. FERTIG: I would like to ask a follow-up to this.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. Go ahead.

MS. FERTIG: Okay. So I think in theory it's a great idea to have a team for the school, but only if that team takes into account that you could have people absent that day or -- and so what is your backup plan for substitutes?

I understand the problem with either an SRO
-- I live in Fort Lauderdale, so there might not be somebody available to go, but what is the backup plan if one of these people on the team is question one? And question two, if I were to call the school and say, who's the team, would the school be able to answer that? They would be able to answer it and they would be able to tell you who the alternates are?

MR. LOZANO: Yes.

MS. FERTIG: Okay. Thank you.

MR. LOZANO: So Ernie Lozano, Cadre Director.

Ms. Fertig, every school has a plan, because life does happen. There may be a day a guidance counselor's not at a school. So just like in other areas, schools work with their innovation zone, their neighboring schools. So every school has a plan in case one of their current team members are not available to assist if a school has an incident that day. So every school has a backup plan when life happens. And maybe they have to call in a different law enforcement that Dr. Wanza talked about before, they'll call the high school.

So every school now has a current plan. If one of those core team members are absent and if their neighboring school or another school can't help, that's where district resources step in, either SIU, Ms. Hollingsworth's division, to ensure we meet the timelines and guidelines in same observation.

MR. MAYERSOHN: So, just to interject, so in the future, recommendation for RSM is that moving forward for next year, if you can audit that to ensure that the team is in place and that there is a backup would be helpful to make sure that that's part of the compliance of the policy.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Nope. Oh, Dr. Walsh? DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Well, I don't really necessarily have questions. These -- you know, I don't know about these 10 percent things, but the things that alarmed me started falling under observation number 2 because they are centered around medium and high level threats and the

MS. FERTIG: No, I think that's a good idea, so if you'll take the lead here.

MR. MAYERSOHN: All right. The leading ladies.

MS. MANLOVE: I'll start on page 13. We have ordered the observations in order of the chronology of the process.

So number 1 begins with the student risk intake form. All of the samples that we tested did have a student risk intake form. However, we had a subset that were not finalized within the EDPlan system within the time requirement.

During preliminary testing for '21 we did note that due to systematic updates in EDPlan this now is automated and this should not reoccur in the future.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Is your mike on?

MS. MANLOVE: Can you hear me okay?

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: No.

MS. MANLOVE: Is it the mask?

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Yeah, it's the mask, but you kind of almost have to eat the thing. I can hear you because I'm the closest to you but you

MR. MAYERSOHN: You've got to just talk into percentages, you know, were higher than one might have hoped. So you have 54 percent of them not finalized -- on page 17, 43 percent were not signed by all team members. And 60 percent --I'm just making sure I stay within -- well, that's on page 25, so that's unlikely to be the

But they're pretty high, but the reason -but then we're looking at fiscal year 20, which is -- the district went home for spring break in March and never came back. So I would -- I would be more alarmed if we get fiscal year 22 done and have these same results. Because, yeah, I was alarmed, don't get me wrong, because it was two and a half years after MSD. But then fiscal year 21 is almost going to be a bust because most people were home.

So until we get fiscal year 22, to me, you know, these are kind of moot because then staff said they fixed everything, but the only way we're going to know is to test it now.

So I'll wait until we get to observation number 3 because I think the one on 25 is, once again -- that's a later observation.

MR. MAYERSOHN: I think there are two issues here that seem to be kind of, not running in parallel, but they end up doing that. One is the compliance of the behavioral threat assessment. The other is actually what happens with the behavioral threat assessment, which you guys aren't doing. Is it efficient? Does it address the problems correctly? The compliance -- when I say the compliance piece, the follow-up later on, is that happening; what is the -- you know, what is the outcome? MR. MAYERSOHN: So I would just -- and I think Dr. Lynch-Walsh has kind of -- kind of covered it a little bit, is that -- and, first of all, I want to thank Dr. Cartwright, she is here, but something to be concerned about is, are these efficient and effective and maybe from an operational or, you know, standpoint more so than the compliance piece?

MR. JABOUIN: So, thank you, Mr. Mayersohn. So all of these comments such as the one you wants to go?

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: It's very hard sometimes for me to just stick to the one when I have sort of global comments. So go ahead. My next specific comment and then I have global comments and some recommendations.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. So here's what we can do. Let's get through the items, themselves. If we have comments on the items, we can make them. Then we can go through global recommendations. If that makes sense. Otherwise, we're going to go all across the board back and forth.

So Ms. Fertig and then Dr. Lynch-Walsh. MS. FERTIG: Okay. I have one on number 2. You know, one of the problems with this we keep mentioning is that the pandemic began. So, I mean, it would be helpful on the timeliness where 54 percent were not finalized within 24 hours, now, how many of those were before March 1st and how many of them were, you know, after? That could have in some way skewed it because of what was going on. And so I know you can't look back -- well, you probably can, you can probably figure out what that would be.

said before, I want to go ahead and put them into the testing that will be done. We're required to do it every year. So the school year 2021 that ended in June is the one that's up next. And I am confident in the reasonableness of the responses that we have and that should allow us to have some improved testing. But there are some things that we do want to add to it that I know we want to do.

So, for example, on the monitoring plans themselves, the testing right now ends at the existence of the monitoring plans. We want to look into how effective the monitoring plans are. So if the monitoring plans have certain requirements, did the district meet those particular requirements? So that would be what we'd look at in the school year 21.

As I get comments and either from this meeting or from the board meetings we do want to go ahead and have the audit program evolve. So the comment that you made earlier and any other comments that the committee members make are things for us to consider in future plans and we will do so.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Eeny, meeny, miny, moe. Who

MR. JABOUIN: Just to jump in, Ms. Fertig, yeah, the sample stopped in March of 2020.

MS. FERTIG: March 1st? MS. MANLOVE: End of March.

MR. JABOUIN: End of March.

MS. MANLOVE: Very few would have occurred within that month, but, yes, there are some that were impacted.

MS. FERTIG: Because that was about a third of the study time.

MS. MANLOVE: It went from December to the end of March.

MS. FERTIG: And what day in December? MS. MANLOVE: The 19th? December first of 2019.

MS. FERTIG: Okay. So it was a four-month study. Okay. So that's just one question I had. And I -- and just looking down these, you know it is alarming to me that those -- especially after -- I can see he's on top of this in spite of the fact that they didn't get this done within 24 hours, that's alarming. I mean, that is -- if that's the standard we set. I'm glad to hear it's going better now and I would -- hopefully, we would emphasize that in this when it's

Page 57 Page 59 1 presented to the board. refuse to participate. Or it takes some time 2 MR. MAYERSOHN: Dr. Lynch-Walsh? getting them to be able to conduct the interview. 3 DR. They should be a 13 13 part of the process. 14 Number 3 is in relation to the initial 14 And so you will see in my response, I, 15 15 student interview and teacher input forms. Is that, again, going to be administrators so that that will not be a 24 24 a, we had a student interview but we didn't have finding. As Dr. Lynch-Walsh said, when we get 25 any documentation or is that they just didn't 25 the full depth and breadth of this school year Page 58 Page 60 1 1 have student interviews within the required time? where we started with everybody back open and MR. So I'd also like to, Mary, draw your students are incarcerated, some of our students attention to the bottom of page 21. may be in a situation where we can't locate them 8 MS. FERTIG: Uh-huh. to do an interview. So there's multiple reasons why a school may not have been able to conduct a MS. RODGER: We have made updates to the 10 10 student interview. So that's why you'll see some system so they cannot finalize a behavioral 11 11 threat assessment now without those documents where there was one missing. 12 12 And, again, this was 2019. We've done a lot being completed. 13 13 of work in EDPlan, in the system. So currently MS. FERTIG: Okay. Okay. And I just --14 14 well, I'll come to that on the global time. But, if there is not a student interview or they're 15 15 not able to do it, they're able to put a reason thank you. 16 in now to explain why and keep the process moving 16 MR. MAYERSOHN: All right. Anybody else on 17 17 forward as opposed to, I can't keep going because this item? 18 18 I can't, you know, get in front of the student to (No response.) 19 19 do an interview or I can't get in front of a MR. Any other comment or questions on this one? (No response.)

MR. MAYERSOHN: All right. Mr. Barnes, are you okay over there?

MR. BARNES: Yes, I am. I do global comments.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. All right. Next? MS. MANLOVE: Number 5, the monitoring plan. We have some commentary in here regarding the completeness, the finalization, the timeliness of these monitoring plans.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Any questions on those? Yes, Ms. Fertig?

MS. FERTIG: Well, my question is, I read in here, you know, that now you have an online form that could not have been downloaded before, but yet 40 percent of the people managed to comply with it even though it couldn't be, you know, downloaded.

So my question is, how did 40 percent comply and the other 60 percent not comply?

MR. GOHL: So we have tried to move to full unacceptable particularly once we get to fiscal year 22.

There's also a comment on the bottom of page 27 that, for the monitoring plans that were identified as missing, followup was completed by the Office of School Compliance and Discipline and Office of Academics in May and June of 2020 to ensure students were receiving the required support. All monitoring plans were in place as of June 2021. District staff is in the process of reviewing to determine if monitoring plans are complete for incidents outside of the audit and will finalize their conclusions by September 30, 2021, which I think is today.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Well, Mr. Jabouin and then Mr. Gohl.

MR. JABOUIN: Mr. Gohl first. MR. MAYERSOHN: Mr. Gohl, go ahead.

MR. GOHL: So in preparation for the August meeting we were prepared to tell you then that things were where they had been determined to be in June, which is that monitoring plans were in place and that the 30-day followups were occurring. We can say the same today. We are now monitoring these on a monthly basis to make digital single point of contact at this point. In the fall of 2019 that form was available as a separate PDF from a manual, a different system. So those schools were able to access the form, download it, and then upload it.

What we've now done is put it inside of that. That was one of the lessons learned from the initial implementation.

MS. FERTIG: Okay.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Anything else, Ms. Fertig? All right. Next.

MS. MANLOVE: That concludes our written observations. We had some overall process improvements which we discussed with management at the conclusion of our procedures.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Dr. Lynch-Walsh?

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: My other comments were on number 5, monitoring. You know, the things that jump up out are 60 percent of the sample were missing a monitoring plan, which is on page 25, which is significant.

And then on page 27, 82 percent of medium and high level threats were not reviewed within 30

These are the things that I would consider sure.

The good thing is that leadership in multiple divisions have access to the dashboards that show the state of all monitoring plans at any time. And so we meet weekly. We met this morning. It's Thursday mornings. That we go over any ones that have emerged in the last few days to make sure that they are complete within the timeframe and that the monitoring plans which are still in place are being monitored on the regular frequency.

MR. JABOUIN: And then to add to what Mr. Gohl stated, so the representation that's here in the response that indicates that they were in place as of June 30th, my team -- so out of the 99 that were required to be in place, and the district responded that they are in place, we did a subtest of 23 of those 99 and we were able to locate those monitoring plans. So that was certainly satisfactory for me to confirm that statement in the response.

I also want to add that throughout the entire audit, you know, district staff and even things that they've identified themselves were curing issues that they were encountering. And as the

They have included me and my team on the dashboard so we could have that visibility to see how it's going on and they've invited me and my team to their meetings.

And so we will -- I will participate in a meeting that they have on October 7th on the findings.

So the framework is set up for improvement on this when this is re-reviewed.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Ms. Fertig? Or Dr. Lynch-Walsh?

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: I'm done with 5. I'm waiting for global comments.

MS. FERTIG: Okay. Well, we can do this under 5 or global, but just as I'm listening to what you've put in place and how now you can really monitor everything digitally, it's wonderful, is it possible to do monthly or quarterly reports on compliance? I mean, I don't know why you'd have to wait for an audit if you can look and see that you had 10 issues and 10 of them were handled correctly.

DR. WANZA: So to that very point, my staff

MS. FERTIG: So I was just thinking from a -making the public feel safe and knowing that everything's in place, if you had that forwarded, that report to the board. I mean, weekly, biweekly, that's too often. But I think if you did it, you know, every quarter and can show that you had a perfect -- or even every couple months. Whatever the timeframe is that's appropriate, it would go a long ways to letting people know how successful you have been in addressing that.

MR. MAYERSOHN: The one question that I have on the monitoring plan, so if a student changes schools or a student goes from Broward County to Palm Beach County or is in Miami-Dade, because this is a statewide system, goes from Miami-Dade to Broward County, are their systems that the district has in place to ensure that the monitoring will continue?

DR. WANZA: So Mr. Gohl and I will take that one. He'll start and then I'll --

MR. GOHL: So the statute as initially written is rather burdensome. Because what it requires is that when a student transfers schools that the sending school is responsible for sending the monitoring plan and ensuring its meets every Monday morning. This is a standing item. We pull it up -- you know what I'm saying, we pull it up, we go through. The cadre directors have to sign off on it. This is a standing time every single Monday today on my staff meeting agenda. So I can tell you -- and then to what Mr. Jabouin said, then there's a Thursday meeting of multiple departments that touch it.

So the answer to your question is, yes. And that is why if something happens in the next audit, I think I'm going to go right up under the table.

MS. HOLLINGSWORTH: And if I may, Mr. Mayersohn?

MR. MAYERSOHN: Yes, you may, Ms. Hollingsworth.

MS. HOLLINGSWORTH: Thank you, Mr. Mayersohn.

Tara Rodger also is reviewing it as well as the management system along with all the other things that she's managing to work with Mr. Lozano and other individuals at OSPA so that we're really working collaboratively to make sure that these are identified, addressed and making sure that things are in place.

implementation. I will tell you that the second part of that statutory requirement is nigh on impossible. If a student transfers from a Broward County public school to a private school we do not have the ability to ensure that the services are continued. What we can do is provide the guidance, the monitoring and the ongoing services we have. We continue to work with the Department of Education to clarify what is the correct way to show compliance with that last piece of it.

But the first piece of your question, if the student transfers within Broward County Public Schools and all but the 13 charter schools that are part of Charter USA, they are also within the EDPlan system. It is automatically transferred. There is not a human transaction that needs to occur to make sure that the plan goes with the student. So out of our 280-ish charter and district schools, all but 13 are a part of it.

Part of the standard withdrawal process as all educational records includes the transfer of behavioral threat assessments. Because these are not discipline records. They are not law enforcement records. They are part of the

If they transfer to an adjoining district they must be PDF'd and included in the paper transferral packets. The state does not have a statewide behavioral threat assessment system that we can upload these to as part of inter-Florida district transfers.

MR. MAYERSOHN: And just to that point, I know you guys may differ -- have a different opinion of how to monitor this. Because, again, you've got schools that are, you know, part of the school community and yet community issues that go on where somebody may create an issue.

Have you guys discussed that as a Chiefs Association?

CHIEF ROSA: Chief Rosa, so, yes, we've discussed it in maybe a global sense. But, you know, there's some difficulties, I think, even within the law enforcement world; right? We have can't go forward if you don't do that. You must have this. Did you do that?

So this first -- what we're looking at, we went live two weeks after people were trained. And we don't like to say that this was a pilot, because it was not. But it was the first phase of implementation and we have worked through enhancements to the plan also looking at how to better train individuals in the use of the tools that we are giving them to help them do their work.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. Well let's -- one second, Ms. Shaw.

Let's do this. Let's go around -- it's now 25 after. If we can kind of wrap this up within 10 minutes, 15 minutes, from global ideas, I would appreciate that. So --

MS. SHAW: My question is on --

MR. MAYERSOHN: Do you have a question?

MS. SHAW: On what Dr. Wanza said.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. So go ahead and ask the question and then we'll go around.

MS. SHAW: So, Dr. Wanza, based on the example you just gave, what is to say that the principal at Fort Lauderdale did not check -- many municipal police departments, we have the Broward Sheriff's Office. So even when you transfer something, not from a district perspective, but from our perspective, from one law enforcement jurisdiction to another, that would create a huge challenge for us even though the system is in place for the school district.

DR. WANZA: Something I would want to add, if I may, so in addition to what Mr. Gohl said. So now the system is programmed. So if Valerie Wanza is the principal at Fort Lauderdale High School and now I'm getting a student from Taravella High School that has all this -- the system sends an email to the principal letting them know, you need to go check EDPlan. I mean, I'm saying it in layman's terms, but basically something is being transferred to you from one school to another. So we try to -- that's why --I mean, it sounded funny, but when we sit here again, I think I'm going to go under the table if we have missed something.

Listen, we're human, but we understand the seriousness of this and we are trying to build in everything so that there are interim, just, alerts to schools. You have to do this. You what is the policy rule and how do you know that

DR. WANZA: So one of the things you heard that in the process is like every 30 days they have to go in and reevaluate, speak to, what are they doing; what's the progress of the monitoring plan? So we have safeguards in place now that if it doesn't happen at that 30 days, and you all correct me if I'm wrong, there's some kind of alert that comes. So now it's my office -- you all read the board agenda items, you see people on there, it's my office that goes out to the school, following everybody's due process rights and respond appropriately to that principal.

MR. MAYERSOHN: So, again, Mr. Jabouin, going back to future audits, to ensure that there's compliance, because this is more of a compliance issue, is that identifying it again if RSM is going to do it again, just to pick X amount of schools, X amount of principals to ensure that if there is a transfer that the process is being followed, you know, whatever systems are in place are working, that's what at least I would, you know, like to see.

MR. JABOUIN: I think that's a natural part of the work that we would do. So if a threat assessment exists, and as I mentioned before, if there's a monitoring plan, if the monitoring plan has certain types of requirements, then that has to be met regardless of if the student transfers schools. It still has to be met through the district.

MR. MAYERSOHN: But to ensure that -- because sometimes somebody transfers and the handoff is not necessarily completed.

MR. JABOUIN: So we could work with RSM to have a sample, have some more of those, so then the testing will pretty much be all inclusive on that end

MR. MAYERSOHN: Yeah. That's my only thing. So let's go around.

Mr. Sabin, do you have any comments? MR. SABIN: I did have a general question regarding this policy and the monitoring plan specifically regarding psychological services. Does the county provide any ongoing support for those individuals who are, I think it's the medium and the high threat folks? Not just make sure that they're behaving right but like if they're having some challenges, like if they're their academic, social, emotional, behavioral needs discussed and addressed. Sometimes situations result in referrals for psychological evaluation to determine if they are eligible for ESE status. We may be making mental health referrals inside of our schools as well as outside to community partners. So there is potentially -- and it's student specific. But that is built into our process. As Christina said, mandatory action steps depending on the risk level that was determined.

MS. REYES: I want to add one more comment. One of the mandatory action steps for substantive level threats, meaning that there's some indication that there's a potential for harm require a clinical student and a clinical parent interview which is conducted by a mental health professional.

So that the intent of those interviews, obviously, is to assess the student's mental health, their well-being and whether or not any additional supports are needed. I failed to mention that that was one of the mandatory actions.

MR. SABIN: Okay. Thank you.

committing cognitive distortions, if there's family issues, if there's, you know, psychological support provided to prevent them, you know, to help them going forward.

MS. REYES: Christina Reyes, District Coordinator, Psychological Services. With each risk level there are mandatory action steps the teams have to take and recommendations that are made. So some of these students might already be in therapy or have some mental health counseling support, but that's certainly one of the action steps that are to be considered for students at certain risk levels. I don't know if that answers your question.

MR. SABIN: Okay.

MS. GOLDSTEIN: Emily Goldstein. I hope -can you hear me okay?

Typically what she says comes out of my mouth as well. We're on the same page.

A lot of times in addition to those action steps the variety of, depending on a particular concern with a student, we have other school-based mechanisms for addressing student needs, school-based collaborative problem solving teams where a student may be referred to have

MR. MAYERSOHN: Mr. Barnes? MR. BARNES: Thank you, Mr. Chair.

Mr. Gohl or maybe Dr. Wanza, Roles and Responsibilities, I think any plan is only as effective as the persons who are charged with implementing what's put in writing. And I think I read in the document, I'm trying to find it, but checks and balances is what I'm really getting at. And it says that the principal has the ultimate responsibility but when the principal is not available it talks about its administrative designee.

I really believe that that should be a little bit more definitive as to who that person will be. Sometimes we have five or six assistant principals. I know there's a second in command, so I -- the second in command may not be the one that the principal feels can carry it out, you know. We all have our strengths and weaknesses.

But before you respond to that, but the bigger issue is -- not an issue, it says that all school-based administrators will go through training and it will be their responsibility to come back and train the students and staff.

Did I read that right?

DR. WANZA: The first question is, in the absence of a principal it has to be an assistant principal. And at the elementary level we know, typically, most elementary schools only have one assistant principal and there could be some of them have two. So but in the absence of the principal it must be an assistant principal. And then I'll let Mr. Lozano and the team talk about once the behavior threat assessment team that must be trained receives the district training, then how other individuals in the school receive the training.

MR. BARNES: Right. That was my question. MS. GOLDSTEIN: Emily Goldstein. So in relation to -- you have your core team at each school receives an initial training and then subsequent annual training. In addition to that, other -- all others that need to know, right, parents, volunteers, people that need to be aware of if they hear of a concern and need to make a threat of a report, last year we rolled out a districtwide warning signs course that is now a

Because if staff -- if they are not trained on this document, implementation gets to be a problem. So I'm looking at the training aspect of this. Who --

MR. GOHL: So, Mr. Barnes, Dan Gohl, Chief Academic Officer. So let me begin and then I'm going to ask Dr. Wanza to step in.

When we had that terrible tragedy and then began examining each and every aspect that we needed to follow up on behavioral threat assessment rose to be high priority. One of the things we wanted to do was bring -- two things, one was incredible definition and detail about what should be done and how it should be done.

MR. BARNES: Right.

MR. GOHL: Definition starts first. We then wanted to make sure that we had intensive training so that people could act against those definitions. And then, third, we have implementation against that training. Because people cannot be expected to properly implement without effective training. But you can't train unless you've defined. And to all three of those we wanted to bring transparency.

So moving to a digital system wide has mandated course in the district that all staff, staff, including teachers and any faculty that you come in contact with students, that would mean front office staff, cafeteria workers, volunteers and other vendors, must take this particular warning signs course once a year, which provides them information on what exactly warning signs are, how they would make a report and going through those details so that that information is brought to the necessary threat assessment team at each school.

MR. BARNES: That's -- that's not getting to -- that's not -- that's not -- what you said, I'm not saying is not true, but I found in the document on page 8 under Roles and Responsibilities, I think it's bullet number, one, two, three, four, it says the team must provide annual training and guidance to students, staff, parents on recognizing needs assessments. So I know who is supposed to do it, but I'm saying, is this saying that the assistant principal or a school-based administrator will conduct an in-service annually to all of these persons that you have listed here? I'm getting to the heart of who is going to do the training?

brought the transparency. We can see every threat assessment. We can dive into the details of where things are behind or not. This issue that you've raised about who's doing the training, right, so for students and staff it gets cascaded to the school level. But the training is developed by the psychological services team to make sure that it's against the right best practices -- the correct best practices. And then we hear feedback from the field of, this doesn't make sense. It may make sense to you as experts, but it doesn't make sense to us in plain language. And so we've modified year to year. We have in-person training required for all first timers and then we have a variety of reenforcement mechanisms, including by Teams events, in-person and what we call Canvas courses. Canvas is our learning management system. Where people get and we record completion certificate numbers for every individual that's trained who has a role within the school district. We do not issue individual certificate numbers for parents and students.

MR. BARNES: You know, I'm going to allow you all to move on on that, but there's -- in other words, Dan, what I'm saying to you, if I am a teacher, a student, or a parent who volunteers, and there is a threat on the day that I am there, who trains these persons? I know you're telling me what services are available. I am looking for boots on the ground.

In other words, are you -- does this document say that at some point during preplanning or at some point during the year that all teachers were brought together and they'll be trained? The bigger issue is the students, are you going to have a gym -- I'm just -- how do you implement that particular item for training students and teachers? That's all I'm looking for.

DR. WANZA: Okay. So I'm going to go back to your days at Hallandale High School and at Lauderhill Middle School.

MR. BARNES: I just had a nightmare.

DR. WANZA: You just had a nightmare? I'm going to go back to your days.

So what the district staff said, so you know how every year we have to do the universal precautions, the child abuse? This is now one of those in the mandatory suites that all -- threat. Which, yes -- so are these -- and I also look for consistency across all policies in the district, so is this threat definition referring to an individual? Because under any circumstances, whether you're a student, a teacher, whatever, staff, a volunteer, this is the definition of a threat for everybody?

MR. BARNES: Thank you. That's all I needed.

MS. HOLLINGSWORTH: Good afternoon. Saemone Hollingsworth. Yes, the threat is for anyone.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. Thank you.

11 MS. GOLDSTEIN: If I may -- Emily Goldstein, just to clarify -- just to add to that, this is a 13 student-centered policy.

> DR. LYNCH-WALSH: No, that's what I started out by saying

MS. GOLDSTEIN: I'm just clarifying that you understood that.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: But I would not want to see threat defined differently in a different policy that doesn't pertain to this particular topic. And I think that Ms. Hollingsworth got what I was saying, is that in any other policy where you're defining a threat, because I know this is student-centered, but a threat could come from anybody. So we need to have a consistent

MR. MAYERSOHN: That all -- that was simple.

DR. WANZA: That's why I said, I'm going to go back to your days. Flashback.

MR. BARNES: It is one of the requirements?

DR. WANZA: Yes, it is one of the required 10 trainings that we have to do every single year.

MR. BARNES: And you already said you have checks and balances to make sure it's done?

DR. WANZA: Yes.

MR. BARNES: We're good.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Anything else, Mr. Barnes?

MR. BARNES: No, I can write a lot of notes.

I'm done.

MR. MAYERSOHN: All right. Dr. Lynch-Walsh?

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: All right. Thank you.

Okay. Some clarification, because I pulled the Policy 21 -- 2130, but the current version, because that was readily available. So the policy on the first page says the outcome of the BTA is not used as a primary determination of a discipline consequence for a student.

So we know that the behavioral threat assessment itself refers to students, but then under definitions it gets a little murky because it mentions an individual in the definition of a definition of what a threat is, which moving on to the second page, because in -- I understand that in the audit the older definitions were used, the newer definitions, there seem to be four of them where we have an imminent threat, substantive threat, transient threat and then unfounded, slash, no threat decision, which is G on page 2.

So if it's determined to not be a threat, should we really be calling it a threat in the policy or should it say following a detailed account of the communication or behavior obtained by interviewing the person who made the communication or behavior, the intended victim, and other witnesses, a threat could not be corroborated or substantiated?

Because if it's unfounded and it's not a threat then why are we calling it a threat.

MR. GOHL: So, Ms. Lynch-Walsh, you've raised an incredibly important issue here. But let me give you an example that happened in the fall of 2019. I think it was day 2 of the school year. Kindergarten student made a gun with their hand, pointed it at other students and a behavioral threat assessment was done on that student.

MR. GOHL: So the issue becomes, if a professional judgment is made that, in fact, that was not a threat, but someone was concerned that it might have been a threat, which error do you make? Do you make the error of documenting it and finding that it was unsubstantiated or do you make the error of never recording it?

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Oh, no, I'm not suggesting not recording it. I'm simply saying from a semantics --

MR. GOHL: This is how we then record something that someone was concerned about, it was evaluated and found not to be a threat.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: No, I get that. And usually you and I are on the same page on these things. But I'm just saying, if a threat is defined as a communication or behavior, then if you're using the word a detailed account of the communication or behavior, because we're assigning a word threat to something that subsequently isn't a threat whereas in these others it is a threat. It's a semantics -- the Evergreen report, but they have no jurisdiction over the people that are supposed to be doing the behaviors in compliance.

MR. GOHL: So in order to review why it was structured the way it was I need to return the audit committee to the fall of 2018. This was less than a year after the tragedy.

There was an incredible desire to make sure that there was not siloing of training implementation and oversight. And so therefore a matrix was established. Definitions and training were to be in the Office of Academics, implementation under the Office of School Performance and Accountability. And so we needed an external third party division to make sure that the compliance was done. That was board discussion in the fall/winter of 2018 into the spring of 2019 that resulted in the language you see here today.

The audit committee is certainly open to make policy amendment recommendations through the committee process to the superintendent if they view that as problematic.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Just if I can wrap up this. So, because, to me, in order to have compliance

Page 86

MR. GOHL: So a potential threat as opposed to being found as a threat or suspected threat?

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Made the potential threat. That would be an improvement.

MR. GOHL: Okay. Got it. Got it.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: That would be getting us closer. Short of leaving communication or behavior in its place.

Okay. So the other question I have, so it clearly says the Chief Safety and Security Officer shall ensure compliance with this policy. And when I read this policy I was confused because then I saw the policy custodian is Office of Academics. We know that principals bear a lot of responsibility for compliance to be -- they are the ones, physically, meant to comply.

So I'm a little confused why it would only refer to the Chief Safety and Security Officer and not also OSPA, because that would seem to be the logical office to include for having compliance with this policy. Because as far as I know principals report to OSPA, not to the safety and security officer. And this has been a problem for years where one office has responsibility for compliance, this came out with there has to be accountability. And the way you get accountability is to tie people to evaluations. Well, first you need to have everybody that's involved -- I get what they were saying, but if the principals are responsible for complying, then it seems that their supervisor should be -- should be ensuring compliance. Which it sounds like you are, the only thing is it's not reflected in the policy. And then the degree to which the compliance is achieved, so, for instance, they need to have clear, measurable, obtainable goals, the ones that are responsible. And it can be based on continuous improvement, reducing the percentages if they're reviewing things constantly because they keep -yes, you're monitoring plans, you're monitoring the monitoring plans and you're monitoring compliance, but is it tied to something tangible that will motivate people to make sure that we're actually seeing improvements?

Because we can review and monitor all we want, but if it isn't changing, then what is everybody doing?

MR. MAYERSOHN: So Dr. Walsh, is that a motion?

			23 (Pages 89 to 92)

question that I posed to our cabinet is, what are the ways in which we can communicate on a more regular basis how we are doing with our behavioral threat assessment? So I'm not in a position today to provide that answer but I have noted it and it is on our agenda for review this afternoon in the cabinet.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. Dr. Walsh? DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Yeah, so as far as getting a timeframe because if they did, say, I don't know, the first quarter of this year, the first half of this year, we have it during this school year before we break for summer.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Right. Well, that's what she said. She's going to review that with the cabinet and Mr. Jabouin can come back to us at our next meeting or November's meeting and say here's what, you know, the commentary was and, you know, we're going to implement it or not or do something different, you know, whatever it may be, whatever the conversation is.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. And then I wrote down Ms. Fertig's recommendation about quarterly reports to the board for the purpose of showing continuous improvement. That should be something Page 95 can show those -- not just the quarterly reports, but I'm talking about making a difference in people's lives. And I think wherever you can show that human story, we should share it. Because I think it's important for the whole community. It encourages people to try to access mental health services, as well as showing them what we can -- you know, what can happen in a child's life if you do that.

So in addition to the quarterly reports I would just like to, if there are some stories you can share, I'd like to suggest we start doing that on a regular basis.

MR. MAYERSOHN: And additional quarterly funding.

MS. FERTIG: Well, I mean, I think Mr. Medvin asked those questions in the beginning. I assume he's going to get back to those, but I think those are critical in society today, so --

And I want to echo, I had written down what Mr. Barnes said, I thought this was such a good comment, what happens when you have the volunteers in the schools and they're going to be in the schools, so that volunteer training component is important, too.

that's broken down by. And then the earlier issue about training of volunteers, because I heard an answer for staff, but SAC staff and PTA would seem to be the route to go for training volunteers directly and properly. And those are the rest of my notes.

But thank you.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Ms. Shaw?

MS. SHAW: No.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Did you say, no?

MR. MAYERSOHN: She said, no.

Ms. Fertig, any more comments?

MS. FERTIG: Yeah, I just want to -- I would like to put the quarterly report to the board of compliance in a motion and attach it to our recommendation.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Second.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. So that's your motion?

MS. FERTIG: Well, we can do that right now.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay.

MS. FERTIG: And then I can tell you, but let me just say that, as you do this, just as you've done so successfully with things like inventory, of course, I think we're going to see some very positive results for the district. So where you

Page 96

And those are all recommendations I'd like to see made to the board so they can amend the policy accordingly.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Mr. De Meo?

MR. DE MEO: Yeah, just following up on Mr. Barnes' question. I think I have the answer about the training. I was concerned about the training. From an audit committee standpoint, do we -- do we test that? Is that part of the test, to see if training is done on a timely basis and appropriate for all the parties?

MS. MANLOVE: Yes.

MR. DE MEO: Okay. And the second item is, do we have some device established for law enforcement to report into our system?

MR. GOHL: So, Mr. De Meo, I want to make sure that I'm properly capturing that. Law enforcement has mature and established processes in conducting behavioral threat assessments as they do their profession and I would defer to them to describe them. They can initiate behavioral threat assessment as defined under the required statutes for them, and then they do, when appropriate, convey those threat assessments to us if that is an enrolled student in one of our schools.

1.0

That does not necessarily initiate a behavioral threat assessment at the school, because if it happened in the community we are then aware of the legal implications of it; right? But we are in close communication with our SROs, and for those schools that don't have SROs with our municipalities to make sure that there is information sharing. But for them to upload into our EDPlan, their behavioral threat assessment would actually be mixing two different types of documents even though they share a common title. So if they become aware of a threat to a school we initiate a behavioral threat assessment at the school. But if it's a community based one, it may be different.

MR. DE MEO: So if we have a student that has some challenges and might be a threat to himself or a school, does law enforcement, if they're involved in some event, report that? And is there uniformity and is there an obligation to do so?

CHIEF ROSA: Chief Rosa. So we have a couple of different things going on with threats and I'll start by talking outside of the school.

timestamped with who created it and at what time. So, yes.

MR. DE MEO: Okay. Take it a step further. Someone in the community, a parent, calls and says, I've seen some unusual behavior and I know this child is a student at such-and-such a school, what happens? And do we audit that? Do we audit the incoming external?

MR. GOHL: So I want to say, yes. Because when a school receives a threat it acts on it. But you're asking a difficult question, which is to prove a negative. Right? How do we prove that every phone call that's been received that should have produced an action by the school authority -- because we do not have a transaction log of the contents of every phone call. It's one of those areas that is above and beyond what I have been able to define as auditable without actually monitoring every phone call that comes in. So every call that comes in people are trained on what to do. And based on the volume of threat assessments, which rose by a factor of, I think it was 15 in the 2018-19 school year, and then leading up to the 19-20 school year we saw it go down some. But we had about 300 before

So law enforcement, you know, we've responded to calls where, for example, a student at a Broward school makes a threat or -- makes a threat or does something threatening to the community at large, we handle that as a law enforcement manner outside the school. If there's any nexus at all to a school, and the majority of times, and I'll speak for the Sunrise Police Department, the majority of the times our relationship with the principals of those schools, we are relaying the fact that one of their students was involved in a situation. So

Scenario two is, outside of the school we receive information or we have to deal with a threat to the school after school hours or such as that. So we will, again, deal with the law enforcement matter of the issue, but there is always a notification made to the principal of the school or the designee and that initiates the internal threat assessment for the district.

that's scenario one.

MR. DE MEO: And do we incorporate that into our records?

MR. GOHL: As soon as a threat assessment's initiated there is an electronic record

Page 100

MSD. We're now talking about there were a thousand done the following year. And so we believe that people are acting on it.

Where this audit process, this RSM under Mr. Jabouin's leadership has done is, once we have the record, the digital transaction of a behavioral threat assessment being commenced, has it been done correctly? You're asking us to go back further in time.

MR. DE MEO: Yeah, I'm interested in, you know, the involvement, the entire community being involved for the good and safety of all the kids. So is there a publicized number that the public is aware of to call about these matters?

DR. WANZA: Well, Valerie Wanza, Chief School Performance and Accountability Officer, so, yes, sir. So on the district website we have something where we're checking school websites, but we have this whole community wide campaign, if you see something, say something. We also have a whistles alert. We have a number of mechanisms for individuals to report. They can do it by calling. They can go to the district website. They can contact, obviously, their local law enforcement who then contacts the school district. I can tell you, personally, the amount of nights at 3:30 in the morning, because law enforcement saw something, they've already tipped either SIU or the principal and at 2:45 they're at the child's house because something was on social media, a parent heard something, they saw something at the Optimist field.

And so can we always do better? I mean, absolutely. But there is an awareness across the community and we keep communicating it. The superintendent did a video. We do ParentLink messages to the home.

So we keep sending that message. But I can tell you that it doesn't have to wait until the bell rings and school starts. A number of incidents are resolved overnight because law enforcement's in tune, a parent has said something, someone saw something and we are responding with all deliberate speed.

MR. GOHL: I'd just like to add that SaferWatch, I want to repeat that, SaferWatch is the application which we are downloading --

DR. WANZA: Oh, I'm sorry.

MR. GOHL: No, no, you're absolutely correct. I'm adding to it.

that would be a simple procedure to take a test of a few calls and see if -- trace them through the system.

Sir, you were going to respond?

CHIEF ROSA: Yes, Chief Rosa. So I did want to say, and this is actually the answer to your previous question, the last part, and you just brought it up again, is there -- there is a difference, law enforcement agency to law enforcement agency, based on that law enforcement agency's specific interactions with the schools, they don't have SRO versus they do, for example.

So if you're hearing that there may not be great communication, I think that goes back to an earlier comment of some difficulties where there are no SROs directly in the school.

From a global perspective, from the chief's association though, we believe that where there are SROs there is greater communication with the school there.

MR. DE MEO: Yeah, I think that works good. I think from the standpoint of the app, I've heard that no app in Broward County because it's not a link, we're not all linked to these law enforcement agencies that, you know, it might not

DR. WANZA: Okay.

MR. GOHL: Right? And what that does is provide geo location sensing. So right now my SaferWatch app tells me that I am at KCW.

We strongly encourage every community member, and I want to use this opportunity to promote, download the SaferWatch app no matter what role in your community it is. And that will enable you to report. And that goes to the centralized crime center in addition to the school district.

MR. DE MEO: Yeah, I've heard that -- from other law enforcement people that the communication is not great on these matters. But -- and I want to hear what you have to say.

Perhaps we should consider auditing that, those publicized access numbers and means of communicating the threats from the outside community to make sure -- I mean, if the Miami FBI can miss a call, a detailed call, and not act on it, you know, certainly -- so that just might be an area that we -- we might want to incorporate. I'm thinking of this from an audit standpoint. Of course I'm concerned about the safety of our children. So anything we can do, if we're going to spend the money on an audit, work. But it's better than nothing. I agree with you. And there are other apps out there that, you know, the school has looked at for, you know, an alert button, a panic button, voice-activated panic buttons. All of those should be looked into. I know we passed recently Alyssa's Law, I think that's going in the right direction, so --

CHIEF ROSA: Yes. And as far as the apps go, I just wanted to bring up, with the apps and you mentioned SaferWatch, the Broward Sheriff's Office, all of their regional communication centers and then there's two non-regional communication centers, all do have this and other apps going directly into the centers. So outside of the district or outside of the district control, somebody triggers one of these alerts, they are, law enforcement is notified.

And then my last comment regarding the notification, I did want to mention that it's very important to the public or anyone that receives a threat, if they're going to use one of the apps, I always encourage call 911. 911 is the one constant that you will always get to law enforcement, someone answering the phone and some

Page 105 Page 107 1 kind of a response. So I just wanted to mention My last -- I'll make an editorial comment, I 2 that. think there were a lot of positive things said MR. MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. So are there any other comments? Seeing none -- yes, Mr. Gohl, are you in favor?

MR. GOHL: No, I just want to take time to thank the professionals of RSM, but in particular the presence of our law enforcement partners here today. We're tremendously grateful for your ongoing, both at the chief level and particularly in Sunrise with all of your SROs. Deep gratitude.

The process to create the plan has been reviewed by the Auditor General. They probably spent a month with me in April reviewing how I did the previous years' plans so that way -- and I used that to continue doing this. And this is very similar to what I've done in my career. So I looked at a lot of different data. I took a look at -- I had meetings with a variety of people from the board members, the cabinet members, and so forth. And then when it comes down to it, I took a look at what we're required to do.

Now, much of our plan are things that we do not -- does not actually yield a report because we're working with the external auditors, we're working with the Auditor General, there are a variety of things that we get from the Office of Inspector General. So much of it is not things that you see. And there's also things that due to the -- the governmental agencies -- you know, I can't talk about the ongoing assistance that we give them until it's time for those things to become public.

Ultimately, we do have six positions that we're recruiting for. There are projects that we

Sunrise.

MR. MAYERSOHN: All right. Mr. Jabouin, if we can move --

Thank you, Ms. Hollingsworth.

If we can move the -- if we can move the audit plan on just a high level without getting -- because I think we've all read it. I mean, I can kind of ask is that I think we all agree, obviously, that there are some things that need -- that are compliant that need to be done, there are other things that are a part of it.

I guess my question would be at this point, do we have any initial comments or do we need a presentation from Mr. Jabouin on it?

MR. JABOUIN: I believe some wording from me is indeed required to put the situation at hand.

So I want to mention that -- a few things.

One is, we typically present the audit plan at the first meeting of the year in August. Part of the reason why we're presenting at this time is I wanted to make sure with the new superintendent starting that I went over the plan with her. And upon her arrival she was dealing with quite a few monumental type of issues, so I could not get into the August meeting.

statutorily have to do. There also are projects that we're very deep into doing that are in process. There also are projects that have very high risk. And I want to tell you what the highest risk of this organization is and, you know, and do we have that covered? And I think -- our number one risk is information technology. There's plenty of information technology coverage in this plan. Construction has plenty of coverage. Contracts and procurement, the regulatory requirements that we have to do, the discipline and the behavioral threat assessment, maintenance contracts and payroll. Those are what's called -- not that the other items are not important, but, ultimately, the items that I have on page 39 and 40 are very worthy audit areas, if you go to page 40. But there is not enough room with our resources and our head count to bring them in. And we can't necessarily just bring an outsider to come in, because, just like me working with RSM on this last audit and some of the other ones, you can't just bring them to come and do the work.

Now, there are plans to minimize this. We do have an audit director position that is in my unit. The board approved that in March. And we're going to be able to get through some of these.

But, ultimately, the items that I have on pages 22 and beyond, there really are just two projects that we could potentially move in and out. Let me take you to page -- the IT pages, and only because I'm going a little bit faster on the condensed piece. I believe projects 11 and 15 are the ones that we can decide that we're not going to do.

So if you go to project 11, which we do need to -- this is a necessary IT audit would be one that we could potentially not do. The one that I'm recommending to the board that we take a look at in lieu of the previous ones on the former chief information officer is project number 12. That's the project that the board approved recently on the technology purchases.

So number 15, which I stated, which is the payroll, I don't really think that this needs to be taken out because the board spent quite a bit of money on the payroll project that Ms. Marte was initially leading.

So if you feel that I've captured the risk

I want to make sure, we've had a lot of conversation about technology and we've had a lot of philosophical debates about whether we look at what's in the past or we just move forward. And I want to make sure that those things that we asked for, because I did see HCT on here, but then on page 40 you have the IT district agreement with Lenovo. So I want to make sure that the audit that we have spent -- the one that we've already spent so much time on, that we are following up on those next year and that we don't lose them. I think we specifically asked to continue to look. And I understand the philosophical let's not look back. I say let's look back to make sure it was done correctly so we don't make the mistake in the future and to recover whatever funds we can that we -- that were inappropriately spent and anybody has liability for. So I want to make sure that's covered.

MR. JABOUIN: Yeah, the points that HCT had as far as the stamped-in bids, as far as the financial analysis worksheet, and there was a third one that I can't recall, those are going to be imbedded into this particular project. A correctly and that there are audits that cover those risks, then in some of the other organizations that I've had, that's been the questions of audit committee members, and the question is, which one of this and that that you are addressing as long you're addressing all the risks? But I wanted to go ahead and introduce this.

Ultimately, we are in September and some of the projects, like this project, it's on there, but we can't do everything, but we can do everything that we do correctly, professionally and coming up with solutions on how to make things better.

That's the introductory piece. I actually had a much longer speech on this, but this is what I would like to have. Obviously, if there's any recommendations that something be added, then I'm also looking for the wording on what gets removed. So that's my introduction. Ms. Fertig?

MR. MAYERSOHN: Ms. Fertig?

MS. FERTIG: Okay. First of all, and you can anticipate that I would be making my usual motion on -- at the end on hiring appropriate staff and giving him the resources he needs to do this, but board member asked me about that and that is going to be. The difference is, though, by going back into those Lenovo bids from 2013 and 2014, it's going to obviously take some time. I believe we need to be looking at the current contracts. Sure, there's risks out there on any audit, but we can be looking at the current controls is part of what's behind my recommendation. I -- I mean, the audits that were done, HCT did test that we received what was on order. That was part of their scope. Recovery amounts, we really don't know and we don't know what it would be under this contract as well.

MS. FERTIG: I'm sorry to interrupt. The conversation, as I recall, was, all right, we first started with Recordex, we went to the Lenovo bid, and then I think that we asked to look at a couple others to make sure that they were handled appropriately. Is that in here?

MR. JABOUIN: It's not because we can't do those. Those couple others would be at the bottom of page 40. So we do create that list of transactions that the former chief information officer may have had involvement in, and the IT

So going back to those -- now, remember it took HCT a very long time to get that project done. So, you know, we are talking about where do we want to put our time on? We can still look at the same objectives and more under the current audit. That's the basis of my recommendation.

MS. FERTIG: I mean, I see the Lenovo bid on here. I think we've now pretty much exhausted what did or did not happen in that process. So I'm not sure why that's on here.

MR. JABOUIN: There's followup on there.

MS. FERTIG: Okay. I'm more interested in if there were other bids in later years, and you say nothing is going to be recoverable, we don't know that. That would take an attorney to figure out if there was any fraud or anything. So I was more interested in the followup -- not the followup. I wasn't as interested in the followup because I think we've talked pretty much the Lenovo, I think we've pretty much had a very full discussion on that as looking at a couple of the other purchases perhaps in the later years. So I don't see any of that. I don't see that on here. But Ms. Shaw has her hand up.

them I remember, the third one I can't remember.

There's some followup to that. MR. MAYERSOHN: All right. Ms. Shaw?

MS. SHAW: I don't want to beat a dead horse, I think we have done it. But I think one of our motions was exactly that. And I would like to really see -- we don't know how to move forward if we don't know where we've been. And I think looking at some more of those procurements will tell us where we were. It kind of gives us like a guidebook for us to put in the future.

And I understand that we're working on putting in policies and procedures to mitigate any issues similar to what happened with this contract, but I still want to look at some of those procurements as well. And I understand you're saying that something needs to come out and maybe that's the homework that we need to take back with us and kind of go through and see. I mean, in addition, I'd like to see the SAC audits as well.

MR. JABOUIN: There's no room for SAC audits. MS. SHAW: So maybe part of the issue is staffing?

MR. JABOUIN: I don't think so. I would not

Page 122

MR. JABOUIN: In order -- I'm sorry, Ms. Shaw, just to answer Ms. Fertig's question, in order to take any of those later bids I would have to take out one of these that's in here. And I truly believe that what we're going to look at as far as the most current bid, the PPO bids, we're going to take a project under the PPO one from bidding, to contract approval, to pay. Under the procurement ones that we have on there, at this time we're going to take three different ones and we're going to take that from procurement to contract approval. I think that we may never get to these current ones if we're looking at some of the older ones.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Ms. Shaw?

But, ultimately, Ms. Fertig, something's got to go out in order for that to come in.

MS. FERTIG: Okay. I see that. I see that. But what was your HCT followup on here?

MR. JABOUIN: That's the followup on the issues. Since this is a plan that starts on July 1, one of the audits is the audit that you looked at in August, and then the lingering followups from the three different issues that -- the three different observations that they had. Two of recommend to the board to add staffing to cover the SAC audits because nothing has come out in any of the discussions as far as anything regarding fraud. They have been just inquiries as far as whether or not there's proper reporting

So I think if we are aware of legitimate allegations of fraud that's going on there, then that's something that's a different picture. But none of those communications have said that.

But, ultimately, we are trying to augment to our staff and we need to be able to hire them. But at the same time I don't think that we have the bandwidth to hire a firm to take a look at those. So it is one of those things that there really is no more room on the plan.

MR. MAYERSOHN: So let's go back --MS. SHAW: Can I just say one comment before, then I'll stop?

MR. MAYERSOHN: Go ahead.

MS. SHAW: There were no issues as it relates to the IT audit either. We were moving along until there was an issue. So -- and that's my only thing. And then all of a sudden we have a mess and Broward Schools is all over the news everywhere on the IT audit. So -- and I'm not saying there are, I'm just saying we can't just leave it to chance and say --

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Wait until there's a problem.

MS. SHAW: Exactly.

MR. JABOUIN: We are focused on the higher risk areas. So the areas that have been chosen are all worthy audits on that end. And there are other audits besides the ones that you mentioned that also didn't make the plan that's on the list. There's travel, there is some of the inspections, there's transportation. All of them are worthy areas of audit. But all organizations, large organizations, need to be able to select the higher risk of those particular areas. And it's not that those are not important, but, ultimately, you've got to expect a program to look at some and you can't get to all of them.

MS. FERTIG: Well, you mentioned you could take some out of here.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Right. Well, that's what I said. Where the IT number, I think Mr. Jabouin mentioned project 11, which is the IT plan as it is.

And there are so many factors that we don't know. We don't know what the Auditor General audit's going to have. We don't know what else will be required for us to do on that end.

So it's really -- you know, it's the best that we can do, but I think it's very -- we're focused on the right areas.

MR. DE MEO: Mr. Chair, will there be a quorum if I leave now?

MR. JABOUIN: We need seven. No, we have 10? We need six.

MR. MAYERSOHN: One, two, three, four, five, six. No, we're okay. All right. One, two, three, four, five, six; if you leave. We have seven now.

MS. SHAW: And I'm leaving.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Phyllis is leaving.

MR. DE MEO: I'll just make a quick comment, if you'll allow me, before I leave.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Well, then you've got to stay to vote.

MR. JABOUIN: You can't leave. One of you two have to stay.

MR. DE MEO: Oh, we've got two people application, and then, I believe, 15, which is payroll. My opinion is I don't think we should take out payroll, but at least the IT application.

MR. JABOUIN: It's hard to stress the importance of information technology issues that are out there. I can't imagine -- I couldn't recommend replacing an IT audit for the SAC audits.

MR. MAYERSOHN: No, no, no, I'm not saying the SAC audit.

MR. JABOUIN: There's a couple of them on the table. As far as the history of, so we have the Recordex project and that received an audit and there's some followup to that. That's on the table and that's on the plan. The one that HCT bid on, the IT technology device did not have any policy issues. That was stamped-in bids and the financial analysis worksheet issues were observations. Going into a third bid when we have individuals that don't work at the district anymore, and I'm not aware if law enforcement is looking at that situation with their work on the former chief information officer, but when it really comes down to it, it's a very aggressive leaving?

MR. JABOUIN: We need six.

MR. MAYERSOHN: I mean, here's -- here's -- before everybody leaves, I mean, I think we're at a point where we either have to take something out if we want something in. And we have to decide what we want to take out. You have a different opinion, Dr. Walsh?

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Well, first of all, two people need to leave.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Correct.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: I think -- I think, as an audit committee, it's a little disingenuous to tell -- our job is to kind of suggest improvements to everybody else and for us to not learn lessons ourselves.

I think we have learned that we cannot have more than one major topic on an agenda.

MR. MAYERSOHN: We're going to discuss that on November 1st.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Right. But what I'm getting at is, I'm not ready to vote on this, because I will pick up and leave if that's what it takes to prevent that from happening, myself. Because, once again, this -- when I started on audit committee, the audit plan was discussed in May. And I've only been here for five years. It's now almost October and this is probably the third time this has gotten rammed down our throats that it's an emergency, you gotta, gotta, gotta, and before I can even talk about any of that we're talking about staffing shortage? When did Jerry retire, the facility manager? What was his retirement date?

1.8

nothing or --

MR. JABOUIN: I do have that answer, but I want to mention that the items that you're saying, they're missing a lot of different context on them. There are reasons why we are reviewing this at this time.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: All right. Like I promised, I'm going to leave if you're going to cut me off while I have the floor. I asked you a question, when did he retire?

MR. JABOUIN: The answer is he retired in March of 2020 but we do not have a slate of candidates for that role and that's why that position is open.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: That can't possibly be true.

MR. JABOUIN: We do not have a slate of in the future to know with whom you share the risk assessment with and the actual audit procedure.

Now, if there's a deterrent factor or nature to not sharing it with us, that's fine, but did you discuss it with the superintendent; did you discuss it with the CFO?

MR. JABOUIN: I have.

MR. DE MEO: I mean, what are the high risk areas? You know, there's a beautiful chart in there, the risk assessment and the process. But without knowing how you assess the risk, even if you just broadly discuss it and which areas are the highest risk it's hard for us to wholeheartedly endorse something like this.

And then what level of detail are you giving the board? Are they just taking your report and saying, yeah, go ahead, you did a real nice job, I have confidence in the work you will do based on our past with you? But I think it is not possible for us to discharge our responsibilities as an audit committee without a little bit more detail.

MR. JABOUIN: I mean, obviously, some of the conversations I have on the risk assessment, due candidates for that role. That is true.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. So, Mr. Mayersohn, I'm not ready to vote on this.

MS. FERTIG: Can I, in the interest that we're going to lose some members, just make a motion -- a formal motion to defer? Because we're going to lose some members and then we're not going to be able to do anything. So I'm sorry about that, but I'm making a motion.

MR. DE MEO: I'm for that, but maybe we could go forward with the plan as is and then have another crack at it to amend it if necessary.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: That'll never happen.
MR. DE MEO: Because I'm concerned -- but I am concerned about what the chief auditor is going to do in the interim. Is he going to do

MR. JABOUIN: No, no, no, I will go along with this framework because it makes audit sense because we have requirements that we have to meet. The only thing that we can really do is remove one project and replace it to another. Because, ultimately, the work needs to be done and it has to be done correctly.

MR. DE MEO: I think it would be beneficial to the nature of them, are not ones where I will take personal notes because there's a level of confidence that individuals have on their perception of risk that they don't want communicated. So, you know, there are some limitations to that. But I will say though to anyone, the seven areas of risk that I indicated that have come out as a result of my meeting, it's hard to imagine that people would disagree on the information technology risk, the construction risk, the district policies on discipline.

Ultimately, when everything is said and done, there's not any choice on other areas to really audit except for the ones that have been chosen. So there is a logic behind all of them.

MS. FERTIG: Well, I'm just going to be blunt. I'm sorry.

MR. DE MEO: There's no doubt about it. It's just sharing it with us. And then I think that would eliminate most of our questions in terms of our concerns.

MS. FERTIG: I would also say that -- I'm just going to speak bluntly. I feel you have been resistant since we began asking for the MAYERSOHN: All right. Yes, Dr. Walsh. DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. So related to that, we have now passed three motions and the first motion that we passed regarding the second one being about the reporting structure, the first third motion which we transmit this to the board with the recommendation that we audit selected transactions by the former CIO that includes the specifications and purchases and invoicing and the adequacy of the bid specifications of that bid.

This is a district that needs to rebuild public trust. And to Ms. Shaw's point earlier, if you don't know what you did in the past with this $80 million bid, and you don't quantify it, then they're never going to trust that this district will spend their money appropriately again. Nor should they.

So this was about understanding what happened in there in terms of the specifications being appropriate and the purchases and invoices -- invoicing, what was bought, being appropriate.

If a district cannot admit to having made mistakes, it doesn't -- then it's never fixing a mistake. It cannot -- this district cannot stay in denial. And that's what this was about.

And to that point, the BOC is also trying, the Bond Oversight Committee, one of their points is they urged Broward Schools to -- let's see, basically, look at recovering -- oh, here we go, Page 139 because I do know of all the other agencies, I guess to make your life easier, Mr. Jabouin, then I will contact them with all of the backup that I have on this issue and you'll just have to then respond when the state comes to you. So that's the end of that and I know everybody has to go and I have one thing that I wanted to bring up as a followup item when we get there.

MR. JABOUIN: Ultimately, the board determines the audit plan. And, obviously, they can choose. And we will do so if they choose to look at the old transactions from the former chief information officer.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: You're not even putting it in the audit plan.

MR. JABOUIN: If they would like that, it will be in the audit plan.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: We would -- we clearly indicated we wanted it audited. We passed a motion.

MR. JABOUIN: And I responded to that. DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Yes, you said it's not happening.

MS. FERTIG: And to the point, I know we've got to go, so I'm just going to keep this quick request assurance from Broward Schools that they're pursuing recapture of any funds misspent by the former IT director. I said, well, how can we know what was misspent if we haven't quantified it? But we did pass -- and I let them know that we passed a motion for that very purpose.

So here you have two advisory groups trying to accomplish essentially the same thing and we can't get this into the audit plan. That is a problem.

MR. JABOUIN: Just to counter that, let's remember that none of those audits identified amounts that we would be able to collect. At the same time --

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: You're focusing on the least important thing.

MR. JABOUIN: -- there were representations that were made by district staff at these meetings as far as controls that were in place and that's what I'm recommending that we test.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. And since -- to the point of the resistance, there are other agencies -- it does look better when the district polices itself, but if that cannot happen,

-- brief. You never asked the question. Because we didn't have any school board attorney here to ask it to, if it was possible to recover any of these funds. I've sat on this committee for a long time because, you know, eventually that happens. And what I want to say is, there was a time when that was going on with construction and we made a point to say, if it's possible to go back and recover these funds -- I think that's one of the best things Pat Riley did, he was able to go back, the school board attorney routinely came and sat in on those conversations, is it possible to recover these funds?

And so to say that they didn't point that out, well, I mean, it was never even discussed. So I don't think that's a valid reason not to do it. The most -- and I think that's one of the most important reasons to do it.

MR. MAYERSOHN: So here's what I'm going to suggest. Dr. Cartwright, you've heard the conversation. Our next meeting that we have is

MR. JABOUIN: November 18th.
MR. MAYERSOHN: November 18th? If you can take that into conversation with Mr. Jabouin as well as the cabinet and come back with a response, I would -- at least I would -- I think this board would appreciate it.

DR. CARTWRIGHT: I would greatly appreciate that. I also need to get the history as to the conversations we've had with our board and if this has already gone to the board or not and what that decision was. And so I will research that. Because if the board has already taken action on it, the board has spoken at this point.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. And the other -- the other piece that I just want to bring up because I forgot to mention when Mr. Gohl was here, we did have a motion about reporting, that currently right now Mr. Jabouin reports to the superintendent, and we wanted it to -- or we made a motion to, for the school board could change that reporting line from the -- from Mr. Jabouin reporting directly to the school board as opposed to the superintendent. We did make a motion. I did meet with the school board chair. And what's been in limbo is how we move that forward.

The school board chair agreed that she would be willing to explain that with her board members but my question was still at a point of how do we and be able to try to recover and attach -- I don't know the legal term, I'm an accountant, but attach, you know, whatever costs that we feel that we can recover.

MR. MAYERSOHN: So I guess as well, Dr. Cartwright, is to review with legal if in any of the things what options there are with cost recovery.

MR. JABOUIN: Regarding the IT technology devices?

MR. MAYERSOHN: Right. Dr. Walsh? DR. LYNCH-WALSH: This is not on that item, it's under Audit Committee Comments. So if we're there --

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. We'll go to Audit Committee Comments.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. So back in January I made a formal bullying complaint. There was a -- my student, SAC member, that came to our meeting in -- I think it was our November meeting last year to -- I think he had questions about his SAC and how the funds were being spent. Dr. Wanza said she would look into what had happened, because I basically suggested that somewhere between the school and her office someone told move forward. So if we can get a response or present it to Dr. Osgood about the response that would be also as well appreciated.

DR. CARTWRIGHT: Duly noted. Thank you. MS. FERTIG: Has the board passed the audit plan, Mr. Jabouin? If it has, I don't know why it's in front of us.

MR. JABOUIN: It did not. I did want to mention though, I did discuss this subject matter in my meeting with the board members. Because part of risk assessment was meeting with them, and I discussed the difference of opinion as far as whether or not to look at the current contracts or the older ones.

So they are aware of -- not only the response I provided, I provided a direct response, I also provided a response with the audit that was attached to it as well. And, ultimately, we will look at what we're instructed to look at. It's just my recommendation is that we look at the more current ones instead of the older ones.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Ms. Shaw?

MS. SHAW: The only point I want to make about recovery is that because there is currently a court case. As an organization we can usurp his parents that he could be disciplined, basically, because of the questions he was asking. And it all started after his appearance here. So at that January meeting she said she would look into it. I made, basically, the formal bullying, anti-bullying complaint, and we -- it's now going into October and there's been no response. So I've made a copy of the minutes to give to you, Dr. Cartwright. Mr. Mayersohn was -- we had a whole discussion about it. But we're expecting an answer. Because we cannot have children who are trying to volunteer and serve their school be bullied off of SAC, which the kid is no longer on SAC, he's no longer involved in anything in the district. He was on the Facilities Task Force. He was Ms. Leonardi's appointee and he had to resign from that. And --

MR. JABOUIN: I think Dr. Wanza replied to that. Obviously, she's left the meeting.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Yes. Unfortunately. So there's never been any response as to what transpired with the AP that contacted his parents, because his response -- and I, personally, the way that they normally go about these things is to issue an adult a trespass

So there should be an answer in terms of what transpired there, but these are the minutes where we had the discussion. So I made an extra copy and that's all I need to say. Thank you.

MR. MAYERSOHN: So, Ms. Shaw, do you have my comments?

MS. SHAW: Well, yeah, on the same -- and I totally forgot about January. One reason I'm thinking about the SAC funding is this just came up at one of our PTA meetings where a parent said she was not involved in voting on how the SAC money should be distributed. And, of course, there's a particular certain percentage of parents that need to be voting on SAC.

MR. MAYERSOHN: No, no, no, no, no. They need to be --

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: The members.

MR. MAYERSOHN: You need to have the majority of parents as members, but only the those in attendance --

MS. SHAW: Yes, sir, I understand the rules. I was a SAC -- I was SAF chair.

relate to how you spent X, Y and Z dollars.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: And even after we got all the documents I still couldn't quite make out whether he should be concerned or not. Because it's very convoluted. And that's to the point. We should not have to audit individual SACs when a concern comes up. We, as volunteers, do enough. So that's why people wanted -- and it was a DAC motion and DAC consists of all the SAC members, SAC and SAF, and they clearly wanted the SAC accountability fund dollars audited.

MR. JABOUIN: I did look -- subsequent to this person making that allegation I went into that school's website and I saw information regarding budgets on the different agendas for the SAC meeting.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: They put that up after the fact. But the bottom line is, even after you cull through it, basically, I went through and reconciled, there's still -- it's still not completely clear whether they spent the funds appropriately.

MR. JABOUIN: But not only did I look at that meeting, I also looked at previous SAC meetings whether or not they were on the website or not.

Page 146

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Not her first rodeo.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Not SAF, SAC. MS. SHAW: Right. But part of -- your SAF chair is usually in your SAC. MR. MAYERSOHN: Right.

MS. SHAW: My point is, there seems to be -that's one of the reasons I wanted this to be included. But I do understand that we do have other areas that are higher risk, one of which is the one that we're beating the dead horse to death.

MR. MAYERSOHN: I mean, I -- and I'll just chime in. I think, my personal opinion on SAC is that that's operational, that they need to be, like PTA presents a budget, SAC needs to present a clear budget of what their beginning balance, ending balance, what they've spent the money on, how it's attached with the motion that they've had or anything in their minutes so those funds can be then open and transparent to everybody that's there. Because I think that was more of the issue of, he asked for documentation and he wasn't getting it. He wasn't at the meetings and he said, you guys said, you know, you spent the money on this, but I don't see any minutes that

I got them from OSPA. And I saw discussion of the budgets. And then this person missed the next meeting, the next SAC meeting.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Because he had been bullied. Because that was the meeting, they got to him right before the SAC meeting.

MR. JABOUIN: So here's the thing. At this point I have not heard anything to make these audit-worthy and to the plan. I just wanted to mention that.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. So we'll let the entire District Advisory Council quote you.

MR. MAYERSOHN: Okay. So is there anything else further to discuss? Ms. Fertig?

MS. FERTIG: Well, we deferred this but are we just giving some input?

If only from a public relations standpoint, and heaven forbid this should ever happen and I hope it never does, you have an inspection of stadium bleachers and so forth on there, I would hate to see something happen and say we didn't have enough money to do it. There may be another way to handle that issue. But I don't know that putting out to the general public that we're not going to inspect our portables or our bleachers
