We are all public people in this meeting. We all have families. We all have reputations. And we all go home to a place that we call our life. This is our work life. Let's make sure we respect everyone in that manner. Let's make sure we understand that and understand that we have a job to do. And we do it by the rules. And when it's not done, we correct it. But all of us deserve the respect and the time of everyone in this building. That's why I was a little miffed by the seven minute late opening. Time is valuable, you know, it's finite.

So I appreciate everyone here, because it is a tough job and it's not a job that comes out usually rosy. It's always about correcting or fixing. But that's what we signed up to do. And I appreciate the oversight of this group because Page 11 prednisone, and so I had to wait until she peed before I could leave the house. So that made me late. So I apologize and she will be getting weaned off of prednisone because she took a turn for the better. But that is -- it would have to be something like that for me to be late for a meeting, or traffic, and a bridge, and a train.

So, with that, that's why I was running late. All right. Next up, and I've also been handed a note that Dr. Licata is here for an hour, which, if there -- there's one thing then I would like to address before we get to Behavioral Threat Assessment. So we have quorum and he's

At the board workshop they had the policy review project and they were looking at policies that are directly related to the district's internal control environment, which is one of the five components of the organization's internal control framework. So I requested that the audit committee be included in the looping process whereby those policies would come to the audit committee for input. And the looping policy as it stands said that it would start with DAC and the process would take 60 days. I'm part of the

it's incredibly important. Because this is not our money and these are not our procedures that we just pulled out of the air. This is what the public expects of us every day, every minute, every second.

So I appreciate you. And I know that it's been a great 60, 58 days here, the 60th day is Saturday. And I look forward to moving forward because I know there's some great things we can do and there's a lot I've learned from this committee and what they've recommended and how I've moved forward. So don't think I'm not watching or listening, because it's important.

So I appreciate your time, Dr. Lynch-Walsh, for giving me that three minutes.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. You're welcome.

As most of you who know me, know that I don't usually talk about my personal life, but since you brought up the seven minutes late start, that was in part because I wasn't -- well, you did say it, so I'm going to respond.

So I have -- some of you may be aware, I lost my cat on August 1st and we just had to put our one dog to sleep on Friday. In the interim, we almost lost our remaining dog who is currently on Page 12 group that's revising that policy, so I brought the draft changes. The changes were to include appropriate advisory committee meetings where staff begins a looping process. So it is -- that group is trying to make it more inclusive, rather than exclude, but I have no memory of it just going to DAC, you would bring it to the appropriate committees. I can't think of a more appropriate committee than the audit committee when you're talking about statutes, well, not statutes, but policies governing the school board, which is where the control environment starts. So I think I made 15 copies. So if you wouldn't mind handing that around? So that's the public engagement group. It's redlined through what exists, so I guess I'm looking for a response, Dr. Licata, to staff bringing it to our October 12th meeting as requested. And do we need to pass a motion to that effect? The copies are going around.

Sorry, I forgot we had staff to help. SUPERINTENDENT LICATA: Dr. Wanza, I believe you were prepped on this or indicated that this was coming up?

DR. WANZA: Good morning, everyone. So this

LYNCH-WALSH: No, because it was mentioned how the looping process works, and so I went and pulled from the document, the source document itself.  DR. WANZA: What I explained at the meeting, and I'll say it again here, is, typically, we start at DAC and from there we go to other advisory bodies. And I gave the one example of, if we were doing a policy revision as it related to the ESE Advisory, we would absolutely start at DAC, but then we would have to go to ESE Advisory. And I know that, you know, all of the advisories are represented at DAC and many advisories say, yes, you do need to come to	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16	were presented to the board on the 5th, I've got them up on the screen behind me. So passes unanimously.	8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21	DR. LYNCH-WALSH: All in favor? COMMITTEE MEMBERS: Aye. DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. Mr. Mayersohn? MR. MAYERSOHN: Aye. DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Any opposed? (No response.) DR. LYNCH-WALSH: I don't think there's any other. All right. Motion passes unanimously. We are now on to the RSM Behavioral Threat Assessment Policy and Procedure Audit. We had a special meeting on the 30th to discuss. I think we met for a couple hours. So we had follow-up items that I don't necessarily see here as being provided. So let me get my list. The items that we had for follow-up, we had had asked for complete lists. I don't recall getting those, unless -- were those sent?

1.0

MR. JABOUIN: No, Dr. Lynch-Walsh, we will get those and send those to the committee subsequent to this meeting.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. The next thing I have --

MR. JABOUIN: I do have a -- I believe it's the total that Ms. Hudge presented at the workshop, which I have a physical copy with me. But I will get that out to the committee. That shows the different positions in Ms. Hudge's presentation on Tuesday.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: All right. Then the second thing was we had asked for a breakdown of the $322,000 cost proposal. We were looking for detail.

MR. JABOUIN: Chair, I have the partner from RSM, Jennifer Murtha, to respond to that.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Is there a document? And the way that came about is we were looking at, Mr. De Meo brought up the cost for the sample sizes and we were trying to reconcile that.

MS. MANLOVE: Madam Chair, I'm happy to respond, if you would like RSM to speak to that.

incidences occur?

MS. MANLOVE: October of 2022 through March 12th of 2023.

MR. DE MEO: So annualized that would be more than double?

MS. MANLOVE: Yes. Keeping in mind, though, there is a bit of a seasonality to the threat assessment reporting process. Summers and holidays definitely are lower numbers than the school time.

MR. DE MEO: So that's to add -- I was under the impression it was like 80, adding 80, because I was just considering the top category. But this is the addition of a couple of hundred items; right?

MS. MANLOVE: Yes, sir.

MR. DE MEO: And previously the sample sizes were what, 25 for each category?

MS. MANLOVE: Yes. One of our reports was a 200 sample size. The following one in 2021 was a 75 sample size. We started reporting more frequently after that and had a sample size of 35 for a partial year and another sample size of 35 for a partial year.

After the committee's feedback on increasing

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Sure.

MS. MANLOVE: At the request of the committee in our workshop a week ago we have prepared for our own reference today some cost breakdowns for our historical audits that we have presented to Broward Schools on the BTA Threat as well as some "quote" estimated fees options for next steps that we can discuss if the committee would like to.

For the specific SOW where we were requested to scope and price a sample size of 356 threats, which were 100 percent of the very serious and serious threats during the scope period our fee estimate was 322,500. I believe this answers Mr. De Meo's question about what was the scope for that fee. But if there are further details that you would like to go through I'm happy to do that.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Mr. De Meo?
MR. DE MEO: 356 of the top two categories, was that --

MS. MANLOVE: Yes, it was 100 percent of very serious and serious as well as a sample of the lower risk threats, as well.

MR. DE MEO: And over what time did those 356 sample size we did price for the 356 and were engaged to perform an audit of 100 as a sample size.

MR. DE MEO: So, presumably, the relationship between what you've been auditing and the cost and the 356 could -- should be some proportionate, I know there's some startup cost and so on in any audit, but once you get rolling and you start picking your samples, this sounds like two or three times the work that you had been performing.

MS. MANLOVE: Easily.

MR. DE MEO: Easily. Okay. So I don't know what the other committee members or how they feel, but the serious, the very top category, I feel needs to be or I would recommend that we audit those 100 percent. And our chief auditor came up with a strategy whereby we could hire somebody, train them, some of the committee members felt they would prefer to have an outside firm such as yours do it. I think working together we could save money, expand our scope, and I like what we discussed earlier, an ongoing remote on-line realtime audit every day, where you could report probably within a week. I'm not telling you how to do it, but if we had that -if we had that ability to access on-line, you all, and have that as a continual process, I think we could bring the cost down. I think hiring somebody inhouse to collaborate with you, probably under your supervision, I think would be best, I think we could do this in a reasonable time and at a reasonable cost. And I would be in favor of that.

So I don't know what the other members think, but that's how I feel.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: All right. Ms. Strauss? MS. STRAUSS: Okay. Thank you very much.

So in regards to this, I absolutely do agree and share your same sentiment with the super serious, all these words that we know are going away in January.

So with that being said, my question is, I guess for Mr. Lozano, I heard this in the last meeting as you described what's coming in January, will -- and it will be some sort of dashboard component; correct? I mean, we're going to have more realtime data. So are we talking about a solution from now until when that system rolls out? Do you think it will be as

Page 27 schools are creating and the implementation of those plans.

MS. STRAUSS: Uh-huh.

MR. LOZANO: So we pretty much have made it to the place of completing a threat assessment, finding a determination level, you can see fail rates of zero down that audit.

Now, we're at, actually, looking at long-term when schools develop the monitoring plan and then the implementation of that plan to the point where in our last conversation we were looking at even daily on a person possession check the attendance.

So I think we're at a really good place right now, and I think as we focus now as we transition to January to a whole new model, we'll still -- so to what was asked, you're saying in January of a high level, because our new levels are unfounded, low, medium, and high, so it's going to be much simpler in terms of vocabulary and language, so we're saying you want all the high ones audited at 100 percent, and then we can talk medium, low, unfounded; based on budget.

It is an extremely time-consuming process to do this audit. So when we did the hundred labor intensive and as much need for outside auditors? Because I definitely do not -- I want somebody independent doing this. I do not want somebody from our audit team internally doing this by any means. And I would also like to see if there are other firms in addition to RSM that we can consider as well, because I feel that there's -- they're doing a lot and perhaps a fresh eye could be beneficial.

So, Mr. Lozano, when we have the new system are we going to need this level or are there going to be controls in place and reporting in place that it is more transparent, or are we still going to need this level of audit engagement?

MR. LOZANO: So each audit we've done historically -- good morning, everybody. Ernie Lozano, Director of Behavioral Threat Assessment -- we've gone deeper and deeper into the process of threat assessment. So, initially, 2020, 2021 we were looking at compliance.

MS. STRAUSS: Correct.

MR. LOZANO: Where we're really at right now, if you even look at the current audit, we're really now into looking at the actual plans schools in this last audit, my team had to reach out to those hundred schools, request documents, work with RSM. So it is a labor-intensive process the way we have it designed right now. But if we are going to -- and Dr. Licata has challenged us to be prudent with our finances, if we're moving to a new model in January, do we -- are we going to gain any benefit or growth from auditing March, April, May, June of last year when you're going to get that data in February and we're on a new model? So that's some of the conversation I think we have to think about.

So I like the conversation of moving to realtime audits, what are we doing right now? Looking at what we're doing right now so we get that information, we get that feedback and we can make changes to make the system better.

So -- so I do think we have to have that conversation right now from today to December 31st --

MS. STRAUSS: Right.

MR. LOZANO: When we're living in the CSTAG model, which is being removed January 1st, 2024. If we're going to spend money on an audit, we want to get feedback that's going to make a

MS. STRAUSS: Timely. Timely.

MR. LOZANO: So how do we look at that process moving forward?

MS. STRAUSS: So, Mr. Lozano, and audit committee members, if you remember, I believe when I started in this role, we were getting data like a year later; right? And the whole point of doing more frequent audits and that suggestion and ultimately that change that was made, was because a year later wasn't helping to remove and get you all to zero, right; as far as exceptions and failures, because we don't want to know a year later and a student be sitting in a classroom that is a threat; okay. And so I think the more frequent audits have certainly helped.

However. I do -- I do think that we need to find some sort of -- it's an interim solution right now to look at this. So when you said, okay, we're going to look at data from June of last year in February, will that really be relevant? No, it won't, because according to accounting principals that won't be considered timely because systems are changing altogether.

However, what do we do in the meantime to the interim? Because we are now in a period, an interim period, as we're going to be rolling into a new model, we can't let it slip through the cracks. That's my concern.

MR. LOZANO: And you -- you can audit those practices now. Again, we have all the plans in our electronic database now. We have every intervention and action step schools have put in place for every student. And then, again, the BTA department is monitoring and working with those schools daily, following up that the actions they put in place are being implemented for those students. So we are doing all that work daily now. And it's easy for RSM, our internal auditors, to look realtime at those processes and see that those interventions are actually happening.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: So, Ms. Strauss, Mr. Jabouin had a question. I think it's related to your comment.

MR. JABOUIN: It is. Thank you, Chair. As Mr. Lozano was talking about, I could collaborate with RSM on identifying those realtime attributes that can be audited and I would recommend to the committee that we -- we make sure nobody and nothing slips through the cracks that will create a security issue? How do we make a realtime dashboard? I mean, obviously, it can't be created over night. So how can we do that and accomplish this in this interim period in a cost effective, being fiscally responsible method, but being effective at the same time?

MR. LOZANO: So, again, Ernie Lozano, Director of Behavioral Threat Assessment, we can right now be auditing every school; do they have their school based team established and ready to go; is everybody who's on that team properly trained and met the required trainings? So there are things right now that we, as a system, have in place that you can audit realtime because there are certain statutory requirements that we've already had to do as a district.

MS. STRAUSS: No, no, no, I'm sorry. But the kids that are a problem, like we know in another district last week a child stabbed somebody; okay? So I'm talking about, in the meantime, these kids that are at the super high level, whatever they call it now, what are we going to do? Like how are we going to make sure that processes and procedures are being followed as in Page 32 start with the current school year. I don't know to what extent it's going to differ from the attributes that we have, though. So -- I mean, so we have a certain number of attributes that are on the report --

MS. STRAUSS: Understood.

MR. JABOUIN: -- but identifying with Mr. Lozano and RSM what are the realtime attributes and start with the current school year to be able to have a report I'm hoping by maybe the November meeting, Chair, I know you've got some balancing to do, from a period of, let's say, August until October, if I can get some comments on that, Chair?

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. I just wanted to remind everybody that we once upon a time passed a motion to get -- if it wasn't monthly it was definitely quarterly, but I want to say it was monthly reports.

MS. STRAUSS: It was monthly.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: All right. Basically, from the BTA team. And then this audit that we've discussed is through March and we would be skipping the end of the school year unless that's being audited, just so we know if things got

MS. STRAUSS: So, Dr. Lynch, here's what I just wanted to ask RSM and Mr. Lozano. Your team seems to be doing a lot of heavy lifting now that wasn't happening before; right? So you guys are really in there doing a lot of work on your team. So now that heavy lift seems to be coming from you all, shouldn't that, RSM, not increase your workload by three times the amount? If it seems to have been shifted over to Mr. Lozano's team, why would it require three times the amount of work, which is three times the amount of billing? I just, I'm having a hard time understanding that.

MS. MANLOVE: Happy to respond. The increase in workload was a combination of adding some testing attributes over the last couple of reports that we previously hadn't done. One example would be our principal calls where we've had some very in-depth collaborative calls with the principals together with Ernie's team to really go through at a very detailed level what is or isn't happening at that school and allow the principal to dig into the files of the

MS. MANLOVE: If the audit committee is recommending that we look at 100 percent of the very serious or serious threats, I think on a month to month basis that workload probably will change. If more threats are identified during the school year and less during the summer, our workload will vary in accordance with how many are reported. But I think that the committee is -- is asking for more frequent auditing and more frequent feedback. I think it compliments the work that Ernie's team is doing in providing that information back to you, and we'd be happy to support that model in whatever way best suits this committee and the district.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. Ms. Strauss, I've got Peter Turso, then I think Ms. Ighodaro and then I think back to Mr. De Meo.

MR. TURSO: So in the interest of being fiscally prudent, when was the last time we reviewed options to RSM? I assume there's other companies out there that perform these tasks; is that correct?

Have we reviewed -- you know, it's like shopping for insurance, right; you don't want to stay with the same people forever, because you students and the records that are being kept together with Ernie's support and with our independent view, come together on, is this really right; is this truly an exception; is there more we need to understand about what happened with this specific case or not? That is a significant increase in effort that we have established in the last round.

In addition to that, we also were requested to scope a sample size that was significantly larger than a sample size we have ever audited before, which is why our workload would be increased several times over previous audit reports.

We also would very much like to move to this monthly or more frequent model. As we've been discussing, we have -- we have view access to the system today and could easily take a look at the month of August or prior or whatever the committee and Mr. Jabouin decides and provide very frequent audit reports, probably on a monthly basis, within 30 days of the close of the previous month.

MS. STRAUSS: And what type of workload would that be in comparison to what you did before?

don't know how you're doing.

When was the last time that we looked around to see what our options are, especially in light that we're changing procedures, anyway, shortly.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: I do not think that options were looked at because RSM, they're still just getting traction because this is relatively new. Even though it's changing, it hasn't been in existence that long. It would seem that if we're switching, then that would be a time to look at options. However, I have found, being on here since 2015, that sometimes you get what you pay for, or you don't even get what you pay for with other firms. So, just since 2015, my experience.

Are you good or -- do you want to --MR. TURSO: Yeah, I think it sounds like --DR. LYNCH-WALSH: It sounds like something that could be --

MR. TURSO: I don't see the harm in making sure that there aren't other options out there, but if there's something since 2015 that you're that we shouldn't be shopping around --

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: No, no, I didn't say don't shop, I'm just saying that sometimes you -- with anything in life you get what you pay for.

MR. JABOUIN: So I just want to mention, the behavioral threat assessment testing has evolved. So RSM was involved with it before I joined the district, and then we've worked together getting comments from the committee and so forth to build our path. Another firm would have to go through a learning curve to do that, which is something that the district could do, but it's something that not too many other firms have developed that practice. But that is something that we could do, obviously. But I just wanted to mention that it would have to be a transition.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Right. Okay. Ms. Ighodaro?

MS. IGHODARO: Yes, my question -- my question is in relation to the last time we had one of these reports we discussed the transfer of students and how that data transfer would go and there were some recommendations made. I just want to get an update on that. Is the process on how the behavior threat is transferred from electronic system an email alert is automatically sent the day the student registers at the next school alerting the school that the student has an active plan.

MS. IGHODARO: So in that case is there -- is the transfer more from a -- from a guidance counselor to a guidance counselor? Who receives the student at a new institution?

MR. LOZANO: So, again, that happens in multiple, but most students when they're received are received through the IMT. Every school has a front office staff that's assigned to registering new students. So the process is most likely the registrar to the registrar at schools, and then our school administrators and counselors work with the registrar to establish clear processes at the school level once students register and withdraw.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: And, Mr. Lozano, isn't there a manual on how this all works, I thought?

MR. LOZANO: Correct.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: And I think we have it as backup?

MS. DAHL: We do.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: We do? Okay. That's what school to school, is that more streamlined? And, also, from the recommendations we made last time, was that currently tested this time, and how is it doing?

MR. LOZANO: Yes. So, again, Ernie Lozano, Director of Behavioral Threat Assessment, and, RSM, I believe, that was attribute 41, so if you want to look at attribute 41 you can see the improvement from the prior audit to this audit. What we did after recommendations from this committee and the work this committee did, my team worked with Veda Hudge's department, we streamlined the processes and protocols, we designed flow charts for schools when a student transfers or registers within the district from a traditional school to a traditional school, the processes for when a student comes from a charter school to a traditional school, and processes for when a student is received from another state. So we streamlined all those processes. We've added to the -- to the electronic databases where information now pops up and alerts the IMTs immediately when a student has an active monitoring plan. So that's another layer. And then for the student that lives within our

I thought. Because there's a lot of detail in each of the processes.

All right. I have Mr. De Meo, then Ms. Dahl, and then Ms. Strauss, and then Ms. Fertig.

MS. FERTIG: I just have some follow up on what she just asked.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Sure.

MS. FERTIG: It's the same conversation about transferring out of the district. We also talked about the transferring in the district and the different schools that students go to so that they're -- so that we're not placing all of the students that are transferring in one or two schools, and so I don't know if there had ever been any follow-up on that as to where they're transferred and how that's handled. And I'm glad she brought that up because I think that's an important conversation.

MR. LOZANO: So I think, Mrs. Fertig, if I can repeat what you said, you're more looking at when we transfer a student from like a traditional school to one of our alternative sites and --

MS. FERTIG: If that's where you're transferring them.

MR. LOZANO: And there's a lot of factors that go into that. Obviously, our students that have IEPs will be assigned to certain locations. We do manage each situation based on the factors that come with that student and what the next location provides. Can they meet the needs of that student based on the mental health issues or the behavioral issues? So we do look at that as a district before we place students. We have a committee that meets, goes over the plan with the current school and the next location and we put a plan in place. And we also have a plan for when the student transitions back from our nontraditional center locations to one of our traditional sites.

MS. FERTIG: And you have a plan to ensure that not all students end up in one or two locations so those locations have a much heavier burden than -- you know, a much bigger job to do than -- than -- you know, I think that was the conversation we had.

MR. LOZANO: We use every available resource available in Broward County Public Schools to spread out students as best as we can.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: And those would be new system which will integrate immediately with that as they transfer the records, it's through the database and we'll be able to identify those needs, as children sometimes are able to navigate through different -- or families navigate through the system through different counties to avoid certain issues or situations. So if you want to expound on that?

MR. LOZANO: And that's what Dr. Licata said, as par of House Bill 543 in 24-25 the state is directed to have one platform that all districts will use for threat management. So in the State of Florida, immediately, district to district, anything in that system, every district will have immediate access to.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: All right. Mr. De Meo? MR. DE MEO: Yeah. I would recommend and if -- I might make a motion that we audit -- the last audit was March, that we audit each month and 30 days after that month we get a report. So by January we're just about caught up, because we have a couple months intervening where we had summer vacation. And then -- and I would do 100 percent of the serious only. Because the monitoring plan is required for both serious and procedures that we could get.

SUPERINTENDENT LICATA: Absolutely. And thank you, Mr. Lozano. Ms. Fertig, I think you also asked a question in there that might have slid by. First and foremost, should we have centers where they're starting to enjoy the larger population of these students, we, obviously, will have to look internally and provide more resources, as you said. Because we want to keep it limited. Dr. Toomer is aware of that as well.

The other piece that you asked that I don't think we addressed is, when we have students that move in from other counties that may have an issue, that's always a concern. One of the detriments we have at issue is our lack of updated student information system. It doesn't connect with other counties as well. Previous experience is that was disabling at times. So our communication of students that are coming into the county also is an active, it's one of those weights that Ms. Strauss talked about that you're carrying that you have to, physically, do and get involved in it, versus, potentially, our very serious. And I think, you know, we have a pretty good handle on what's going on, but we do have to look to the future. So once we get into January and we continue this process of monthly reports, 100 percent of the serious, I would like Mr. Lozano's department, perhaps with our Chief Auditor and RSM, to look at, and I think Mr. Mayersohn raised this, the trends. It's very important. Are we having problems in a certain area? You know, slice it and dice it any way you want, but having this data available is really critical and can be used on a, let's say, prevention basis to predict risk and problems we're having and apply the appropriate resources.

So I'd like to get us through this interim period and then continue. And we can revisit this, you know, but I think we should commence immediately monthly audits 100 percent of the serious. The very serious I didn't -- I wasn't thinking about. And let's keep the process and the progress moving. And I'll make a motion, whatever the will of the committee is.

MS. FERTIG: And I'll second it.

MR. DE MEO: All right.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. Could you

DE MEO: Yeah, that's 350 per month. clarification from the committee as I have Mr. De 9 Five months? 25, that's, you know -- and then I 10 10 Meo indicated that it would be 100 percent of the think we should look at in January when the new 11 11 serious. I would like to get some guidance as regime is in and see if we feel the same way. 12 12 far as the other categories from the committee as But I think we need to get going not to hesitate. 13 13 well -- I'm sorry, Ernie? If we have this capability of on-line realtime 14 MR. LOZANO: I think he means very serious. 14 ability to look at these records and have it 15 15 MR. I was 18 18 going to ask for clarification. DR. LYNCH-WALSH: All right. Ms. Dahl? 19 19 MR. JABOUIN: Very serious. MS. DAHL: I -- personally, I think that the 20 DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. 20 25 for the serious is a little bit small. I 21 21 MR. DE MEO: And then I would just sample 25 would like to see it stay at 50. But my other 22 22 of the others until we get into January and see comment is regarding looking at other options 23 23 where we're at with the new system. besides RMS [sic]. 24 24 MR. JABOUIN: 25 of the other categories. When you have to switch when we're doing all 25 MR. JABOUIN: Okay. company would have to have, I'm a little MS. STRAUSS: No. concerned about that. Unless we've had some 6 major issues with working with RMS [sic] that I'm MR. JABOUIN: No? Okay. 7 not aware of, I'm just concerned about doing MS. FERTIG: Can I just comment on the 8 unfounded, though? Actually, I hadn't thought 9 about this, but I would be curious -- I don't So that's my opinion. Thank you. 10 know how you'd do this, but I would be curious as 10 DR. LYNCH-WALSH: All right. Ms. 11 11 to what an unfounded threat is considered to be Carter-Lynch? 12 12 and if there's a trend there. I like this trend MS. CARTER-LYNCH: Well, first of all, 13 13 idea, Mr. De Meo. there's always a way to fix everything. The 14 14 first thing I think we ought to do is make sure MR. DE MEO: And I think it's important. I 15 15 think a sample can be effective and 25 is that we don't put anything in place that's going 16 16 to hamper Mr. Lozano and his group from doing his usually, with this population, a very good 17 17 job. That's the first thing. Because we don't predictor. So I think we'd be overdoing it, 18 18 want to backtrack. The second thing is, we can especially in this interim period, and wasting a 19 19 do both, Rebecca. It doesn't hurt to always lot of money to expand the samples beyond that. 20 20 check other companies because competition is The very serious threats or soon to be the 21 21 maximum, highest, I -- you know, just from a -exciting. But, in the meantime, we need to make 22 22 sure we keep whatever's in place right now to that's just my gut reaction, not an auditor's 23 23 make sure that Mr. Lozano can do his job. And we reaction, that those should be audited and those 24 24 monitoring plans should really be looked at, don't want to put it in a situation where, you 25 25 which that's one of the attributes going forward. know, we're putting so much in place and we're

Page 49 Page 51 1 1 asking for so much data that we don't get MR. DE MEO: The language in the --2 anything. MR. LOZANO: An unfounded threat is the So I would say -- I hope what I'm saying 3 threat never existed, it was never made. makes sense, but -- because I don't want us to MR. DE MEO: The language in our policy says, talk it to death, and 25 -- Rebecca, I mean, 5 unfounded, no threat. Following a threat 6 is -- I think is enough based on the numbers that assessment the threat could not be corroborated we have here. So why don't we just stay with or substantiated. that so that way we don't put any more pressure MS. CARTER-LYNCH: Okav. on them. MR. DE MEO: Highly judgmental, not real easy 1.0 10 But I think -to audit. But judgment has to be exercised. We 11 11 MS. DAHL: Still 100 percent of the very have to have the right people in place. And the 12 12 program has to be monitored. 13 13 MS. CARTER-LYNCH: Right. Two things can be MS. CARTER-LYNCH: Yeah. Okay. Thank you. 14 true at the same time. Okay? So that's just my 14 I just wanted to make sure that we are clear on 15 15 exactly what that is. I kind of knew what it little two cents in that. 16 16 DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Yeah. So I think I heard a was, but, you know, it helps. 17 17 friendly amendment on the 50 versus 25 but you're MR. LOZANO: And, again, just moving forward, 18 18 saying 25 is good, so which? all threats, unfounded, low, medium, or high in 19 19 MS. DAHL: We can stick with the 25. January go through a three-step review, the 20 DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. So we're good on 20 school based team, then the principal, who's not 21 21 that. allowed on the school based team anymore, does a 22 22 So we're gonna need, if there's no further review, and then the district team has two days 23 23 discussion -- and I just, again, want to point to do a review. So all threats in January, 24 24 out that we passed a motion last year or whenever unfounded, low, medium, and high, will go through 25 to get those, I think, monthly reports on what is 25 that three-step process. Page 50 Page 52 1 1 happening anyway. So that should be happening. DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. And transient And I think you said you have reports. It's not threats, which are above unfounded, do not necessarily auditing, it's monthly or quarterly reflect a genuine intent to harm, they're often reports on -made in the heat of the moment and may be an MS. STRAUSS: Monthly. expression of humor, rhetoric, anger, frustration DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Monthly. that can easily be resolved with an apology, MR. DE MEO: Yeah, that's from Mr. Lozano. retraction or explanation by the person who made 8 8 This would be audit. the threat. Transient threats can be provocative DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Yeah, yeah, yeah. And they and disruptive, but from a threat assessment 10 would audit, right, to get us caught up. So, 10 perspective they do not reflect a real intent to 11 11 okay, if you can restate? I kind of jotted down harm others. That's probably most teenagers on 12 12 what -any given day. 13 13 MS. CARTER-LYNCH: Before you go, Madam Chair MS. STRAUSS: Right. But just everybody keep 14 14 in mind that all of this confusing language is 15 15 DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Yes, ma'am. going away. So it's going to be way clearer, 16 MS. CARTER-LYNCH: One other question. I 16 right, and we're not going to have all this all 17 17 over the board. You're going to fall in one of want to know what -- I want explained explicitly 18 18 to me what an unfounded -way few buckets and it's going to be very clear 19 19 DR. LYNCH-WALSH: That's in policy. But Mr. what that is. So I don't think that we need to 20 20 worry about understanding what each of these are Lozano probably knows it by heart. 21 21 MR. LOZANO: Yeah, that's really simple. Dr. right now because they're going away, and that's

Also, the thing, and there's always a negotiation. Everything is negotiable. And I do not think sample sizes would be 100 percent of the very that that has been something this district, at serious and 25 of all other categories, with an 1.0 10 least what I have seen through the audits that we eye towards collecting data so that it can be 11 11 have been reviewing, I've never seen any analyzed to determine if there are any trends 12 12 discussion of putting anything out for bid. Mr. Turso and then DR. LYNCH-WALSH: You're an aye? Okay. So 23 23 we need -- Ms. Fertig, and then we need to wrap you're two nos? 24 24 this up because we had sort of an hour, hour and MS. IGHODARO: I'm a, no. 25 a half for this. 25 MS. DAHL: I'm not. I'm a yes. Page 54 Page 56 1 1 Mr. Turso? DR. LYNCH-WALSH: All right. So we have one, MR. TURSO: So in the interest of what Ms. two, three, four, five, six, I'm an aye, seven --Strauss was just saying, should we move forward so eight yeses, one, no. with a formal motion to do that? I really want MR. JABOUIN: I have a point of information, to add something to something that Madam Chair, Chair. Nathalie Lynch-Walsh, said about getting what you DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Yes? pay for. I think I'd be remiss of me of all MR. JABOUIN: Thank you, Chair. So the board 8 people at these tables saying that, historically, would like -- the board members that I've spoken 9 Broward County Public Schools doesn't always do to would like to -- me to bring these to them, 10 10 the greatest job of getting what we pay for. So which I intend to bring that motion when the 11 11 to say getting what we paid for as a reason for report is presented, so that way they can make 12 12 being complacent is probably not in the best the decision. Because they have to provide the 13 13 interest of our children. So if there's some funding as well. So I've documented the motion. 14 14 When the report is transmitted I will include the formality that needs to be done to review options 15 15 and, as we indicated, have some competition, I'd motion as well so that that way they can decide 16 like to move forward with that. 16 on that. Because sometimes they -- in some 17 17 MR. DE MEO: Madam Chair, I think we should meetings they have added things or they have 18 18 move the question and then that should be another modified things. 19 19 DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Ms. Fertig? 20 20 DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Absolutely. MS. FERTIG: Just a point. And I don't know,

MS. IGHODARO: I have a question. What are the chances or -- of a transient escalating up to a very serious? What is the percentage?

MR. LOZANO: So, again, every incident is evaluated separately. So what you would have is, the day that first incident happened, it would be transient, the student does something else, that's evaluated separately and that one would be very serious or serious depending on -- so we don't change prior levels from it was this today now tomorrow it's this. Those are evaluated separately.

MS. IGHODARO: So, just to clarify --

MR. DE MEO: But do you have any data on the migration through those paths?

MR. LOZANO: You mean students who repeat? Yeah, we have that data.

MR. DE MEO: Do you see any trends where put interventions in place to ensure, you know, that behavior discontinues.

MS. IGHODARO: For each behavior or is it all compiled into one? Is it per each offense? Is there a mitigation plan for each offense?

MR. LOZANO: Correct. Correct.

MS. IGHODARO: Got you.

MR. LOZANO: And that will remain consistent in the new model.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. All right. So Mr. Turso brought up, because I'm trying to get us through motions since we had a special meeting and spent, I don't know, two and a half hours on this last time, maybe three, so, Mr. Turso, you talked about having a -- looking at options, which -- and, actually, Mr. Jabouin just asked whether we could ask RSM for a rough estimate of what the motion we just passed would cost. I don't know if that's something you can do on the fly or if you have to get back to us. It looks like a no, not on the fly?

MS. MANLOVE: I think we could give a general range, but we would need to go back and sharpen our pencils to give you an exact.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. All right. And then there's migration through the various categories up to very serious? I think that's a very good question.

MS. IGHODARO: How often does it escalate? Is there a way that you are currently tracking? Because you're saying you're treating every issue the same. So does every issue start at a transient level and then if it reoccurs it goes up to a serious?

MR. LOZANO: No, every issue is -- has total separate documents, evaluations. They're separate.

MS. IGHODARO: Got you. I just want to clarify publicly that the reason I voted no is because the amount of transient is extremely large and a 25 sample size of that is ridiculously low for a test sample.

MS. FERTIG: So just following what she's saying, do you track how many -- so say you have a student and he's made five transient threats, are you tracking that? And then what -- what resources are you putting in place to make sure --

MR. LOZANO: That's exactly -- we look at that data and then we work with the schools to Page 60 that could be forwarded to us.

All right. So, Ms. Fertig, and then if you have a motion you want to craft?

MR. TURSO: I'll craft; sure.

MS. FERTIG: I'm just thinking. I understand if we're embarking on a new period, that's one thing, but we're in September. January is not far away. The process for looking at this will take, if it's school board, 20 years, but maybe only a few months. Sorry, Mr. Jabouin. And so what I'm thinking is let's just get this month to month from RSM. If we're going to make a change, let's make it, you know, next year.

The other thing I think would be helpful, Mr. Jabouin, is for you to tell people how often we change our auditors; what you do to select an auditing firm; what they have to do to qualify. I know that we're required to change our main auditing firm every so often and I know you have a process for selecting others. But I think it would be helpful for everybody to know what that

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: As long as you can do it in like 30 seconds because we're going to go off schedule here pretty quickly.

MR. JABOUIN: Sure. Thank you. And this, Ms. Strauss, this helps relate too. There is a process for analyzing, selecting the auditors and there is going to be a new RFP process that will have -- that will involve evaluating all the auditors that do that. So we will involve the audit committee members, maybe one or two, to be part of that process in the selection. I hope we can. I have to check with legal. But there is a whole process where we put the RFPs out and the bids and so forth.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: And you know who's here today who could give us a timeframe, I believe the Director of Procurement is in the back. And so if we, in trying to get answers, because you don't actually have to select one, but I believe we could probably do like an RFI -- we need something where we can get an idea. If we're going to look at options for different auditors for the behavioral threat assessment audit what is the usual timeframe, like three months, from start to finish, Mary; if you don't mind?

MS. COKER: Good morning. Mary Coker, Director of Procurement & Warehousing Services.

Thank you, Dr. Walsh, for that question. It get response to an RFI, though, seeing as we're in September and we're looking at everything changing in January?

MS. COKER: So an RFI, there's no actual limitation as it relates to how long it can be out on the street. Normally, the more time it's on the street the more opportunity that you have to get more vendors that are interested in doing the work. But, you know, through the system that we have and the outreach we normally leave it out for two weeks. Therefore, that's sufficient amount of time. We give them information where they have an opportunity of a window of one week to ask questions and then we'll receive responses. But, again, it all depends on the scope of what you're looking for. Depending on the magnitude of SOW you will be able to gauge whether you want it out on the streets for a week; two weeks; a month.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: And then, of course, first you've got to write it.

And Ms. Carter-Lynch?

MS. CARTER-LYNCH: I just, Mr. Jabouin, I would like to be a part of that process because that's my background is sourcing vendors. I depends on what you want to do. I know that you are all talking about getting options. We have an RFI, which is Request For Information where we can gather which, you know, gather -- canvass the market, if you will, to understand what different auditors are out there. We can also do an RFP, which is what we've normally done for this type of service. And within that RFP we have a pool of vendors which is what we have currently for the auditor. And then there are several auditors and they use the services amongst the different pool of auditors that are in that pool.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: With an RFI, though, can we get information on price?

MS. COKER: You can get information on price. You cannot award.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: No, of course, because it's not an RFP or an RFQ.

MS. COKER: Right. So you won't be making any type of evaluation, but if you want to market -- you know, canvass the market you can definitely get pricing to understand, but you will not be awarding. You would still have to do an RFP.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Right. How quickly can you spent 30 years doing it, so --

MS. STRAUSS: I second that.

MR. DE MEO: I just question if this is the time to do this. Maybe January or February we definitely should do it, but it's going to impact Mr. Lozano, it's going to impact the Chief Auditor.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: No, this is just to canvass the market; that's all.

MR. DE MEO: Where do you think they're going to get the information from? Do you think --

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: No, no, no, this is from firms to see how much -- yeah, to get pricing.

MR. DE MEO: Where do you think the information about the request is going to come from?

MS. STRAUSS: It should come from the Chief Auditor.

MR. DE MEO: I think it's going to impact Mr. Lozano and the Chief Auditor.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Well, we have audits already done. Because if we wait til January --I'm not saying we're trying to switch, I'm just trying to lay out the timeframe, the milestones, timeframe.

United Reporting, Inc. (954) 525-2221

Page 65 Page 67 MR. DE MEO: And all the information is going other than RSM. Obviously, RSM can put their hat 2 to change because we have a new system and a new in the ring, I'm certain, for work that will be regime in effect in January. conducted -- audit work that will be conducted DR. LYNCH-WALSH: So we could have them do it alongside Mr. Lozano with the new January within the scope of the changes, which are out 5 guidelines. 6 there, so they should know. Or else they won't DR. LYNCH-WALSH: BTA guidelines? know. So --MR. TURSO: Yes, with the new BTA that will 8 MS. FERTIG: What Mr. De Meo's saying, and I begin in January. So nothing will occur with 9 think -- and this is what I was trying to say is, this gap period. 10 10 I don't think we should make a change between now DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Right. Okay. 11 11 and January. MS. FERTIG: Can I -- can I just suggest one 12 12 DR. LYNCH-WALSH: We're not. No, but if you thing? Can we ask for people who have experience 13 13 in doing the behavioral threat assessment audits? don't use your lead time --14 MS. FERTIG: I understand. I understand. I 14 MR. TURSO: Sure. 15 15 don't think we should. I think we should make DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Well, that's what will come 16 16 that clear. Because I like what he's laid out as out in the RFI. 17 17 a month to month. And then if you're going to do MS. FERTIG: Well, I just wanted to 18 18 specifically have that stated, that's what we're it in January you can bring the information and 19 19 then we can all talk about, you know, what -- not that they're auditors, not that they're --20 experiences we've had and what we haven't, but I 20 that they have specific experience in doing 21 21 think there's going to be a huge learning curve auditing in this. 22 22 here and -- and I -- on the other hand, it's MR. TURSO: And that's a great question is, 23 23 useful to know how many firms are able to do do we even know how many firms are out there that 24 24 this. can do this sort of work? 25 DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Right. And the thing is, 25 DR. LYNCH-WALSH: No. No, but this is how Page 66 Page 68 1 1 you want to have that information as soon as you find out. possible rather than waiting. Because we can do MR. TURSO: Thank you. And I want to just two things at one time. add that the key salient point that was being MS. FERTIG: I understand. I understand. discussed is, we have a new superintendent now, DR. LYNCH-WALSH: What Mr. De Meo has -- what and we haven't had a history of being proactive. we just passed a motion on will be happening and I think this is a wonderful message that we're at the same time you can canvass the marketplace going proactive, that we're looking at something 8 and either use the results or continue with RSM. that's going to occur in January in September, It's just so you, you know, have the information instead of waiting until April. Thank you. 10 in a timely manner. 10 DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. So to be a motion it 11 MS. CARTER-LYNCH: And we have established --11 needs to be seconded. 12 12 I'm sorry. Madam Chair? MS. CARTER-LYNCH: I'll second it. 13 13 DR. LYNCH-WALSH: No, you're good. DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. Any further 14 14 MS. DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. All in favor?  COMMITTEE MEMBERS: Aye.  DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Any opposed?  MR. MAYERSOHN: I'm an aye.  MR. JABOUIN: I'm sorry, I think a modification is needed because there's a conflict. Can you clarify that?  MS. MARTE: Through the Chair, if we could consider taking out "other", "other audit firms"?  The motion should say an RFI for audit firms. So anyone can bid on the work.  MR. TURSO: Correct. Otherwise it would exclude  MRS. MARTE: If we say "other" it appears to exclude RSM. And I believe that's not the intent.	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21	team did put it on the Office of the Chief Auditor website and you'll have that information from Ms. Hudge. And then we also put in the slides that Mr. Lozano presented as well. And I just checked those on the Chief Auditor's website. Thank you, Chair.  DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. So that's under is that under today's or MR. JABOUIN: It's under August 30th's web page.  DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Oh, the special meeting. MR. JABOUIN: Yeah, the special meeting. DR. LYNCH-WALSH: All right. So if you go to the website and to the special meeting it's there?  MR. JABOUIN: Yes. DR. LYNCH-WALSH: I did see. Okay. MS. FERTIG: And just to follow up on this conversation, could you prepare a list for us of the auditing firms that you're currently using and what their fees are? I just think that would examinations we obtained an understanding of the internal control structure established by the administration. I -- are principals responsible for establishing internal controls? Or I thought they were responsible for following them. Because if we're expecting principals who are not CPAs to establish internal controls that might explain a few things that we find in audits.

MR. JABOUIN: So the internal controls should be established outside of audit function. So we do look at that. So to some of the schools the business support center creates a lot of the procedures that are followed there. But I think they're mostly completed outside of the schools. The schools don't write the procedures that they follow.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Right, the business support center does. And so is there a CPA that is establishing these procedures or somebody with audit background? Because --

MRS. MARTE: There's a CPA in the business support center.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: But it's not run by a person that's a CPA. So who would be the CPA in the business support center that's establishing policy. So, for instance, there's an internal fund policy and then also procedures. Because you want to have an appropriate background to know that you're interpreting a standard practice bulletin correctly. And on --

MS. GOULDBOURNE: So the standard practice bulletins are the procedures and policies by the

MR. DE MEO: Madam Chair, aren't they -- I'm sorry. Aren't they obliged to follow what the district has established?

MS. FERTIG: Yeah, that's the word they're missing, district administration.

MR. DE MEO: And, hopefully, hopefully, the district has consulted appropriate people, whatever their titles are, to develop these procedures.

MS. FERTIG: Yeah, this could be fixed by putting the word district administration in there

MR. DE MEO: Yeah, I think so.

MS. FERTIG: And if it's beyond that, in the State of Florida, adding the State of Florida for good measure.

MR. DE MEO: Right. Right.

these and who's reviewing what they establish? MR. JABOUIN: So if I can ask Ms. Gouldbourne to add to what I have indicated before?

MS. GOULDBOURNE: So the standard practice bulletins are written to chapter 8, which is the red book. These are -- it's eight pages long and it's basically a standard that the state gives to how to handle the internal funds. There's no extraordinary accounting principles that are used in the internal funds. There's no financial statement requirements except to basically tell everyone what balance is associated with each fund from the bank account. There's a single bank account. There's single entry debits and credits. There's no due entry. There's no requirements of income statements or balance statements. So this is, in essence, a checkbook register review and audit.

So the requirement of a CPA, I'm not really sure, I would just like to know what portion of that you would like to know that a CPA would need to have to develop the standard practice bulletins to -- that have to be developed by policy to adhere to chapter 8.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: No, I'm talking about

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: So I think a point was just made which has been a sticking point with me for every year that I've been on here. The standard practice bulletins cannot be the procedures because the average person at a school is not going to know what all of those words mean. And so you have to have a policy -- you have to have -- you can have the standard practice bulletin, but you have to translate it into language that the average person at a school that is tasked with following it can actually understand. They're not written as procedures for a layperson, they're written as a standard practice bulletin, which you cannot guarantee that even the bookkeeper at the school might understand. So -- but every time I've brought this up I get told that the standard practice bulletins are the procedures.

I forget who was --MS. CARTER-LYNCH: Mary. DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Mary? Okay. MS. FERTIG: I think over the years that we have -- that we have asked and we have verified that there is training for each group that's supposed to follow the standard practice

Page 85 Page 87 1 bulletin -- right now we're talking about and build, okay, in order for all of these 2 bookkeepers and so forth, but we have had this mistakes and errors to end. So, with all due conversation, say, about coaches or respect, I appreciate that there's a CPA extracurricular activities. the gap falls. It's not -- we could develop an entire new system of rules and regulations to follow and it still won't be followed. It's the upkeep and the what happens after that. That's the problem.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: So there is a policy on audited follow-up that hasn't been followed that is a policy that is under the Office of the Chief Auditor. So we'll dig that up as part of our -because internal controls are all of them. It's not just the procedures. It's -- when this group makes recommendations to strengthen internal controls and nobody updates, like you said, the procedures, that is a failure to strengthen your internal controls. And then part of internal controls is the follow-up, which there are policies, at least one, if not two, on audit follow-up. So we'll have to dig into that, but it is, there's a requirement that there's audit follow-up. And it's not optional. It's required.

And, to your point, they should be bringing back whatever suggested changes have been made to a practice bulletin or a policy to close the loophole in the internal controls.

comment of a few months ago, maybe $40,000 doesn't seem overwhelming in a billions of dollar budget, but it's -- to me, if that's what's happening in our schools, the sloppy kind of always taking the money to hold something out of the wrong account, it could be the faculty luncheon or it could be as we've seen running other programs, athletic events, and so forth.

And the same thing on the nursery. They knew they were supposed to be moving that money. They just didn't do it.

And so I kind of want to know what the follow-up is to ensure, how do we not check every year to make somewhat sure somebody has transferred their money that they're receiving in childcare to the district so it can go where it's supposed to go? Those are -- those, to me, are things that are a separate issue kind of from the internal controls, that is the training that we have asked to have put in place every year at least once a year for the people in schools to know what the rules are.

And what I see in this report is -- because I could go on with the next sections, there wasn't -- that wasn't happening.

All right. Ms. Fertig?

MS. FERTIG: Okay. I was thinking along the same lines. And, Ms. Strauss, I want to say, I think we've all supported the rewriting of internal controls for the district, and, hopefully, we're going to have that conversation today. So I think we all agree with that.

But when I look at this audit I'm kind of thinking, I'm sorry, but everybody knows you're not supposed to have a faculty luncheon from the One Blood account. I mean, that -- that -- that is on those people in that school and I don't want to take away from that. We used to fight this battle all the time in earlier days because it's amazing what you could fund a faculty luncheon out of, you know. Anything but the faculty fund, of course. But I -- I think -- and then I looked at the nursery, I'll just go ahead to the nursery, where they haven't transferred the money since 2020. I mean, I'm sorry, you don't need to be a CPA to know that that money is supposed to be going to the district. The failures in this -- and it worries me when I see this, that we have other schools that are doing it. Because, you know, going back to Mr. Turso's

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: So all of those things are internal controls, but, to your point, Ms. Fertig, one of the notes I have written here is, what is the year-end process? Because it sounds like everybody's relying on an audit to tell them what's wrong, going wrong at a school, when not transferring money since 2020 should be part --I'm surprised, I don't know what the year-end process is, but just like you balance a checkbook or do month-end reports in the accounting, in the financial reporting, someone behind me that wants to answer?

Yes, so what are the schools required to do at the end of the month?

MS. GOULDBOURNE: So because this account was in a club account, we've asked them to change that. It's supposed to be a trust account. And so you can review those trust accounts. So because it was -- the nursery was categorized as a club account, it wasn't required to be zeroed out. We told the school to change that to nursery account as a trust account so that we can review those trust accounts to ensure that they were closed out when they're supposed to be. DR. LYNCH-WALSH: So is that a change being

There is a manual, there is, check was not released in June until that 8 you know, obviously, an operations end of things document was signed off. And it was multiple that we're assuming people read, but we don't departments had to sign off, so Internal 10 necessarily know whether they're in compliance. 10 Accounts, Audit, Property & Inventory. It was a 11 11 So maybe -- and I kind of look to Mr. Jabouin, number of reviews that the principal had to go 12 12 who was working on something toward internal through, you know, toward the end of the year. 13 13 controls to work on this in the same way to And I'm not sure why that went away or through 14 14 what process, but what I will say is, is the ensure that this is done with fidelity. 15 15 DR. So you're suggesting principal does do the monthly closeout things for 16 something similar to the Property & Inventory 16 the internals that have to be sent, they're 17 17 where they have to check, verify, reconcile, signed off and they have to be sent, and we -- we 18 18 twice a year, which is, essentially, what, are would get notifications if their monthly bank 19 19 there month-end procedures, year-end procedures; statement reconciliation was not sent to the 20 20 are there year-end procedures? business support center if they were a BSC 21 21 MS. But to answer your question, when the department called Systems & Procedures went away, some of this got --

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Lost.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Well, you now have area regional superintendents which you would expect would be responsible for their respective

DR. WANZA: But I think what people have to understand is the area offices as they are created now are not the same as they were back when I was a principal and we reported to an area office.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Right.

DR. WANZA: The region offices don't have their own business staff. So my business person was Claude Remy. You had Rick Cupo. Rob was up in the north. They do not have all of those functions that were in a region office back when, you know, when I was a principal 20 years ago.

So, no, Dr. Toomer doesn't have a business analyst and a -- he has a person who handles his payroll, his ordering, his -- they don't -- she internal account, the person who came to my school would ask me, what are you doing to get that kind of money? It just feels to me that there was a lack of the auditor that was coming to the school. And I'm not -- and I don't know who it was and I don't care.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Well, it's a simple question they should be able to answer. When was this school last audited for internal funds?

MR. JABOUIN: Chair, so this school was audited every year. We finally have caught up. But one of the things I wanted to mention is, during my review I wanted the team to tighten up on -- on the audits and the testing that was being done and we have tightened that up versus what was done in some previous years. So we made some changes in order to be able to do some more thorough audits.

MS. DAHL: But don't you think that kind of money sitting in an internal account would have been sticking out like a sore thumb? And also when they looked at the stuff for the faculty luncheon, that should have stuck out like a sore thumb, too, because you have to show those cute little Crime Stoppers kids, you would have to doesn't handle necessarily all of the business functions for the school, for all the schools. When that was my job, because I knew that she had all of that expertise, I paid her overtime to go out to schools and do that training and do that follow-up and do that work. But the region offices of today are not created like they were with what you are thinking of.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: And I'm not necessarily suggesting, but it does then suggest that at the business support center you need to have the expertise.

Ms. Dahl and then Ms. Strauss.

MS. DAHL: And my -- my other question, and I totally agree with Valerie, Rick Cupo would call me in a heartbeat if he saw something that was wrong. So -- I didn't ever get any calls from him, but he would call you in a heartbeat.

My other question is, when was the last time this school was audited? Because it seems to me since it hasn't been caught since --

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: 2020.

MS. DAHL: -- 2020, why didn't somebody else catch it until now? Because I'm serious when I say, if you have that kind of money in an show that you have a letter from them saying that we agree that we're going to pay for the faculty luncheon. That has to be in -- that's parts of the audit. even --

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: So this was for fiscal year '22. And if you look at both the business support center internal funds audit and this one, in fact, on disbursements on page 4, at the very top, the first sentence says, the business support center paid for catering services, decorations and retirement plaques on behalf of Dave Thomas Education Center with checks dated June 13th, 2022. Back here in disbursements in the detail it tells you what's supposed to be attached. So the question I had attached to that sentence is, what did they verify before paying?

MS. DAHL: And the other thing I'm going to say is, if I had made a mistake, even one of these mistakes as a principal, I would have at least gotten a letter of reprimand; if not gotten demoted.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Well, he got a retirement. MS. DAHL: Well, but that's not the same

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Well, sometimes it is.

MS. FERTIG: But I think our point is, it should have been caught and something should have been done before it was. And maybe you need to go back to what Dr. Wanza's suggesting as an organization.

MS. DAHL: Yes, absolutely. That works.
DR. LYNCH-WALSH: So -- well, hold on. But what also works -- remember, Ms. Gouldbourne said that they all get sent to the business support center. So you need to look at, if they're all going there, what is happening? Because there's little difference, from a functionality standpoint, between having it in the different areas and having one centralized office. And this is speaking as someone that did financial accounting at a centralized office. But you need to know what you're doing there. And you need to have -- internal controls need to be the

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Oh, sorry, I skipped you.

DR. WANZA: So principals have the option of opting in or keeping their own. And that is truly a school-based decision based on the management, the leadership, you know, whatever decision the principal makes. Schools are not forced, if you will, that you will be in. I will say and I'll go on the record, there have been times due to procedures or lack of and things where I actually told principals, because you're having such, we need to put you in the central, centralized plan, and it worked better for those schools for a number of reasons. And then some schools opted out. So right now it is a -- it's still a school-based decision. We, as a district, have not said, you will all be in the business support center.

Ms. Marte, is that accurate? Okav.

DR. HEPBURN: Yes, just to elaborate, Mr. Jabouin and I have sat down and reviewed some audit concerns for specific schools and that was one of the questions I had, as far as looking at the data, to see what schools are having -- are schools that are getting services from the business support center having more issues than

I'm sorry.

MR. DE MEO: Go ahead.

MS. STRAUSS: Okay. This also was brought up in the past. Dr. Wanza, I wanted to clarify with you. We know that in the past schools had an onsite bookkeeper, right, at each school. There are still some that have that. We know that that did and does -- those schools that have an onsite bookkeeper do and have come up as having less failures, exceptions, all of the above, right, because they have greater control, they're actually sitting at the school. Then things were moved to the central business center, and it just seems as if things have gotten out of hand, that they're too far removed from the schools. I understand schools are given a budget and some principals, you know, are more -- are wiser or the way they allocate their money is different, they keep a bookkeeper on part-time in order to be able to keep that control and be most fiscally responsible.

So, with all of that, is there consideration to place bookkeepers back in schools and take them out of a central office where control is less?

the schools that have bookkeepers?

Just a quick glance of that information didn't prove either way. So he's supposed to be going through the information to give me better data to see if that is the case so we can start making better decisions and see if you're going to be serviced better with a bookkeeper on campus or if you're going to be serviced better from getting service from the business support center.

So we don't have accurate information to conclude otherwise yet, but that was one of the questions I had coming in.

MS. STRAUSS: That's great to hear. And I can tell you that when we did look at this in the past, the conclusion was onsite bookkeepers --

DR. HEPBURN: Were better?

MS. STRAUSS: Were better. However, I will say, just Dr. Wanza, how you went into schools that were having issues and said we've got to move you to central business, perhaps the schools now that are having issues, it can be vice versa; right? And it's like you really need an onsite qualified bookkeeper, and that may be the recommendation. Because what we're seeing here, like, should not be.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: And we still -- we have quorum, so we're good. Okay. We're legal.

Okay. Moving on to, I believe internal controls. Okay. So let me pull up -- so are you ready, Mr. Castaneda?

MR. CASTANEDA: Yes. Thank you. Good morning, my name is Eddy Castaneda and I'm an audit senior manager for the district's external audit firm, MSL CPAs & Advisors. Thank you for your time this morning. I would -- I received a call from Mr. Jabouin related to if I could do a quick presentation, a high-level internal controls discussion for the audit committee. So effect since the '90s, I believe, in implementing internal controls.

And then if you go to the next slide? This is the COSO model. So there's five major areas in the COSO model, which are the Control Environment, Risk Assessment, Control Activities, Information and Communication, and Monitoring Activities. I could spend, and I think I have, an hour just on this slide alone. So we could -at your discretion you can let me know if you want to go into something further at a future committee meeting, but this is basically the COSO model. The Control Environment area is typically that phrase that we hear, "tone at the top". This is the Broward School's Board, this is that, this audit committee, you are the tone at the top, per se, so everything kind of flows down from there.

The second area is the Risk Assessment. This is where you guys identify what areas of operation tend to be riskier than others.

Control Activities is the phase where you actually implement policies or procedures or steps or activities to address those risks, to make sure that those risks are addressed.

I apologize if this information is rudimentary to all of you, but I was told that it should be high-level, kind of general, and then we could go into any details further. So I'm going to keep it brief.

So the purpose of today is to discuss internal controls. Internal controls are basically just the system processes and procedures to ensure that a process or objective is met adequately. If you could go to that -yeah, that slide right there.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. So this speaks to risk, the risk portion of it; right?

MR. CASTANEDA: Well, you -- so that is what, generally what internal controls are, you do start with the risk assessment. The risk assessment is basically where you've identified -- where any particular entity would identify high levels of risk and what that risk appetite is for that particular entity. It's -you analyze the organizational risk. You also include in inherent risk as well on the district's operations. Typically, the most widely accepted system of internal controls is the COSO model. This is something that's been in Page 116

The fourth is Information and Communication so that those -- those results from your three previous are communicated and disseminated throughout the entire entity to make sure that people are following those Control Activities as well as the Risk Assessment and the Control Environment.

And lastly we have Monitoring Activities. This is where you constantly just review your internal controls to make sure that they are operating as intended.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: So I think as luck would have it we saw examples today of each of these. Ms. Ighodaro asked about Monitoring Activities. We saw multiple examples of Control Activities not being followed. And Mr. De Meo did a couple of motions on establishing policies and procedures in terms of the Control Environment. And then relevant information, that internal/external, the BTAs and having the information in a timely manner so that it's relevant to any decision making.

I did have -- just to pop this up real quick, I found a website that had more expanded definitions of the Control Environment, Risk Assessment and the internal control framework. which, as you said, starts with the school board, with the audit committee -- actually, the school board, its directed reports, the audit committee, and it references the COSO model as well, that internal control is a process affected by the entity's board of directors, management, other personnel to provide reasonable assurance regarding the achievement of objectives in the following categories. Effectiveness and efficiency of operations, reliability of financial reporting, compliance with applicable laws and regulations. And in the Control Environment you mentioned the tone. And the integrity ethical values and competence of the entity's people. Management philosophy and operating style, the way management assigns authority and responsibility and organizes and develops its people and the attention and direction provided by the board of directors, which would be the school board, I'm thinking.

So -- okay. So the next slide -- there's only nine slides, so if we want to go through the rest of the slides and then if we have specific questions, and then I have some examples in as a publicly traded company or a nonprofit or privately owned businesses. Government has their own unique set of circumstances as well as accounting. So the GAO puts out this Green Book, which is, like I said, just leverages the COSO model. And to note that that framework is an accepted framework for internal controls regarding your single audit and the uniform guidance requirement. So that's also a plus of implementing GAO Green Book.

So if you go to the next slide, it's basically the same thing as the COSO model, the same five major -- major -- major phases of it as well as I did want to point out that the Green Book model does go above the COSO model because it does actually have written in their language design activities for an entity's information system, your IT system. That is definitely something that has to be taken into account for and looked at when you're talking about overall internal controls because what process -- very few processes are not done solely, you know, with paper and pen. Everything processes through a software or some type of program. So the Green Book model does implement that and that is an addition to what we saw today. So we'll go through the rest of those slides real quick.

MR. CASTANEDA: So some quick benefits of implementing the COSO modal, the opportunity for re-evaluating your current and existing control structure. It improves the efficiency and effectiveness of your internal controls. Ensures to keep pace with any changes and evolving business environment and emerging risks, as well as improving risk assessment and antifraud practices.

MS. DAHL: Can you speak up just a little bit louder? I can't hear you.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Yeah, you've got to eat that microphone. I've been bad today, too.

MR. CASTANEDA: On the next slide I did want to -- so there is a separate framework for internal controls, which is the GAO, that's the Government Accountability Office, they call it the Green Book, so that's their system of internal controls. They basically just leverage the COSO model, but they incorporate government specific terms, because as everyone here knows, the government entity is very specific and very different from other types of organizations such area to note.

And then the last slide here, here's just highlighting some significant audit and financial reporting areas. This is from our view as an external auditor. Internal audit may have a different approach and a different view on what they consider high risk areas or significant areas. That just changes with who views, who is viewing and what the purpose of an audit is. But, obviously, internal controls over financial accounting and reporting, that is something that we're very interested in as external auditors. Your IT systems, the financial statement preparation, capital assets, investment policies and procedures, debt, your net position and fund balance, payroll processing, as well as budgetary compliance, and any compliance with any significant contracts, laws, regulations and grants.

So those are the areas that we kind of look at to assess internal controls over the district.

And then other than that I'll leave it up to discussion if you have any specific questions or want to get into any specific areas.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. Anybody have questions; comments?

Ms. Ighodaro?

MS. IGHODARO: You talked a little bit about the monetary, not specifically in the Green Book model -- actually, before I go into detail on that, what model is the district currently using?

MR. CASTANEDA: They use a COSO model. It's not -- these frameworks are just frameworks. It doesn't necessarily say, oh, I've -- we've implemented COSO or we've implemented Green Book. It's also -- like it's a combination of all the systems, the procedures and policies and procedures that the district has in place. But they do follow a COSO model.

MS. IGHODARO: Okay. So when we talk about remediating deficiencies, what are some of the ways besides -- because some of the things we've tried here to make recommendations and following through on that step, what are some of the ways you suggest to remediate deficiencies apart from making recommendation and essentially firing?

MR. CASTANEDA: The only thing I could suggest for that is that there is some type of continuous follow-up. I believe the discussion on, for example, for one of the internal funds

Page 123 you to flesh out some kind of approach, briefly, just briefly. And I'd like you to consider the nature of the organization and the cost restraints, please.

MR. CASTANEDA: I'm not -- so we -- as external auditors we are required to assess the entity we're auditing internal controls. We have not yet found a significant deficiency or a material weakness that would raise to the level of us reporting it in a written report. These areas, as I mentioned, in a significant audit -- any deficiencies or material weaknesses in these areas may cause us to issue those, but we haven't found anything in our auditing. And like we've had discussions with this in this committee about how it's limited in scope and what we're actually seeing and what we're actually testing.

But if there is a material weakness or a significant deficiency that we did come across, one, well, hopefully, we didn't identify it, right, because if your external auditor identified a material weakness or significant deficiency, that means your internal controls actually failed because an outside party found it as opposed to internally that you found it. So was that perhaps recommendations are being made but they're not necessarily checked to make sure that they got implemented. So, periodically, I would suggest that if there was a finding on a particular school, some -- set some sort of periodic date to follow up to make sure that those processes were actually -- and that recommendation was actually implemented.

- -- 5 - ---

The good thing about internal funds is that you get a chance the next year to, actually, follow up because they're required to be audited annually.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. Mr. De Meo? MR. DE MEO: How are you doing, Mr. Castaneda?

MR. CASTANEDA: Good. How are you, Mr. De Meo?

MR. DE MEO: Senior manager? You should be a director by now.

MR. CASTANEDA: Yeah, I've been slacking.
MR. DE MEO: So I would like to ask our Chief Auditor and Mr. Castaneda what approach they would take to remedy any perceived deficiencies in the district's internal controls? Big question. But I'd like to -- at least I'd like we would have to -- and depending on the nature and severity and what areas that would affect, it would depend on how we would go about that in remedying it. Some are systemic in nature and some are one-time things. For example, this discussion that you had of a nursery being classified as a club seems like, is that systemic or is that just a one-time, they just messed up, for example? So we would have to evaluate it in that way.

But without knowing and getting into a specific example, I think that's -- that's the answer I can give.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Mr. Jabouin?
MR. JABOUIN: Thank you, Chair, and Mr. De Meo.

So I want to run with some of the points that the committee has made. I think, as Ms. Ighodaro and some other members have said, the follow-up process, itself, is something that we in our group should focus on. I think that some people have mentioned a previous table that used to be put at audit committee meetings, and Ms. Arcese went back and she found a table, like a follow-up table, that used -- some historical members of the audit committee may remember. We'll go ahead and we'll implement that in. So you'll see an inventory of the different things that have come up and see what their status is. So we'll seek to put that into the agenda of every meeting.

The follow-up, actually, is easier than doing the work because we know the work, the issues already. And being able to make sure that it's implemented is a little bit easier than discovering it, and then monitoring the changes as well. So some of the things that you see like on the RSM reports that have a follow-up process in the back, it's too specific. With enough data we should be able to look at trends to be able to point us to where some of the heat areas are on a heat map on that front.

So those are some of the things that we'll integrate with the district and how we proceed on that.

I do think, though, that, as the committee does, you know, the key areas that they should be investing in as far as audits, such as the construction program, which we have RSM, and then later I'll introduce our new audit director on some of the areas that we want to do. IT is going to be looking at those. So that's my first comment and how is that progressing?

My second comment is, I think as we look at these audits we see that if you -- if you don't do the training with people, so I would like to see a schedule of when the training, for example, with bookkeepers was done this year and with club sponsors and so forth. I'd like to see a list of all those trainings, who conducted them, where they were, and the level of participation. And then if there's a requirement for a staff person, which I know there is, for a staff person to attend and make up if they haven't.

And then, finally, I -- I -- you know, we can have great controls, but it just looks like a lot of times people just don't follow what they're supposed to. I think Dr. Wanza brought up a really good point about something the district had in place that they discontinued. Maybe we need to relook at that and maybe suggest it.

And then you brought up -- Ms. Strauss, you brought up the bookkeeping, the whole bookkeeping process. And I can remember when they instituted the centralized bookkeeping, which I'm going to say, Ms. Marte, was maybe 10 years ago, Dr.

another area that we also focus on, as we should. Those are not -- construction and IT risks are not unique just to the district. Every organization faces that. So, you know, continuing to go on those paths and maybe stopping to focus on the follow-up before going into new areas is something to do. Because we've audited a lot of different areas. If we sat back and read them and looked at them to see where management needed to have implemented some controls it would be better for us on that front, Mr. De Meo.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Ms. Fertig?
MS. FERTIG: I -- I had thought, and I'm going to just defer to Ms. Strauss on this, I had thought that we were asking --

MS. DAHL: Your mike.

MS. FERTIG: Okay. Thank you.

I'm deferring to Ms. Strauss, but I thought that we had selected one or two areas to look at internal controls this year to audit.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: We're starting with general and going to specific, which was HR and Procurement.

MS. FERTIG: Right. And I thought we were Wanza, maybe 10 years ago? And before that everybody had their own bookkeeper. They did it to cure a problem. I'm not sure that the cure worked the way they thought it would.

So I think there are four or five really serious things that we need to evaluate.

And the final thing is, I'd like to know when each of these policies, each of these standard bulletins was last amended; if we could come up with a list of the standard bulletins and when they were last amended.

I know that's a lot of asks, but I think it would help us to --

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Well, does it say on the bulletins when they were last updated?

Nope? Okay. That would be an easy way to --MS. FERTIG: Well, that certainly is a start; isn't it?

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. So getting to the training, what is the training? What does the training consist of? I'm kind of a root cause kind of girl. We can have all the trainings in the world, but if the training is ineffective it'll be ineffective every time it's offered. So I don't think we've ever seen the training to see what it consists of. How is it done? Is it done in person; is it done via -- what's our favorite way to do training around here?

DR. WANZA: Virtual.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Virtually?

Are people, you know, doing their regular job while watching the training? Are they tested on anything? You know, what is the training that keeps getting done?

And then, yeah, the standard bulletin and when those were all last updated would seem to be basic -- I got your first and last things, but I wanted -- so before we got to the specifics we want to make sure we're all clear on internal controls.

And then the follow-up that Ms. Ighodaro mentioned, this is the policy follow-up on audit recommendations. There are rules, like within 60 days of the issuance of an audit report they furnish a progress report on the action taken.

So, for example, the Council of Great City Schools was a review, nobody's seen an update on that in three years.

The roofing audit -- the roofing review by RSM done a couple of years ago now, nobody's seen committee in 1985? I don't know.

Okay. So that would seem to be something that hasn't been implemented but needs to be.

So, Mr. Jabouin, is -- what is the plan to get you into compliance and get the district into compliance with this policy?

MR. JABOUIN: So, Chair, as I was mentioning earlier and I just happen to have a hard copy of it from a document that was included in the May 6th, 2010 audit committee, which inventories the audit, the recommendations, the follow-up dates --

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: 2010?

MR. JABOUIN: -- and it indicates individuals that will be brought up to the committee meeting to discuss them on that end. So we'll -- I'm thinking that at the next meeting we'll put the first one in place and then it'll be populated through research as well as comments from the committee members as well. But we'll do the first one at the next meeting.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay.

MS. FERTIG: And can you go back through our last six months and pick up the items that we've asked for a follow-up on?

an update on that since it first came here.

So none of the -- the follow-up, to your point, is not happening, but it is absolutely the last step in the COSO model. And in any continuous improvement process the last step is monitoring follow-up so that informs what you do the next time.

So if this policy is not being followed, and I don't know -- let's see -- I mean, it hasn't been updated -- I was 16 the last time this policy was updated.

MS. FERTIG: But I will say for many years we had a really robust follow-up in place and then I don't know -- I don't know, we just seemed -- that just seems to have fallen off.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. So do we need sort of a plan of action? We have the policy but we don't have procedures on follow-up?

I mean, this is pretty basic, but I think it's pretty clear what the progress -- when it happened, what it contained, and that they report quarterly on the status of all open recommendations to the superintendent and the school board simultaneously.

Now, this is from 1985. Was there an audit

MR. JABOUIN: Okay. So we'll start off with that, and maybe more, and then we'll build it from there, Ms. Fertig.

MS. IGHODARO: I think that would be super helpful, because we talk a lot about new items on our agenda and we also like read a lot of the agenda items, but the follow-up part is a huge component that's missing in this meeting. We lift up a lot of questions.

I still have in my notes from over six months ago about the structural bond from the Big 3. That was such a heated conversation in this room and I remember a motion being lifted.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Passed or not passed, when you say "lifted"? Passed?

MS. IGHODARO: I think it was passed. The motion was passed to make a recommendation to the school board, but we never heard any follow-up from that. It's not been discussed, what happened post that.

And a few other things as well that we talk about the recommendation but then we don't get any sort of progress report on how --

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Well, right. So they're going to do the first one. They found a 2010

United Reporting, Inc. (954) 525-2221

model.

So it was to audit the Big 3 and we had a laundry list of things. And to Mr. De Meo's point, it could get very expensive.

I have found from doing additional research on the Facilities Task Force side, that if you were to audit compliance with the CCC, which has three components, Florida Building Code, SREF, and the board-approved state -- the five-year plan survey, to see if the projects are in compliance, you would effectively tease out whether there was the disparity that we were talking about.

Because we're -- we have a growing list of exceptions, the most -- one of the most recent ones is Markham Elementary had the mysteriously shrinking spaces because of this emphasis on budget over compliance with SREF and the state plan survey, which is all part of the CCC.

So what happened last year, there was an approved program that had the sizes of the classrooms and other spaces were in compliance with SREF and the plan survey, but in trying to shoehorn it into a budget instead of coming back to the board for more money, the sizes of the repeatedly by them, Nathalie, and you keep making representations.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Because I know more than they do about this.

MR. JABOUIN: You know more than the attorneys who worked on it for 10 years and have worked on it for 20 years.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: From the facilities standpoint.

MS. FERTIG: Okay. All right. No, I understand. You know more than all the members who worked on this, all the people who gave their blood, sweat and tears for all these years, you know more than they do. Regardless of what they've told you, you know more than they do.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: They're not looking at the indicators.

MS. IGHODARO: I'm just going to jump in here and say, before things get more heated, it would be great for us to see things like that, updates, and carve out an agenda time to actually discuss it and see where some of the progress in these things that we mentioned are currently.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: So I know he we're not going to have an update on roofing because you rooms kept shrinking. And then this lame excuse,

I don't know what else to call it, that the minimum classroom size can be 600 square feet, which is totally not SREF, it's like 200 square feet smaller, and the only place that keeps trying to make things this small is Miami-Dade.

And when I looked at two schools that they were citing, it's because they have no room to make them any smaller unless they go up.

That's not the problem at Markham. So what wasn't happening is coming back to the board so that they can stay in compliance, and the board keeps inadvertently violating its own legal obligation with the CCC.

MS. FERTIG: And I would just like to say, my husband is the attorney for the CCC, and the interpretation you're giving is not always his interpretation or the members of the CCC. So if you're going to make those statements I think it's only right to have them come and explain what the settlement does.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: We know what the settlement does, Mary. It's a state plan survey. It's in the indicators.

MS. FERTIG: Okay. You have been told would have to -- that would take some time, but I believe we have someone that could help on that front.

Council of Great City Schools was PPO, so, once again, I believe Mr. Rhodes can help on that front. But I don't think that would be ready for October.

So then the next thing would be the Big 3 audit. Because that was something; if it passed. And the board instructed that to occur on the Big 3. That was a board directive also.

Okay. So as far as HR and Procurement, in terms of assessing the internal controls, I have some -- we've seen multiple examples of procurement issues, but there are policies in place and most of the stuff is from years past. So I will leave that to Mr. Jabouin as far as Procurement goes, because I don't necessarily -- I think that they have stitched up most of the holes. But we could bring back the policy having to -- you know, the procurement policy. There are a couple. There is the procurement policy and then there's also the M/WBE piece to it.

And then on the HR side, one of the things that happened last October, HR encompasses everything from how they recruit, how they screen, select, evaluate. I think we talked about evaluations and that not happening for an employee of the Office of the Chief Auditor even. Evaluation and then the dismissal and the fact that you can non-renew people and effectively just make them disappear from the organization without it going to the board, which is what happens when you non-renew somebody.

And the board is obligated per state statute, I believe 1001.42, to provide for all of those steps, meaning, that they should have policies. The superintendent then would create procedures.

But if you don't have a policy sometimes procedure doesn't match the intent of the board.

So back in October they had a very detailed policy on the selection of personnel. All of the procedural things were removed from that policy, and then when the procedures came back they had taken out not only community input, entirely, but also it used to stipulate about having expertise on the interview panel, and now it just says, if you don't mind, Mr. De Meo, that one panel member must be from outside the division. So you could have people interviewing for an IT position that in accounting or finance or business and have a master's degree in anything and be qualified. At least that's the argument that was being made and that's how we wound up where we are today.

This is the letter that was sent by the Office of Communications to the Sun Sentinel back in 2021, I believe.

So I think we have -- because we're trying to get out of here for 12:30 -- oh, but that's not -- last night, once upon a time another position, you guys may remember when a cadre director became the chief human resource officer and we wondered how they were qualified. So there were two interviews done back then. The top ranked person who received 140 points was not in the second round of interviews. So they had interviews on two different dates in May for the chief human resource officer. The first problem was that the person was never an HR generalist, which is part of the minimum qualifications. But the issue that I discovered last night, because I went and dug through the documents, the highest ranked person was not on the short list of people interviewed the second time, so I dug up his phone number and called him. I said, what are being interviewed by people that have no IT background. Same with facilities, same with an accounting position, anything technical. Because there's no requirement in their procedures because they struck all the specifics from the policy.

So these are the -- and this is for ESMAB and PBA positions. And this is from Talent Acquisition. So that's one example.

We've talked a lot about the competence of the organization. A few years ago, in 2019 actually, they strengthened the job description for the director of the business support center, that was in December of 2019, and created a requirement, even though the person that was there had a degree in, I believe, finance, that required finance, accounting, business administration or related fields to be a minimum qualification. And then there was an attempt to make a principal the director of the business support center. That person's no longer with the district. Because they were using the excuse that the preferred qualifications trump the minimum qualifications.

So you could effectively have no background happened, they didn't interview you the second time and you had 19 points higher than the second person and over 20 points higher than the third person? His answer, he was never called.

Imagine the highest ranked person for a chief position was never called for a follow-up interview back when that position was advertised and we wound up with a former cadre director becoming the HR chief.

On top of it there were plenty of people whose entire careers were in HR who were also not considered. And the second and third person had careers in HR. Obviously, so did the highest ranked person.

So the selection committee did score appropriately, but somehow that person didn't wind up being considered for the job because they didn't make it past the first interview. They were never called.

MS. FERTIG: What agenda item are we on? DR. LYNCH-WALSH: We're on internal controls. So I'm giving examples.

All right. So --

MR. CASTANEDA: If I may, is there are any questions regarding internal controls as far as

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: So in terms of HR, what sort of -- because it covers soup to nuts from recruiting to the dismissal, so what we would be looking for, since we're looking at HR and procurement, are some recommendations for both of those -- for both of those areas.

I'm providing examples of things you wouldn't, a reasonable person would not think could happen, but they have here.

And so how do we close the loopholes? Again, non-renewing employees, they just disappear and cease to exist. Everybody else, if they retire, they resign or they are --

MS. FERTIG: But I thought we were doing -- I thought one of the audits we were doing this year is on internal controls and HR. So wouldn't we let the person review the subject and then come to us and tell us what they see?

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: But we have to establish what they are first. So they need to make -- how do we know what we're auditing if we don't understand what internal controls are related?

MS. FERTIG: I mean, we're not auditing. We've hired -- aren't we hiring? I don't know. the board will -- will need to do so. But they already passed a motion adding it to the plan and we'll build the audit that includes the comments that are here.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. So I pulled up the state statutes. As far as personnel goes, the school board is, their responsibility is to designate positions to be filled, org chart; prescribe qualifications for those positions, job description; and provide for the appointment, compensation, promotion, suspension and dismissal of employees subject to the requirements of chapter 1012.

Mr. Castaneda in the COSO model explained what each -- how that relates to internal controls.

So going back to that, if we're demonstrating commitment to integrity and ethical values, the processes have to be -- follow state law, have to follow board policy. We cannot have corruption happening. We can't have unethical behavior. There has to be proper oversight. There has to be internal controls. Policies need to be sufficient. Procedures need to be sufficient. Demonstrate commitment to competence. The

I thought we were hiring an auditor to conduct that audit this year. That was our starting place for trying to reform internal controls, was to have an outside audit done so they can tell us what weaknesses they see and so forth.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Right. But we need -- we should also know what it is we're about to ask them to audit. How can we provide input into the scope?

MR. JABOUIN: Through the Chair, I think the general direction or advice from the committee is fine. We can execute the scope of the work. I've picked up the DASA process, the recruitment process, the compensation process and the procedures that the district follows. Some of the things that were pointed up on the screen, are they actually indeed doing that? So we can do that.

We'll have to -- just due to our capacity, we'll have to engage a firm and take it up to the board for approval, because they did pass a motion adding it to the plan. So --

MR. DE MEO: It sounds like a motion to me. MR. JABOUIN: Sure. But, ultimately, I have to, on all these, they have to be funded. And so organization is only as good as the people that it has. And enforce accountability, which is part of follow-up.

What are the risks? Different departments, if you hire the wrong people there may be greater risks. If you non-renew somebody and you didn't follow the procedures to get there, could they sue the district? Because, remember, it's the school board that can be sued. Can sue and be sued. Not just everybody else.

So this is the control -- this is the internal control structure. So that is effectively what they would be looking at. I'm just providing examples that I've seen along the

MR. DE MEO: Madam Chair? DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Yes. Do you have a motion? MR. DE MEO: I move that the Chief Auditor come back to the committee with his plan to audit these two sections, including the scope, so that we can have a brief discussion of the scope. We must rely on his judgment. Of course, it's okay for us to gain an understanding of what it is he is going to audit.

So that's my -- that's my motion, that we ask

Page 145 Page 147 1 1 the Chief Auditor to come back with a plan unanimously. 2 describing what he's going to audit, the scope, MR. DE MEO: I have a question for Mr. 3 the timing and the nature of it and move it from Jabouin. That policy that you had up there, there. 1003, it talks about public -- we're public 5 MS. FERTIG: Second. officials. Is there a definition somewhere in 6 DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. Further discussion? the district about what a public official is? MS. CARTER-LYNCH: This is not really MR. JABOUIN: I'm not able to recite it. discussion, it's a suggestion. Why don't we --DR. LYNCH-WALSH: It's right here. 9 MS. FERTIG: Mike? MR. DE MEO: Okay. It is the policy of the 10 10 MS. CARTER-LYNCH: Madam Chair, why don't school board that school officials as well as 11 11 heads of administrative activities will follow we -- in addition to this, so we won't have to go 12 12 around this merry-go-round again, why don't we up. We've talked a lot about follow-up. And 13 13 have you send whatever it is that you were then it says what they must do; okay; these three 14 reading to Mr. Castaneda so he'll be -- let's 14 things. They don't have to accept and act on a 15 15 give it to Mr. Jabouin and he can add that as one recommendation, according to this. But they must 16 16 of the specs that we're looking for. do these things and consider it. 17 17 DR. LYNCH-WALSH: The area that it relates Mr. Jabouin, I don't know how you could audit 18 18 to. this, but this is a critical policy. Have you 19 19 MS. CARTER-LYNCH: Absolutely. ever audited compliance with this policy? And I 20 MR. JABOUIN: If he feels it's pertinent. I 20 don't even know where you'd start. I don't know 21 21 think all of us should do that. Don't you? what a public official is. I mean, somewhere 22 22 Don't you think if we all have a point we can there's the definition. 23 23 send it to him so that when we come back, MR. JABOUIN: Well. Mr. De Meo. and to the 24 24 hopefully, he has -committee, when the audits are done there are 25 MS. CARTER-LYNCH: But what I'm saying, she's 25 commitments from management on steps that they Page 146 Page 148 1 1 got some specific stuff there. will take in order to prevent an instance from DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Right. Very specific. reoccurring and there should be some milestones MS. CARTER-LYNCH: And we just want to not for them to accomplish it, and due dates, and so have to go over that again. So why don't we give forth, and then whether or not it's effective, so that to Mr. Jabouin so he will be able to add you can do some retesting of samples in order to that in and that'll take care of your motion and see if -- if it is indeed occurring. So a then we can go ahead and move on. process like that, it makes sense for the audit 8 DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Right. So, for example, is program as well as in addition to it being part there a procedure or a policy that ensures that of a proper control environment. So we could do 10 10 the highest ranked person in an interview and that and we should. 11 11 also based on their background is shortlisted? MR. DE MEO: Well, I think if this policy was 12 12 And under what circumstances would that not followed there would be a lot of things we 13 13 happen? They changed their mind? Sure. You wouldn't have to discuss here today. Because 14 14 just don't call them to schedule an interview? there would have been follow-up. And, perhaps, 15 15 MS. CARTER-LYNCH: We got you. We got you. you should audit that. 16 16 Let's -- let's -- let's --I want to make one other --17 17 DR. LYNCH-WALSH: All right. So any further DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Motion? 18 18 discussion or we're ready for a vote? MR. DE MEO: Not a motion. While Mr. 19 19 (No response.) Castaneda's here, you've heard me talk about risk 20 20 DR. COSO committee and then the SEC and the PCAOB adopted COSO.

And aside from that a key function in internal control is first identifying what you're going to audit and why you're going to audit. That's called a risk assessment.

And I'm going to urge, again, and I'm going to ask through the Deputy -- I can't see. Let me put my glasses on.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Well, they're both here. They're both deputies, the deputy of --

DR. HEPBURN: You have three of us here. MR. DE MEO: Oh, three deputies. You're all -- round the deputies up. That we be provided with a detailed risk assessment which drives your audit year and programs.

Now, Mr. Castaneda, the outside firm, is responsible for auditing the controls and the -- the financial statement and controls over the financial statements. That's a financial statement area. That's one separate area. Extremely important.

But, Mr. Jabouin, you're charged with, in my opinion, auditing and performing audits of compliance and operating efficiency over all of the rest. And all of the rest has to be to the audit committee. In fact, they'll be looking at the audit functions from a lot of different angles.

MR. DE MEO: No, the peer review is important. But as an audit committee I just don't think we can do our job properly without knowing what the areas of risk are and then finding out if the audit plan follows that trail.

MR. JABOUIN: So the areas of risk have been identified already as far as Construction, Information Technology, Procurement. All of those particular areas have been identified and they're listed in the plan, and then -- and the plan also talks about the probability and impact of those particular areas. So if the audits are covering those particular areas, then, from a risk standpoint, it just comes down to what areas within those areas need to be looked at on that end. So -- so the process is there, so it just comes down to, I mean, are they looking at the right areas in those particular departments? If you can take a look at it and see that the key pillars of the district are getting looked at and they're getting audited, then it comes down to what are the subareas within those areas that determined by a risk assessment that points us in the direction as to what we need to audit.

So I'm going to urge, again, that we be provided with a detailed risk assessment. If there are confidential items on there that should not be exposed to the public through this committee, you know, maybe there should be a discussion. But I really think for this committee to discharge its responsibility, for the school board to discharge their responsibility, we must be provided with a risk assessment.

One more comment. Public companies are required -- the auditors are required to determine if there is a risk assessment in place, that the audit committee has considered a risk assessment, required by the PCAOB and the SEC. So I'm urging --

MR. JABOUIN: I just want to mention, so the auditor general did provide a report where they opined on that that I can send to you with the language on that front. So it is something that does get looked at. And so we will also have a peer review, which is on the plan for this year, where that process can be looked at and reported need to be looked at? So that process has been looked at by the auditor general and they have opined in it in their public reports.

MS. IGHODARO: I mean, in that case, then Finance would be subsection of operational practices.

MR. JABOUIN: Finance is one of those areas as well, such as --

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: I understand what you're saying, Ms. Ighodaro. My question is on Facilities.

But, Mr. Turso?

MR. TURSO: So, Mr. Jabouin, you mentioned that there's three key risk areas, IT, Construction or Facilities and Procurement.

I believe I'm the least senior member on this audit committee as far as tenure and I want to make sure I'm not missing anything, but how much time have we spent talking about those three key issues? Because I didn't -- I would love to talk about those because I think that's where the real money is to be found for the betterment of our children.

So have we discussed that at all and I've missed it? Because, if we have, I'm concerned Page 153 Page 155 1 1 for myself. need the most attention are being addressed. 2 MR. JABOUIN: So I have more than those So, if it's the pleasure of the committee, I 3 particular key areas. I've got the SMART Bond in will make a motion. Otherwise, I've said addition to Information Technology, Behavioral everything I want to say. 5 Threat Assessment, Physical Plant Operations, MS. That's my question. such as Travel and the Purchase Cards, the DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Yes. 9 Business Support Center, which is a key control MS. CARTER-LYNCH: We do? 1.0 10 DR. LYNCH-WALSH: We need a motion for of the district, the warehouse. I mean, those 11 11 are some of the areas that have risen as a result everything almost. And it -- because it carries 12 12 of the process. It could be from meetings like the weight of the entire audit committee as 13 13 this, but as well as individual meetings that I opposed to a discussion. 14 14 have with key individuals throughout the MS. CARTER-LYNCH: Okay. 15 15 district. And so the plan has to be geared MR. DE MEO: All right. I'll move that the 16 16 toward those particular areas. And there are Chief Auditor, in preparation for his annual 17 17 audits that are either done or they're in the audit plan, provide the audit committee and the 18 18 school board with a detailed risk assessment pipeline or they're in the plan to cover that. 19 19 But let's also remember, the follow-up process, matrix covering each and every area that is to be 20 20 considered and by the nature of the controls. which is key, takes time. 21 21 So what I said earlier was that, since work's MR. JABOUIN: And that's for the next plan, 22 22 been done in some of those areas, let's follow up sir? For the audit plan that would be --23 23 on that. So, you know, moving in the direction MR. we don't delay these too much because we're going to end up with everything being bunched in later, which doesn't give us time for proper things.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Well, that's why I'm looking at October and November and trying to get those --

MS. FERTIG: Yeah, I'm hoping those first two could come as quickly as possible.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Well, it would be internal funds and payroll for both of those departments.

MS. FERTIG: Yeah, I understand. I can read it. I understand what we're talking about.

And another point I would like to make is, I would like to see those as early in the year as possible so you can potentially correct anything while we're working our way through the year as opposed to leaving it until later and then we really are seeing the corrections come into the next school year. So I don't see any point in delaying all of this stuff and then we come to a meeting and we're here for 20 hours.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Well, no, but they -- like he just said, they have to finish. So the payroll, then every effort needs to be made to get those for October.

better percentage of being done. And then I also think the payroll, once -- I think that they have a good chance to, I'm just a little bit --

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: But I didn't ask you about the PPO or the disposal of surplus, because if we're looking at internal funds, let's knock those out, and then we have policy issues. But also PPO -- we don't have an update from the Council of Great City Schools to review.

MR. JABOUIN: Yeah, but that's not what that covers, though. It identified a particular maintenance contract and it took it over from what's called, from procurement to pay, on a very key contract on that end. And that one will likely be ready for October.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. So what was the contract then?

MR. JABOUIN: I believe it's a lawn and maintenance contract.

MS. FERTIG: So we're just going to weigh in because we're really running over. Hey, I say bring both those PPOs at the same time or bring that PPO update on our update list at the next meeting.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Well, right. He's saying

Page 162

MR. JABOUIN: So we will make every effort. It is important that the internal funds be looked at in October because -- and the property inventory, because those are areas that the auditor general looks at in their audits and they'll be back in April.

MS. FERTIG: Great. Then do that and then do the others.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Right. But get the payroll so that if there's something systemic in either of those departments, and I would expect in athletics that it had to do with the prior director, not the one that was newly minted.

MR. JABOUIN: Yeah, so we are almost done with these. What happens here is -- so what could be a factor would be whether or not the work gets done and we get the cooperation and we -- and we don't need to do any more work based on what we see.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. So we're going to have internal funds, that's already there for the 40 schools, property and inventory. But I do think --

MR. JABOUIN: Chair, I believe that the PPO maintenance contract one is probable. It has a

it's not going to be ready. And the lawn and maintenance --

MR. JABOUIN: The PPO will likely be ready. DR. LYNCH-WALSH: So then bring back -- if the Council of Great City Schools doesn't have an update, bring -- provide that to the committee. Because all of the services and what the district was paying for them was absolutely part of the Council of Great City Schools review.

MR. JABOUIN: So the Council of Great City Schools, we could seek to bring that report back and have the key management people respond to the status of it, but that'll be its own agenda item on that end. That's not what this report covers.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: No, I get that. I'm just saying provide it to the committee for the people that weren't here.

Okay. All right. So that's what'll be on the agendas.

MR. JABOUIN: Maybe I can stay with you after the meeting just to make sure I've got that squared up.

DR. LYNCH-WALSH: Okay. All right.

MS. CARTER-LYNCH: We don't have to vote on anything; right? Because I have to go.
